THREAT MANAGEMENT SERVICES

Purpose Statement: The University of South Carolina has established Threat Management Services (TMS) to engage in behavioral threat assessment and management on behalf of the university. TMS functions as a subset of the university's existing Behavioral Intervention Team (BIT), using the BIT's existing intake process as well as receiving direct reports of threats and other troubling or disturbing behavior.

These efforts include:

1. Identifying persons and situations of concern, to include developing and implementing strategies and materials to help encourage the university community to report threats and other troubling or disturbing behavior exhibited by current or former students, current or former employees, and/or visitors;
2. Gathering information from multiple sources (on campus and off-campus) regarding the person or situation of concern;
3. Evaluating the information gathered to determine whether the person or situation of concern poses a threat of violence, self-harm, or both; and
4. Developing, implementing, and monitoring case management plans to mitigate any threat posed, using available resources and requesting the university's assistance to secure resources when needed.

TMS will also engage in an annual review of situations addressed to ensure consistency with its purpose statement, as well as engage in strategic planning for the coming year.

The committee shall provide an annual report to the Enterprise Risk Management Oversight Committee via the Threat Management and Compliance Oversight Committee. This report shall include: notable areas of success and best practices, critical areas of risk or needs for improvement (facilities, training, resources, and personnel), and specifically identify the top three to five institutional risks associated with Threat Management cases and incidents.

Each office will identify a primary and secondary member to serve on the committee to ensure representation continuity and availability in response to incidents. In addition, TMS may involve representative(s) from specific areas or offices -- both for information-gathering and for case management -- as case facts suggest.
