SELECTION GUIDELINES FOR SWORN PERSONNEL

The selection process used to hire Law Enforcement Officers by the University of South Carolina (University) Division of Law Enforcement and Safety (Division) is very thorough, and normally takes several months to complete. The process is designed to select the very best applicants who live by our values of integrity, accountability, excellence, and human life.

All elements of the selection process use only those rating criteria or minimum qualifications that are job related and are administered, scored, evaluated, and interpreted in a uniform manner. The hiring process is described below:

All entry-level positions at the Division will be posted on the University's jobs website at <https://uscjobs.sc.edu>. All applicants must submit their applications through this website and should ensure all personal contact information (i.e. telephone number and e-mail address) is current and correct. Resumes, cover letters, and other application documentation should be submitted to the University with the application and not submitted directly to the Division.

After the application has been reviewed and approved by the University for compliance with minimum qualifications, it and any other supporting documentation will be sent to the Division. Applicants for employment with the Division are directed to check the USC Jobs website for updates concerning the status of their application.

When the Division receives qualified applications from the University, these applications will be reviewed based on experience, education, and knowledge for the announced positions. After a review of these factors, individuals may be selected to attend an information session hosted by the Division. This session will detail the hiring process, requirements and duties of the position, and other pertinent information related to the process. During this information session, applicants will also be required to sign a Release of Records form and a Conditional Offer of Employment form.

After the information session, applicants will be emailed login information to complete the Ryan-Personal Information Questionnaire (R-PIQ). The R-PIQ is specifically designed to assist in the selection and hiring process for public safety agencies.

If selected to proceed after completion of the R-PIQ, applicants will be scheduled for a first interview. An applicant selected for a first interview will be required to provide specified documents to the Personnel Unit before the interview.

After the first interview, there will be a review of the applicant's paperwork, relevant experience, and recommendations from the interview panel members. Based on these results, applicants may be scheduled for a pre-employment polygraph examination. Applicants will be provided the topical areas for questioning prior to taking the polygraph examination.

Next, if selected to proceed, a thorough background investigation will be completed on the applicant. It is important for the applicant to notify their references that an investigator will be conducting interviews (both by phone and in-person), and to respond to requests for contact promptly.

Next, if an applicant is selected to proceed, he/she will take a personality questionnaire and be scheduled for an interview with a psychologist who specializes in law enforcement-related evaluations. This interview may require up to an hour and a half.

The next phase will require the applicant to take the National Police Officer Selection Test (POST). The POST is an entry-level test that measures arithmetic, reading comprehension, grammar, and incident report writing. Noncertified sworn law enforcement applicants will also take the Physical Ability Test (PAT) required by the South Carolina Criminal Justice Academy (SCCJA). More information about the PAT can be found here: SCCJA Physical Ability Test.

The next phase, if selected, will be an interview with members of the Division's Command Staff. This interview is scheduled Monday through Friday during business hours and may require up to one hour. If other documents are required for the selection process, an applicant will be asked to provide them to the Division at this time.

Lastly, there is a final review of the applicant's qualifications, documentation, interview scores, and testing results. Based on this review, applicants may be selected for final interviews with the Division's Chief of Police. This interview may require up to an hour. Within two business days of this meeting, an applicant can expect a decision regarding an offer of employment.

If an offer of employment is made, all police officer applicants will be scheduled for a physical evaluation by qualified medical personnel. All applicants, regardless of position, will be required to submit to a drug screening. After a final offer of employment is made, an applicant will generally be scheduled for an employment start date within two to four weeks of the final interview.

The employment start date usually corresponds to the start of a University pay period; therefore, there is limited flexibility on this date. However, if conflicts regarding the start of employment date exist, they may be discussed with the Division's Personnel Unit. If the applicant is anticipating more than two days of planned leave during the first six months of employment, the applicant should discuss this matter with the Division's Personnel Unit so scheduling adjustments can be considered.
