INTRODUCTION

The purpose of the Training and Resource Manual for Juvenile Defenders is to provide juvenile defense attorneys with a comprehensive overview of the juvenile justice system and the legal and collateral issues that arise in juvenile delinquency proceedings in South Carolina's family courts. The information presented in the Manual is intended for educational and informational purposes only. It is not intended to provide legal advice or legal opinion on any specific issue. Readers should not rely on this guide as a primary source of legal authority, but should consult official versions of South Carolina statutes, rules, and cases prior to making decisions or taking action in legal proceedings.

Citations to South Carolina statutes and cases used throughout this guide are formatted as concisely as possible, and therefore, are not necessarily appropriate for formal citations in pleadings and papers filed with the family court. South Carolina statutes are cited as § ___-___-___ (e.g., § 63-3-651 instead of S.C. Code Ann. § 63-3-651 (2010)). All S.E.2d cases referred to are South Carolina cases unless otherwise noted. When full statutes are included, emphasis has been added (with bold or underlined font) to some of the statutory language to draw attention to important details or recent changes in the laws.

The materials contained in this manual are as complete and current as possible as of the date of publication, but laws and policies are subject to change at any time without notice. While I have made every attempt to ensure accuracy, errors are inevitable. I would like to be notified of any errors detected so that I can make corrections as needed in future updates.

