

Emily Pruitt // photo

Margaux Palmentiero // photo

the Warriors are BACK

Emily Pruitt // photo

Blaring trumpets and beating drums, along with chophouse chants mean one thing: It's a fall Friday night -- and it's time for football. Sweat is dripping and bodies are bumping against each other as the chophouse chants "I believe that we will win," following the lead of new chophouse leaders. Cheerleaders chant "Let's go Wando!" yelling without fear of a sore throat in the morning and jumping around to the fight song. It's the unmistakable feel of a Friday night in the Wando chophouse.

--Abby Vorhees

Emily Pruitt // photo

(Top left, clockwise) Sophomore Bradley Neville plays the baritone during half-time at the football game on Sept. 11 against Lexington. The Warriors lost 40-35. Varsity cheerleaders chant for the football team on Sept. 4 against Ashley Ridge. Senior Maggierose Connell celebrates in the Chophouse during the football game. Senior Ayden Rupp pumps up the Chophouse. Junior Stephen McDaniel blocks Lexington's player from running down field, Sept. 4. Junior Neilly Curry shows off her Hawaiian arm band while cheering for the football team.

Mackenzie Howard // photo

Camille Collins // photo