MENTAL HEALTH MATTERS

Your college experience is a journey for growth, learning and exploration. It provides an excellent opportunity to build a life of your own and get excited about the future. As college students you may be challenged by difficult situations and unexpected outcomes. It is not unusual to experience anxiety, depression and other uncomfortable feelings during your journey.

Some students may already have concerns about their mental health and perhaps have been diagnosed with a mental health disorder. Sometimes, the freedom of college can lead you to make choices that are not in the best interest of your overall well-being. Always remember, you are not alone. We can help you and most importantly you can help yourself. Seeking help is a sign of strength. Mental health illnesses are manageable and treatable, and people will recover and lead full and productive lives.

University of South Carolina offers an array of mental health resources among our high quality, nationally accredited health care services. Our staff members provide individual and group counseling, prescribe and manage medications and teach strategies to enhance your mental well-being and self-care.

Our online programs help you identify concerns and connect you to resources across campus. Our holistic model ensures that you are cared for in a collaborative, coordinated environment.

Your well-being is a top priority for the University, and it requires your participation. Become familiar with the resources available to you. Seek help early, establish self-care strategies, look out for your friends, set realistic goals and surround yourself with a strong support group of friends and family. Together, we can maintain a resilient, healthy and vibrant Carolina community. Your Mental Health Matters at UofSC.

Dennis Pruitt, Ph.D.
Vice President for Student Affairs and Vice Provost
With our Patient-Centered Medical Home approach to health care that promotes the integration of medical and mental health services, students have access to a variety of health care providers that work together providing the best care possible.

This model creates a collaborative environment and encourages students to build strong relationships with their providers to ensure their health concerns are addressed in a timely and holistic manner.

Counseling & Psychiatry has highly skilled professionals that understand the importance of integrated care and they utilize best practices each day to improve the mental well-being of our students. All of our services are confidential.

ONLINE MENTAL HEALTH RESOURCES

Therapist Assisted Online (TAO)

Students can participate in online therapy. They can meet with a counselor via private, secure video or participate in completely self-directed educational modules designed to help manage mild, minor and/or periodic symptoms.

Online mental health screening (ISP)

Students fill out a simple, 10-minute stress and depression questionnaire, identifying themselves with only a user ID that they select. A campus counselor will personally respond to them with a variety of options that students can choose from to meet their needs for services and self-help.
Hear Me Out is a UofSC Student Health Services podcast hosted by students featuring stories of Gamecocks facing and conquering challenges. Find the podcast on SoundCloud.com and search HearMeOut_UofSC.

Kognito

Kognito is an evidence-based online program that teaches participants how to recognize signs of psychological distress in a fellow student and allows them to practice, through role-play conversations, how to approach at-risk students, discuss their concerns and connect them with resources on- and off-campus.
Our caring professionals are here for students who are dealing with a host of mental health concerns, including depression, anxiety, disordered eating, substance abuse, grief, trauma, as well as many others.
UofSC students going into counseling, social work and health services psychology can apply for training opportunities to help prepare for the transition from graduate work to professional work.

Training Programs offered:

- APA-Accredited Doctoral Internship in Health Services Psychology
- Counselor Training Program for Ed.S. candidates
- Social Work Training Program for MSW candidates