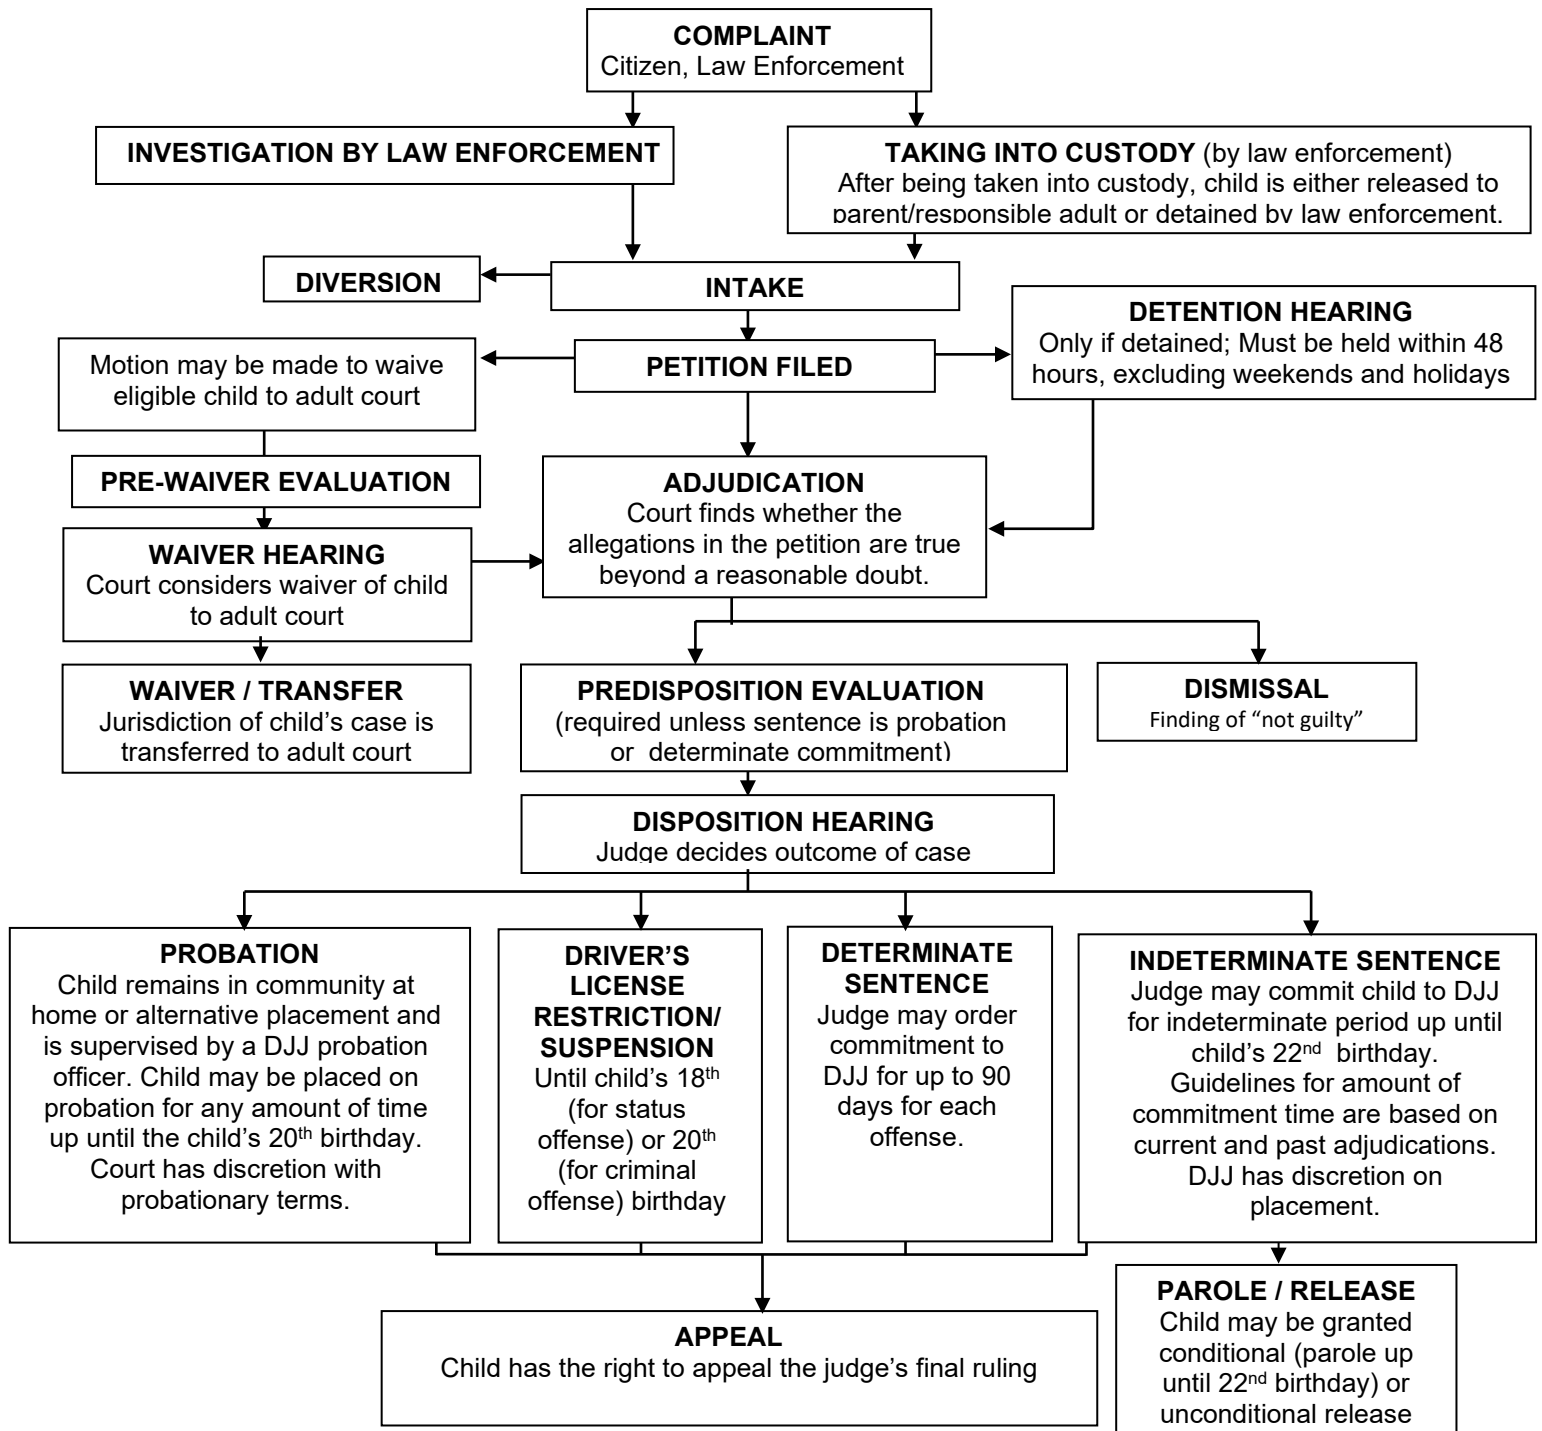

If you have any questions concerning information contained in the Manual, or to report errors or suggestions for future updates, please contact me at the Children's Law Center at 803-777-1646.

CASE FLOW CHART

BASICS OF JUVENILE COURT

DEFINITION OF CHILD

Child” or “juvenile” is defined by § 63-19-20(1) as follows:

- "Child" or "juvenile" means a person less than 18 years of age.
- "Child" or "juvenile" does not mean a person 17 or older who is charged with a Class A, B, C or D felony or a felony which provides for a maximum term of imprisonment of 15 years or more.
- However, a 17-year-old charged with a Class A, B, C or D felony or a felony which provides for a maximum term of imprisonment of 15 years or more may be remanded to the family court for disposition of the charge at the solicitor's discretion.

- Note: § 63-19-20(1) also states that “[a]n additional or accompanying charge associated with the charges contained in this item must be heard by the court with jurisdiction over the offenses contained in this item.” (E.g., If a 17-year-old is charged with burglary in the first degree and petit larceny arising out of the same circumstance, both charges should be heard in general sessions court.)

THE FAMILY COURT PROCESS FOR CHILDREN CHARGED WITH CRIMINAL AND STATUS OFFENSES

INTRODUCTION

Children have special needs and are treated differently than adults by the court system. In South Carolina, the family court has jurisdiction over children charged with criminal and status offenses. Status offenses are those offenses which would not be a crime if committed by an adult, such as incorrigibility (beyond the control of the parents), running away, and truancy (failure to attend school as required by law). A person's age determines whether he or she will be treated as a child and tried in family court or treated as an adult and tried in adult criminal court. South Carolina law defines “child,” for juvenile justice purposes, as a person less than 18 years of age, but the definition excludes a 17-year-old charged with a Class A, B, C, or D felony or a felony that provides for a maximum term of imprisonment of fifteen years or more. However, a 17-year-old excluded under this definition may be remanded or transferred to the family court at the solicitor's discretion. § 63-19-20(1).

