A. Q: At the pre bid the owner asked about a metal building price is this going to be an alternate?

B. Q: The brick listed is no longer made is there an alternate?

1. A: Statesville Brick: Stonehenge has been added to the list of brick manufacturers.

C. Q: If the building is stick built should the walls and the roof be insulated?

1. A: The walls and roof will be insulated in both stick built base bid and kit built alternate.

D. Q: If stick built should the walls and roof be sheeted with OSB plywood or slatted with 2x4?

1. A: The framing in both base bid and alternate should be the same. The difference is the method in which the materials are procured and installed either through the general contractor or a pre-engineered pole building manufacturer.

- E. Q: All the pole building companies are not quoting the metal to match the convocation center. Which by the way do you know what the design is?
1. A: The metal panels need only match the Convocation Center in color. Fabral who provides metal panels to the kit building industry has a panel that matches the Convocation Center.
