

Designing and Implementing a Free Online Textbook for FYE

Contact Information

Lori Coggins: Southeast Campus, 918-595-7227, email lori.coggins@tulsacc.edu

Sarah Stecher : Metro Campus, 918-595-7064, email sarah.stecher@tulsacc.edu

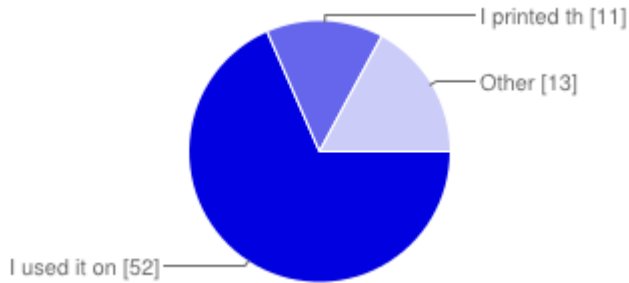

Adam Brennan: Metro Campus, 918-595-7330, email adam.brennan@tulsacc.edu

References

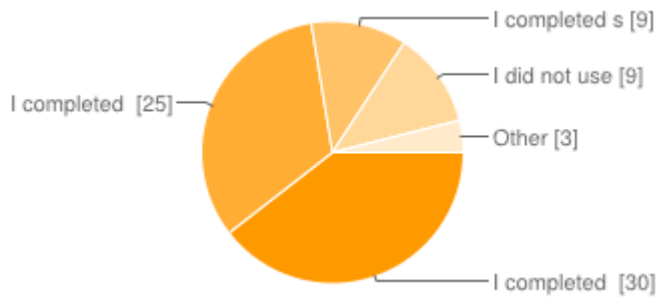

- Christie, Anna, Pollitz, John H., and Cheryl Middleton. "Student Strategies for coping with Textbook Costs and the Role of the library Course Reserves." Portal: Libraries and the Academy 9.(2009): 491-510. Project Muse. Web. 15 September 2014.
- Delespinasse, Paul F. "One Way to Reign In the Cost of Textbooks: Make Them Free." Chronicle of Higher Education 54.23(2008): A38. ERIC. Web. 3 September 2014.
- Kuzma, Ann, John Kuzma, and Harold Thiewes. "Student Perception of Traditional Versus Alternative Textbook Value." Journal of College Teaching & Learning 10.3 (2013): 183-188.
- Stonstebly, Alec, and Jennifer DeJonghe. "Usability Testing, User -Centered Design, and LibGuides Subject Guides: A Case Study." Journal of Web Librarianship 7(2013): 83-94.

Summary of Fall 2014 Student Survey

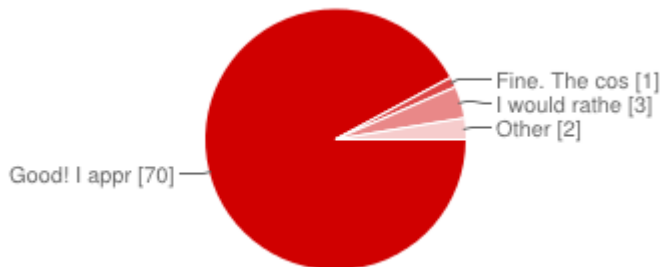

I used it online for readings and activities assigned by my instructor.	68%
I printed the chapters and worksheets instead of reading online.	14%
Other	17%

Indicate approximately how much of the assigned reading you completed.

I completed all assigned readings/activities.	39%
I completed most assigned readings/activities.	33%
I completed some assigned readings/activities.	12%
I did not use the online textbook even though my instructor assigned readings.	12%
Other	4%

How did you feel about not having to purchase a textbook for Academic Strategies?

Good! I appreciated the cost saving.	92%
Fine. The cost of textbooks really isn't an issue for me.	1%
I would rather purchase an actual book than use an online textbook, even if the online textbook is free.	4%