PETITION

Any person, including law enforcement, who believes that a child has committed a criminal or status offense, may initiate a family court proceeding involving the child. Under most circumstances, the solicitor or someone authorized by the family court will prepare a petition and file it with the family court. A petition, which is similar to an indictment in the adult system, is a formal document alleging that a child committed a delinquent act. The petition must clearly identify: (1) the facts alleging the child's delinquency; (2) the child's name, age, and address; and (3) the names and addresses of the child's parents or guardian. § 63-19-1030.

After the petition is filed, the child and the child's parents or guardian are notified of the charges against the child. The court will then set a date and time for the adjudicatory hearing, which is the hearing where the judge decides whether the juvenile is "guilty" or "not guilty" of the alleged offense(s).

TAKING INTO CUSTODY

A child may also enter the juvenile justice system upon being taken into custody by law enforcement. The taking into custody is the equivalent of an adult's arrest.

Custodial Interrogation

While in custody, a child has the same rights as an adult as far as police interrogation and the Fifth Amendment privilege against self-incrimination. Children who are in police custody and not "free to leave" must be warned of their rights pursuant to Miranda v. Arizona before being questioned about an alleged delinquent act. The Miranda warning (also referred to as Miranda rights) is a formal warning given by police to suspects in police custody before they are interrogated to preserve the admissibility of their statements in criminal or delinquency court proceedings. The Miranda warning includes informing a suspect that he has the right to remain silent, that anything he says can be used against him in a court of law, that he has the right to the presence of an attorney, and that if he cannot afford an attorney, one will be appointed for him prior to any questioning if he so desires. Miranda v. Arizona, 384 U.S. 436 (1966). The law does not require a child's parents to be present in order for the police to question the child.

DETENTION

When a child is taken into custody by law enforcement, the officer who took the child into custody decides whether to release the child to a parent or responsible adult, or to detain the child, pending a hearing. If the officer determines it is necessary to place the child outside the home until the court hearing, the authorized Department of Juvenile Justice

(DJJ) representative must "make a diligent effort to place the child in an approved home, program, or facility, other than a secure juvenile detention facility, when appropriate and available." § 63-19-820(A).

Children are eligible for detention only if they meet certain criteria defined by law. For example, the law allows for detention of a child who has been charged with a statutory violent crime; had possession of a deadly weapon; or has no suitable alternative placement and it is determined that detention is in the child's best interest or is necessary to protect the child or the public. § 63-19-820(B). A child must be at least eleven to be detained in a detention facility. In addition, children eleven or twelve years of age may only be detained by order of the family court. § 63-19-820(F).

A child taken into custody for a status offense should not be detained more than 24 hours unless a previously issued court order notified the child that further violation of the court's order may result in the child being securely detained in a juvenile detention facility. A child ordered detained for violating a valid court order may be held in secure confinement in a juvenile detention facility for not more than 72 hours, excluding weekends and holidays. § 63-19-820(E).

Detention Hearing

If the officer who took the child into custody has not released the child to a parent or responsible adult, the family court must hold a detention hearing within 48 hours from the time the child was taken into custody, excluding weekends and holidays. A child must be represented by an attorney at this hearing and may only waive this right after consulting with an attorney at least once. The court will appoint an attorney to represent the child if the child does not have one. § 63-19-830(A). The detention hearing may be held without the child's parents or guardian if they cannot be located after a "reasonable effort," and the court will appoint a guardian ad litem for the child. Rule 32, SCRFC.

At the detention hearing, any evidence relevant to the necessity for detaining the child is admissible. The DJJ representative will report to the court on the facts surrounding the case and make a recommendation as to the child's continued detention pending the adjudicatory hearing. At the conclusion of the detention hearing, the judge will determine: (1) whether probable cause exists to justify the detention of the child; and (2) whether it is appropriate and necessary to detain the child further. § 63-19-830(A).

A child who has been ordered detained must be screened by a social worker or psychologist within 24 hours to determine if the child is in need of any services. § 63-19-830(B). A child who is ordered detained is entitled to another hearing: (1) within 10 days following the initial hearing; (2) within 30 days following the 10-day hearing; and (3) at any other time with a showing of good cause. A child must not be detained in a detention facility for more than 90 days unless the court determines exceptional circumstances warrant additional detention. § 63-19-830(A).

INTAKE

When a child is referred to the family court for prosecution, the child will go through a screening process called "intake." The function of intake, which is conducted by DJJ, is to independently assess the circumstances and needs of the child. § 63-19-1010.

During the intake process, a DJJ caseworker at the local DJJ county office interviews the child and the child's parent or guardian. The caseworker will provide information to the child and the parent about the system, collect background information from the child and parent, and have the parent sign releases for school and medical records. The caseworker will also attempt to identify appropriate services that might be available for the child and the child's family. The information gathered at intake, along with the child's school records, past involvement in the juvenile justice system, and other available information, will be used by the DJJ caseworker when making recommendations to the solicitor and to the court.

DIVERSION

If a child meets certain criteria, the solicitor may allow the child's case to be diverted from the juvenile justice system. This means that instead of being prosecuted in the family court, the child will be allowed to participate in a diversion program, such as drug court, the juvenile arbitration program, or a behavior contract. Criteria that would make a child eligible for a diversion program might include being a first-time offender, a nonviolent offender, or drug/alcohol dependent. If the child successfully completes the diversion program, the charges against the child will be dismissed.

