POLICY:

The School has two faculty members to server as representatives to the Faculty Senate. The number of faculty senators is determined by the size of the School. Senators will serve for a three-year term.

PROCEDURE:

The faculty of the School will elect members to serve as Faculty Senators. Any person elected who cannot serve the full term will be replaced through another election.

Faculty Senators will report to the faculty at the next regularly scheduled faculty meeting and may make such other reports as appropriate. Faculty Senators for the School of Journalism and Mass Communications will also serve as school representatives to the other school's faculty meetings.
