

EDUCATIONAL ADMINISTRATION, ED.S.

An online Educational Specialist (Ed.S.) program

WHAT WILL I STUDY?

The Educational Specialist program is composed of 33 credit hours of course work:

- 21 credit hours concentrate on various aspects of school district leadership including finance, instruction, policy, and facilities.
- Nine credit hours directly address the superintendency and include a district-based internship experience.
- A nine-hour cognate and one research course make up the balance of the 33 hours.

The courses are fully aligned with the South Carolina requirements for the School District Superintendent certification; completing the degree program will qualify you to receive the certification. If you go on to a doctoral program, hours from this degree can generally be counted toward that program.

The program is geared toward school leaders who aspire to work in district-wide leadership positions and is required for those serving as a superintendent.

CAREER OPTIONS

The Ed.S. degree meets the requirements for School District Superintendent in South Carolina and prepares you for a variety of district-wide leadership positions.

Administrators will increase their marketability for important district-level positions and be better able to address the many challenges faced by school district leaders.

COURSE WORK

The Ed.S. is a highly interactive program. All courses in the Educational Leadership department were recently updated and revised to accommodate an eight-week format and online instruction.

Our instructors employ the best in online instructional techniques and strategies including discussion boards, case studies, simulations, PowerPoint presentations, readings, and research projects.

PROGRAM HIGHLIGHTS

The new eight-week format utilizes 100% online courses.

All courses in the Educational Leadership department have been updated during the last twelve months.

Admissions are accepted on a rolling basis. Apply any time for the following semester.