WAIVER / TRANSFER OF JURISDICTION

Under certain circumstances, a juvenile who is alleged to have committed a serious offense may be waived to adult criminal court. The waiver process is one of the most significant actions that can take place in family court, as it involves waiving or transferring the child's case from family court to general sessions court where the child is tried as an adult.

State law dictates when a child is eligible to be waived to adult court, based on the age of the child and the type of offense the child is alleged to have committed. Prior to waiving a child to adult court (when waiver is within the court's discretion), the family court must determine, after a full investigation of the facts and circumstances surrounding the case, that it is in the child's or the public's best interest.

A family court judge has the authority to waive: (1) a child of any age charged with murder; (2) a 17-year-old charged with a misdemeanor, a Class E or F felony as defined in § 16-1-20, or a felony which, if committed by an adult, would carry a maximum term of imprisonment of 10 years or less, after full investigation; (3) a 14-, 15-, or 16-year-old charged with a Class A, B, C, or D felony or a felony which, if committed by an adult, would carry a maximum term of imprisonment of 15 years or more, after full investigation and a hearing; and (4) a child 14 or older charged with carrying a weapon on school property, unlawful carrying of a handgun, or unlawful distribution of drugs within a half-mile of a school, after full investigation and a hearing. § 63-19-1210(4)-(6),(9).

A family court judge may waive a child 14 or older charged with an offense which, if committed by an adult, would carry a term of imprisonment of ten years or more and the child has previously been adjudicated or convicted for two prior offenses which, if committed by an adult, would carry a term of imprisonment of ten years or more, after full investigation and hearing. § 63-19-1210(10).

Waiver Hearing

The purpose of the waiver hearing is to determine whether waiver is in the child's and the public's best interest. A child who is being considered for waiver will usually undergo a pre-waiver evaluation prior to the hearing. The evaluation results are compiled into a waiver evaluation report that is presented at the waiver hearing to assist the judge in deciding whether or not to waive the child.

The U.S. Supreme Court has identified eight factors that may be considered by the judge when deciding whether to waive a child to adult criminal court. The eight factors are: (1) the seriousness of the alleged offense and whether waiver is necessary to protect the community; (2) whether the offense was committed in an aggressive, violent, premeditated, or willful manner; (3) whether the alleged offense was against persons or property; (4) whether there is sufficient evidence for a Grand Jury to return an indictment; (5) the desirability of trial and disposition of the entire case in one court when the child's co-defendants in the alleged offense are adults; (6) the level of sophistication and maturity of the child; (7) the child's record and previous criminal or adjudicative history; and (8) the prospects for adequate protection of the public and the likelihood of reasonable rehabilitation of the child by the use of services currently available to the court. Kent v. United States, 383 U.S. 541 (1966).

ADJUDICATION

When a child is referred to family court and the solicitor chooses to prosecute, a hearing is scheduled for the family court judge to determine whether the child is guilty of the alleged offense. At this stage, the child will either admit or deny the allegations in the petition. The child has the right to a trial where the solicitor has the burden of proving beyond a reasonable doubt that the child committed the alleged offense(s). The child also has the option of admitting the allegations and pleading guilty.

Children's Rights

The U.S. Supreme Court has held that children are entitled to fundamental due process rights which are guaranteed to adults by the United States Constitution in proceedings that could result in confinement to an institution in which their freedom would be curtailed. These rights include: (1) the right to notice of the charges and time to prepare for the case; (2) the right to an attorney; (3) the right to confront and cross-examine witnesses; and (4) the privilege against self-incrimination, including the right to remain silent in court. In re Gault, 387 U.S. 1 (1967). The Supreme Court also held that children are guaranteed the right to the adult criminal court standard of "beyond a reasonable doubt" when determining guilt and the right against double jeopardy. In re Winship, 397 U.S. 358 (1970), Breed v. Jones, 421 U.S. 519 (1975).

Some rights guaranteed to adults in criminal prosecutions, however, are not guaranteed to children in South Carolina family court adjudications. These rights include the right to a jury trial and the right to bail. The U.S. Supreme Court held that children do not have a constitutional right to a jury trial because the "juvenile court proceeding" has not yet been held to be "criminal prosecution" within the meaning and reach of the Sixth Amendment. McKeiver v. Pennsylvania, 403 U.S. 528 (1971).

Guilty Plea

If there is ample evidence supporting the allegations of the petition (i.e., sufficient proof that the child committed the alleged offense), the child may decide to give up the right to a trial and plead guilty or admit to the facts of the petition. Before a child pleads guilty, the child's attorney may enter into plea negotiations with the solicitor. Plea negotiations may involve: a reduction of a charge; dismissal of one or more of multiple charges; elimination of the possibility of waiver to adult court; and/or agreements regarding disposition recommendations for the child, such as an agreement by the solicitor to recommend probation. When a child enters a guilty plea, the judge must be satisfied that the plea was entered into voluntarily before adjudicating the child delinquent.

Adjudicatory Hearing

If the child denies the allegations in the petition, an adjudicatory hearing is held before a family court judge. The adjudicatory hearing is comparable to a trial in adult court. The purpose of the adjudicatory hearing is to determine if the child is guilty or not guilty. Before finding a child guilty of an alleged offense and adjudicating the child delinquent, the judge must be satisfied that the evidence proves beyond a reasonable doubt that the child committed the offense.

