DUAL ENROLLMENT AND FINANCIAL AID

When students take college level courses while still in high school it can have some impact upon financial aid, both state and federal. Students should be aware of the following points as they consider taking classes:

➤ Can Financial Aid help pay for Dual-Enrollment courses?

Yes, but only with Lottery Tuition Assistance for SC Residents.

Only South Carolina Residents can receive State Lottery Tuition Assistance.

The student must take at least 6 credit hours (2 classes) of dual-credit classes per semester.

The student receives a tuition reduction up to $95 per credit hour.

Since Dual-enrollment classes are currently less than this, the entire tuition is covered.

To be eligible students must complete an application packet.

Dual-enrollment students are not eligible for any other federal or state aid.

➤ Will making bad grades in these courses affect my future financial aid eligibility?

Yes, students must make at least a "C" average to be eligible for financial aid.

Students must meet Satisfactory Academic Progress (SAP) standards to be eligible.

The student must have a 2.0 GPA ("C" average) on all college classes.

The student must pass 67% of all attempted courses. This includes dual-enrollment courses.

If a student fails or drops a dual-enrollment class he will likely lose financial aid eligibility.

If the student has lost financial aid eligibility, he can write an appeal letter explaining the academic deficiency, why it occurred and what changed that shows improvement.

If the appeal is approved the student could regain eligibility for financial aid.

NOTE: Scholarships are not affected by this in the first year of college (see below).

➤ Will taking Dual-Enrollment courses affect my scholarships?

Yes, but probably not in your first year of college.

Scholarships for your Freshman year of college only look at your High School GPA.

If these course grades are included in your High School GPA then they might affect eligibility.

LIFE Scholarship specifically requires a 3.00 or better on the SC UGS GPA (with some exceptions).

At the end of your first year of college only your collegiate GPA is considered.

This would include the GPA on the courses you took in high school.

You must also earn 30 hours at the end of your first year of college.

Dual-Enrollment courses are included in those 30 hours.

If you are an Early High School Graduate, receiving Lottery Tuition Assistance in the Fall semester of your Senior year can prevent you from receiving LIFE scholarship in the Spring.

Instead your first term of LIFE eligibility would be Fall of your first-full-year of college.
