UDALL – DO YOU THINK GREEN or have NATIVE AMERICAN OR ALASKAN ROOTS?

The Morris K. Udall Scholarship is named after a US Senator who valued the earth and its natural resources, as well as the Native Americans who inhabited it. To this end, the Udall Scholarship funds sophomores and juniors of any background who have career interests in the environment. It also funds Native Americans or Alaska Natives who plan careers in the environment, tribal policy or healthcare. EIGHT University students have won the Udall 10 times! Their majors have run the gamut from geology and chemistry, to political science; our Native American winner was an exercise science premed major. Visit www.udall.org for information about the Udall. Applicants must be nominated by the University. Come learn more at the workshop on February 17!