At the conclusion of the adjudicatory hearing, after all the evidence has been presented, the judge will make a ruling. The judge may determine that the state failed to prove its case beyond a reasonable doubt and find the child not guilty, or the judge may find the child guilty and adjudicate the child delinquent. It is important to note that an adjudication is not a conviction. Adults who are found guilty of an offense are "convicted;" children are "adjudicated delinquent." This distinction is important because state law specifically states that an adjudication does not result in civil disabilities that would ordinarily result from a conviction of the same offense. In addition, the disposition of a child or any evidence given in court does not disqualify the child in future civil service applications or appointments. § 63-19-1410(C).

These hearings are closed to the general public, and only those individuals who have a direct interest in the case or who work for the court may be admitted. § 63-3-590.

DISPOSITION

The final phase of the court process is the dispositional hearing. At this hearing, the judge determines what type of sentence the child will receive to hold the child accountable for his or her actions and prevent future violations of the law.

Predisposition Evaluation

After adjudicating a child delinquent, the family court judge may move directly into the sentencing phase or dispositional hearing, or the judge may order the child to undergo an evaluation prior to sentencing the child. The purpose of the evaluation is to gather information about the child and the child's surroundings, background, and circumstances. The information is then provided to the judge in a report designed to assist the judge in determining an appropriate sentence. In making this determination, the judge will take into account the needs and best interests of the child.

The predisposition evaluation includes psychological, social, and educational assessments that are conducted in the community (community evaluation) or at a DJJ evaluation center. If the child is sent to a DJJ evaluation center, the child will also receive a medical examination and attend school while at the evaluation center. A child may not be committed to an evaluation center for more than 45 days. § 63-19-1440(C).

The evaluation report prepared for the judge includes: information gathered from interviews with the child and the child's parents or guardian; psychological and possibly psychiatric evaluations and tests; information gathered from the child's teachers and school officials; an overview of the child's school and court records; and recommendations regarding treatment and services that would benefit the child.

Dispositional Hearing

While the purpose of the adjudicatory hearing is to determine whether the child is guilty or not guilty of the alleged offense, the purpose of the dispositional hearing is to determine what sentence is most appropriate for the child, taking into consideration the child's best interest and the protection of the community.

At the dispositional hearing, the judge will generally decide between a probationary sentence and a commitment to DJJ. The judge will take the following into account when sentencing the adjudicated child: evaluation reports, seriousness of the offense(s), school records, behavior at home, and prior court history.

Probation

The majority of children adjudicated delinquent are placed on probation. The length of probation may be for any amount of time up until the child's twentieth birthday. When placing a child on probation, the judge will specify what the terms of probation will be, depending on the unique circumstances of the child. The terms of probation may include regular school attendance, random drug testing, restitution, community service, electronic monitoring, curfews, participation in a community program, individual or group counseling, and in- or out-patient treatment.

Commitment

The court may determine that it is necessary to remove a child from the community and may commit the child to the custody of DJJ for placement at one of its institutions. The judge may commit a child to DJJ for either a determinate period of up to 90 days for each offense, or for an indeterminate period not to exceed the child's twenty-second birthday (unless sooner released by DJJ or the Juvenile Parole Board). Before committing a child to DJJ for an indeterminate period, the court must order the child to undergo an evaluation unless the child has been previously evaluated by DJJ and the evaluation is available to the court. § 63-19-1440.

A child who receives an indeterminate commitment will be held at DJJ for an indefinite period of time, not to exceed the child's twenty-second birthday. Once committed, the child is given a set of "guidelines," determined by the state Board of Juvenile Parole (the Parole Board) or DJJ, depending on the adjudicated offense(s). The guidelines set out the minimum and maximum number of months that the child will remain at DJJ and range from 1-3 months to 36-54 months. Guidelines are based on the seriousness of the current offense(s) for which the child is adjudicated and the child's history of previous adjudications. These guidelines, along with information regarding the child's behavior and progress while at DJJ, determine how long the child will be incarcerated. Children may be incarcerated at DJJ longer than their maximum guidelines, up to the child's twenty-second birthday, for reasons including refusal to comply with a treatment plan, negative behavior while committed, or an additional charge. Children may also be released prior to their minimum guidelines for good behavior. A child who has reached his minimum guidelines has the right to appear before the Parole Board periodically for the purpose of parole consideration (eligibility for release). A child appearing before the Parole Board has the right to an attorney. If the child's family cannot afford to hire an attorney, an attorney will be appointed for the child.

Transfer to Department of Corrections

A child serving a commitment to DJJ for a violent offense, who has not been released by his eighteenth birthday, must be transferred to the Youthful Offender Division of DOC. All other children who have not been released sooner must be transferred to the Youthful Offender Division of DOC at age 19. § 63-19-1440(E).

