STUDENT AFFAIRS AND ACADEMIC SUPPORT

J. Rex Tolliver, Vice President for Student Affairs and Academic Support

The Division of Student Affairs and Academic Support (SAAS) advances the mission of the university through student-centered efforts in three priority areas: student experience and post-graduate success; research, scholarship and community impact; and operational excellence. Throughout the 2024–25 academic year, SAAS focused on creating experiences that support every part of our students' development, including personal growth, leadership opportunities, academic support, career preparation and meaningful connections across the Columbia campus. Strategic priorities guide our work across units and the university as a whole to increase access to services, expand programs and strengthen how we serve students. Whether through the growth of career development initiatives, enhancements to health and well-being services or the expansion of student involvement opportunities, the goal is the same. We want to help students reach their academic, personal and professional goals.

Delivering on the promise we make to students when they enroll at USC requires a team of experts in all facets of student affairs and academic support. Our staff are among the most knowledgeable, talented and dedicated in the field.

Every student comes to the university with unique circumstances — academic, cultural, physical and emotional. Our initiatives are designed to create an outstanding experience for students, enhance their success and provide essential resources throughout their time at South Carolina. And we deliver.

WHERE YOU BELONG

USC's student-focused units expanded support, access and engagement across campus. Health and Well-Being programs saw high demand for care and increased outreach, while the Student Success Center, Campus Recreation, Gamecock Entertainment, Fraternity and Sorority Life and the Leadership and Service Center offered students more ways to connect, grow and lead. From tutoring and wellness events to intramurals and leadership training, each unit played a key role in helping students thrive.

DIGITAL OUTREACH @UofSCStudents

Newsletters, digital outreach, communications and marketing efforts help share the impact of SAAS with students, families and campus partners. These tools highlight important programs, services and achievements while keeping the community connected to the student experience beyond the classroom.

The University of South Carolina's parents and families gateway is one of many ways we share information and resources with Gamecock families. The gateway, the Gamecock Family Hub, mobile app, assistance line and social media are useful resources that help families stay engaged and focused on what matters the most — student success.

RESIDENTIAL EXPERIENCE

Living on campus at USC gives students a built-in support system and a place to feel connected. With 28 residence halls in use this year, students found community in buildings like Patterson, Maxcy and Green Quad. Each space offered its own character while providing consistent access to staff, programs and resources that helped students stay grounded and engaged.

School of Hospitality, Retail and Sport Management

Gamecock Entertainment brought students together throughout the year through a wide variety of programs, traditions and signature events. From long-standing campus favorites like Tiger Burn and Homecoming to late-night options like Thursday After Dark and LIVE at Russell House, these events created moments for students to connect and build community.

Collaborative efforts between student leaders and campus partners helped shape a calendar that offered something for everyone. Whether students were cheering on peers at Dance Marathon, enjoying live performances or attending a blood drive, each event helped make campus feel more engaging and personal.

CULTURAL GREEK COUNCIL

The Cultural Greek Council (CGC) at USC is the governing body for four fraternities and sororities that emphasize cultural awareness, inclusion and community. Each chapter promotes diversity and education through programs, events and service. The council is led by eight student officers who serve as liaisons between the university and chapter members. These officers help shape policy, support recruitment, encourage academic success and plan initiatives that highlight cultural identity and strengthen the presence of multicultural Greek life on campus.

STUDENT SUCCESS & ENGAGEMENT

Student success and engagement efforts make a direct impact on how students learn, grow and thrive. Through academic support, involvement opportunities and personal guidance, the division reached students more than 137,000 times this year.

The Student Success unit oversees these efforts at the division level, shaping programs and strategies that support academic progress and connection. Within that unit, the Student Success Center (SSC) focuses on direct academic support through services like tutoring, consultations and academic recovery. While the unit leads the big-picture approach, the center provides hands-on help that meets students where they are.

FROM CAMPUS TO CONFERENCE

USC continues to serve as a convener of important conversations in student development and higher education. This year, the university hosted several key conferences that brought professionals to campus and spotlighted USC's leadership in the field.

The South Carolina Hazing Prevention Summit was a two-day in-person gathering focused on education and solutions, offering multiple sessions each day.

In partnership with the National Association of Student Personnel Administrators and the Southern Association for College Student Affairs, USC also welcomed a record-breaking 93 participants for the New Professionals Institute, a key regional event for early-career student affairs staff.

The National Resource Center for the First-Year Experience and Students in Transition serves as the trusted expert, internationally recognized leader, and clearinghouse for scholarship, policy, and best practice for all postsecondary student transitions. In February 2024, the resource hosted its annual Institute on Developing and Sustaining First-Year Seminars in Columbia, drawing professionals from across the country.

GIFTS THAT MOVE US FORWARD

In 2025, the Division of Student Affairs and Academic Support celebrated its strongest fundraising year in nearly a decade. A key driver of the division's fundraising success is Give4Garnet, USC's annual day of giving that unites the Carolina community to make philanthropic gifts in support of the university. Donors designate gifts to causes and projects they're passionate about including scholarships, student experience and basic needs support.

The division's 2025 Give4Garnet's campaign raised a record breaking $113,000 — the largest total in the division's campaign history. Building on the momentum of 2024, Student Affairs once again led the entire university in donor participation, with generous support from alumni, parents, faculty, staff and friends.

Through the campaign, donors directed gifts towards initiatives with an immediate and tangible impact on students. Contributions to the Carolina Cares Fund provided critical emergency assistance or unexpected hardships, while additional support enhanced mental health services, expanded leadership development opportunities and advanced career readiness programs. Donors also invested in efforts addressing food security and housing stability, ensuring students have the resources they need to thrive.
