This scholarship provides financial incentives for outstanding students to attend USC and pursue a commission in the United States Army. Eligible students must agree to enroll in Army ROTC and appear before the Army ROTC Scholarship board to compete for the award. Award is $250.00 per semester plus financial assistance by applying the reduced tuition rate for eligible winners.

This scholarship was established in memory of Major Edward J. Murphy, a 1991 graduate of the University of South Carolina's Army ROTC program. Major Murphy is the only USC Army ROTC alumnus to be killed in the line of duty when the CH-47 helicopter he was on crashed in Ghazni, Afghanistan, on April 6, 2005. At the time, he was serving in Operation Enduring Freedom and was assigned to the U.S. Army Southern European Task Force in Camp Ederle, Italy.