PAROLE

The release of a child committed to DJJ for an indeterminate period is determined by either DJJ or the Board of Juvenile Parole (Parole Board). DJJ is the releasing entity if the child was adjudicated delinquent and committed for a status offense, misdemeanor, or probation violation for a status offense or misdemeanor. The Parole Board is the releasing entity if the child was adjudicated delinquent and committed to DJJ for any other offense. The releasing entity may grant a child a conditional or unconditional release. If a child is granted a conditional release, the child will be supervised by the local DJJ county office for a period of time determined by the releasing entity. The specified period of conditional release may not exceed the child's twenty-second birthday. A child on conditional release may be required to pay restitution, perform community service, or complete a local aftercare program in the community. § 63-19-1850.

RIGHT TO APPEAL

A child has the right to appeal the family court judge's decision regarding disposition. A child can only seek review of a final order (i.e., the judge must have made a ruling as to disposition in the case.) If a case is appealed, it is reviewed by the South Carolina Court of Appeals.

EXPUNGEMENT OF A CHILD'S RECORD

A person who has been taken into custody for, charged with, or adjudicated delinquent for having committed a status offense or a nonviolent crime may petition the court for an order expunging all official records relating to (1) being taken into custody; (2) the charges filed against the person; (3) the adjudication; and (4) the disposition. A person who has a prior adjudication for an offense that would carry a maximum term of imprisonment of five years or more if committed by an adult may not petition the court. The court will only grant the expungement order if it finds the person is at least 18, has successfully completed any dispositional sentence imposed, has not been subsequently adjudicated for or convicted of any criminal offense, and does not have any pending criminal charges. If the person was found not guilty in a family court adjudicatory hearing, the court shall grant the expungement order regardless of the person's age and the person must not be charged a fee for the expungement. § 63-19-2050.

DJJ INTAKE

DJJ INTAKE SERVICES

DJJ is required to provide intake services for children brought before South Carolina's family courts. The function of intake is to "independently assess the circumstances and needs of children referred for possible prosecution in the family court." § 63-19-1010(A).

While the solicitor must review DJJ's recommendations as to intake, it is the solicitor who must make the final decision regarding whether to prosecute. If the solicitor decides circumstances do not warrant prosecution, the intake counselor must assist the child and family by making referrals for services as appropriate. If the child is adjudicated delinquent or found by the court to have violated probation, the intake counselor is responsible for recommending appropriate dispositional options to the court, including services available to the child. § 63-19-1010.

Note: DJJ may change its recommendation in court or prior to a court hearing if any of the child's charges have been reduced or dismissed as part of a plea bargain.

THE INTAKE PROCESS

During the intake process, DJJ gathers information about the child. The law states that before the hearing of a child's case, the judge shall "cause an investigation of all facts pertaining to the issue to be made." § 63-19-1030(C). The investigation should consist of an examination of the child's age, habits, surroundings, home environment, prior court history, and parents' habits and character. Prior to the hearing, the court may also order that the child undergo a mental examination by a psychologist or psychiatrist. If the child attends school, a report on the child must be obtained from the school that the child attends. § 63-19-1030(C).

Statements of the child contained in DJJ's files "MUST NOT be furnished to the solicitor's office as part of the intake review procedure, and the solicitor's office MUST not be privy to these statements in connection with its intake review." § 63-19-1010(A) (emphasis added).

NOTICE OF SERVICE AND SUMMONS

NOTICE

"In any case where the delinquency proceedings may result in the commitment to an institution in which the child's freedom is curtailed, the child or the child's parents or guardian must be given notice with particularity of the specific charge or factual allegations to be considered at the hearing. The notice must be given as soon as practicable and sufficiently in advance to permit preparation." § 63-19-1030(D).

Rule 35(b), SCRFC requires notice of the adjudicatory hearing to be served on both parents, and if the child is not living with the parents, the guardians or persons with whom the child resides.

SERVICE OF SUMMONS

Under § 63-3-570:

- Service of summons and process of the family court in delinquency proceedings shall be made as provided by law for service in the court of common pleas.

- If the judge determines that personal service is impracticable, the judge may order service by registered or certified mail, addressed to the last known address, or by publication thereof, or both.
- It shall be sufficient to confer jurisdiction if service is effected at least 48 hours before the time fixed in the summons or process for the return thereof.
- Service of summons, process, or notice may be made by any suitable person under the court's direction.

Anyone summoned who fails to appear without reasonable cause may be proceeded against for contempt of court. If the summons or process cannot be served, the court finds that the service will be ineffectual, or the court finds that the child's welfare requires that child be brought into the court's custody, a warrant may be issued for the child, parent or guardian of the child, or any person who has control or possession of the child, to immediately bring the child before the court. § 63-3-580.

PROSECUTION

PROSECUTION, DIVERSION, OR DISMISSAL

The solicitor or the solicitor's "authorized assistant" is given authority to determine whether a child should be prosecuted in family court. In making this decision, the solicitor must review DJJ's recommendations regarding the child, which are based on information gathered at intake. § 63-19-1010(A).

Upon receiving a case referred for prosecution, the solicitor should review the child's court records and case information to ensure that the child was properly charged. If the solicitor determines, based on the available information, the charges are appropriate, the solicitor will decide whether the case should be prosecuted, referred to a diversion program, or dismissed.

If the solicitor determines that the case should be referred to a diversion program, it is not necessary to file a juvenile petition. If prosecution is appropriate, the case continues and an adjudicatory hearing is scheduled.

