Student Body President

Issy Rushton, the current Student Body President at the University of South Carolina, is a senior from the Gold Coast, Australia majoring in experimental psychology & criminal justice.

During her time at Carolina, Issy has been involved in a variety of organizations. She joined Alpha Chi Omega her freshman year, and served as both the Vice President of Panhellenic Affairs and the Chapter President, leading over 350+ women in leadership development, sisterhood and academic growth. As a University Ambassador, Issy shares her passion for Carolina with prospective students and their families on a weekly basis. Issy has also been an active member in Dance Marathon, The Big Event, Order of Omega and Omicron Delta Kappa.

Since her freshman year, Issy has been extensively involved in Student Government. She first served as Press Secretary to the 2018-19 Student Body Vice President Mills Hayes and then on the Executive Cabinet as Secretary of First Year Involvement to the 2019-20 Student Body President Luke Rankin.

During her term as Student Body President, Issy hopes to invest her passion and love for Carolina back into the student body. With a vision and a plan, Issy aims to enhance the gamecock experience, amplify the student voice & improve campus convenience.
