Undergraduate Research Journal

Caravel is an online Undergraduate Research Journal which chronicles student research and creativity at USC. To highlight student accomplishments from all disciplines, the innovative journal features embedded audio and video clips to showcase the arts, in addition to publishing traditional research articles and creative writing. These features make Caravel unique among undergraduate research journals.

Since its initial release, 21 articles, including poetry and flute performance, have been published representing students from 15 different majors at 3 different campuses.