MOTION FOR DISMISSAL

Children, like adults, have the constitutional right to a speedy trial. Although there is no requirement regarding the time frame in which a case must be prosecuted in family court, the SC Rules of Family Court establish a time frame. Under Rule 35, SCRFC, the adjudicatory hearing must be set at the "earliest practicable date but no later than 40 days from the filing of petition unless delayed by order of the court, which order shall set forth the reasons for the delay."

Failure to schedule the adjudicatory hearing within the prescribed 40-day period can only be used as a ground for dismissal "upon an affirmative showing of material prejudice." Rule 35, SCRFC.

SPECIAL RESPONSIBILITIES OF A PROSECUTOR

RULE 3.8 of the South Carolina Rules of Professional Conduct provides standards for solicitors in criminal cases. The Rule states that a prosecutor must:

- refrain from prosecuting a charge the prosecutor knows is not supported by probable cause; (A prosecutor has the responsibility of a minister of justice and not simply that of an advocate. This includes specific obligations to see that the defendant is accorded procedural justice and that guilt is decided on the basis of sufficient evidence.)
- make reasonable efforts to assure the accused has been advised of the right to, and the procedure for obtaining, counsel and has been given reasonable opportunity to obtain counsel;
- refrain from trying to obtain a waiver of important pretrial rights from an unrepresented defendant;
- make timely disclosure to the defense of all evidence or information known to the prosecutor that tends to negate the guilt of the accused or mitigates the offense, and, in connection with sentencing, disclose to the defense and to the court all unprivileged mitigating information known to the prosecutor, except when the prosecutor is relieved of this responsibility by a protective order; (A prosecutor may seek an appropriate protective order from the court if disclosure of information to the defense could result in substantial harm to an individual or to the public interest.)
- except for statements necessary to inform the public of the nature and extent of the prosecutor's action and that serve a legitimate law enforcement purpose, refrain from making extrajudicial comments that have a substantial likelihood of heightening public condemnation of the accused and exercise reasonable care to prevent investigators, law enforcement personnel, employees or other persons assisting or associated with the prosecutor in a criminal case from making an extrajudicial statement that the prosecutor would be prohibited from making under Rule 3.6 or Rule 3.8. (This rule supplements Rule 3.6, which prohibits extrajudicial statements that have a substantial likelihood of prejudicing an adjudicatory proceeding. In the context of a criminal prosecution, a prosecutor's extrajudicial statement can create the additional problem of increasing public condemnation of the accused. A prosecutor should avoid comments which have no legitimate law enforcement purpose and have a substantial likelihood of increasing public opprobrium of the accused. This is not intended to restrict the statements which a prosecutor may make which comply with Rule 3.6(b) or 3.6(c).)

PLEA AGREEMENTS

In Santobello v. New York, 404 U.S. 257 (1971), the Court established that state prosecutors must fulfill the promises they make to defendants when those promises serve as inducements to defendants to plead guilty." See Sprouse v. State, 585 S.E.2d 278 (S.C. 2003).

INDIGENT DEFENSE

RIGHT TO COUNSEL

A child has the right to counsel in any case "where the delinquency proceedings may result in commitment to an institution in which the child's freedom is curtailed." The child or the child's parent must be advised of this right to counsel in the written notice of the court proceedings and allegations against the child. This notice must also advise the child or child's parent that an attorney will be appointed to represent the child if they are unable to hire an attorney. § 63-19-1030(D).

DETERMINATION OF INDIGENCY

When determining whether a child qualifies for an appointed attorney, the court considers the parents' financial ability to hire an attorney for the child. This is usually handled through a screening process that determines indigency according to a baseline weekly income that increases according to the number of dependents. If the parents are able but refuse to hire an attorney, the court is authorized to appoint an attorney and order the parents to reimburse the Indigent Defense Fund or pay the court-appointed attorney in an amount determined by the court. § 63-19-1040.

CONFLICTS

The SC Commission on Indigent Defense contracts with attorneys (referred to as 608 contract attorneys) to handle conflicts that arise in the public defenders' offices. If a child qualifies for a public defender and there is a conflict, a 608 contract attorney will be appointed to represent the child. If a 608 contract attorney is not available, a member of the private bar will be appointed. If the case is unusually complicated or involves a more serious offense, the judge may decide to appoint a specific attorney.

WAIVER OF RIGHT TO COUNSEL

In a case where the proceedings may result in commitment to an institution in which the child's freedom is curtailed, the judge must inform the parent and child of their right to counsel, and specifically ask them to consider whether they do or do not waive this right. § 63-19-1030(D). While the statute allows for the waiver of right to counsel, it is standard practice for family court judges to require children to be represented by an attorney at all court hearings to ensure the child's rights are protected. A child may waive the right to counsel at the detention hearing only after consulting at least once with an attorney. § 63-19-830(A).

RULES FOR CONDUCT OF HEARING

CONDUCT OF HEARINGS. § 63-3-590.

All cases of children must be dealt with as separate hearings by the court and without a jury. The hearings must be conducted in a formal manner and may be adjourned from time to time. The general public must be excluded and only persons the judge finds to have a direct interest in the case or in the work of the court may be admitted. The presence of the child in court may be waived by the court at any stage of the proceedings. Hearings may be held at any time or place within the county designated by the judge. In any case where the delinquency proceedings may result in commitment to an institution in which the child's freedom is curtailed, the privilege against self-incrimination and the right of cross-examination must be preserved. In all cases where required by law, the child must be accorded all rights enjoyed by adults, and where not required by law the child must be accorded adult rights consistent with the best interests of the child.

RULES FOR CONDUCT OF HEARINGS. § 63-3-600.

Hearings shall be conducted in accordance with the rules of court and the court may consider and receive as evidence the result of any investigation had or made by the probation counselor; provided that either party shall be entitled to examine the probation counselor under oath thereon. The court may adjourn the hearing from time to time for proper cause. Where a petitioner's needs are so urgent as to require it, the court may make a temporary order for support pending a final determination.

ADMISSIBILITY OF DOCUMENTS INTO EVIDENCE

Rule 7, SCRFC, is relied upon frequently in family court proceedings involving children. Under this rule, the following documents and written statements are admissible into evidence without requiring that the persons or institutions issuing the documents or statements be present in court:

- A written statement of a child's school attendance signed by the school principal or duly authorized school official;
- The school report card showing a child's records of attendance, grades, and other pertinent information, provided that such report is released at periodic intervals by the school;
- A physician's written statement showing that a patient was treated at certain times and the type of ailment;
- A written DSS or other agency report, reporting the home investigation or any other report required by the court (unless the agency is party); and
- An employer's written statement showing wages, W-2 statement, income tax returns, and other reports of like nature.

CHECKLIST OF IMPORTANT ISSUES TO CONSIDER

IS THE CHILD COMPETENT?

If the court has reason to believe a child lacks the capacity to understand the proceedings against him or to assist counsel in his defense, the court should order that the child undergo a competency evaluation. § 44-23-410. (See section on Competency.)

The following indicators may warrant a referral for an evaluation:

- The child is under 12 years of age.
- The child does not appear to understand the attorney's or judge's questions or what is happening during the attorney/client conferences or court proceedings.
- The child has a history of mental health problems, has been in and out of hospitals, or is or has been on medication.
- The child is in learning disabled (LD), emotionally handicapped (EH) or other special education classes.

IS THE CHILD SAFE?

If there are any indicators that the child is being abused or neglected, the child may need to be taken into emergency protective custody (EPC) by the court and placed with Department of Social Services (DSS).

A DSS home investigation should be ordered if:

- there are signs of abuse or neglect; or
- the child's parent appears to have issues affecting her or his ability to properly care for the child, such as a substance abuse problem or a severe mental illness.

SHOULD A GUARDIAN AD LITEM BE APPOINTED FOR THE CHILD?

In certain situations, the judge may appoint an attorney to act as guardian ad litem (GAL) for a child in a delinquency case. The appointed GAL is responsible for ensuring that the child fully understands the court proceedings and that the child's rights are being protected.

A GAL should be appointed when:

- the child's parent is the victim;
- the parent cannot be found or willfully fails to come to court;
- the parent does not seem to be concerned with the child's best interests; or

- the parent cannot understand the proceedings because of mental incapacity.

SHOULD A PSYCHOEDUCATIONAL EVALUATION BE ORDERED?

If the child is struggling in school, is in regular classes, and has never been tested for learning disabilities, the judge may order that the school perform a psychoeducational evaluation to assess whether the child is properly placed or is in need of special education or related services. The order should include an amount of time in which to have the evaluation completed to ensure a timely response.

IS THERE A NEED TO DESIGNATE A LEAD AGENCY?

The court has the authority to designate a state agency to act as lead agency to provide a family assessment to the court. The assessment must at least include: the family's strengths and weaknesses; problems interfering with the family's functioning and the child's best interests; and recommendations for a comprehensive service plan to strengthen the family and help resolve these issues. The lead agency is required to provide the family assessment to the court in a timely manner. § 63-19-1410(2).

The court will conduct a hearing to review the proposed plan and adopt a plan as part of its order that will best meet the needs and further the best interests of the child. In developing a comprehensive plan, the court should consider: additional testing or evaluation that may be needed; economic services available to the family; counseling services; and any other programs or services appropriate to the child's and family's needs. Id.

The lead agency is also responsible for monitoring compliance with the court ordered plan and must report to the court as ordered. Id.

ROLE AND DUTIES OF JUVENILE DEFENSE COUNSEL

ROLE AND DUTIES OVERVIEW

As an attorney representing a juvenile in family court, you have an ethical obligation to represent your client's expressed interests at all stages of the delinquency proceedings.

You owe the same duties required by the South Carolina Rules of Professional Conduct to your juvenile client as you would to an adult client. You have a responsibility to provide your juvenile client with a clear understanding of his or her legal rights and obligations, zealously assert your client's position, and ensure that your client has a clear understanding of the court proceedings and possible outcomes, including the collateral consequences of a juvenile adjudication.

While maintaining a relationship with your client's parents or guardian is important, that relationship should never interfere with your duty to your juvenile client or the expressed interests of your client. This is true whether you were appointed by the court to represent the juvenile or retained and paid by the juvenile's parent or some other person. It is important to remember that the attorney-client privilege does not extend to the child's parents.

Juvenile defenders, in addition to being familiar with all applicable constitutional law, state statutes, case law, and court rules, should have an understanding of issues specific to the representation of children, including DJJ's policies and procedures, available community-based alternatives and services, brain and adolescent development research, special education, and collateral consequences of juvenile adjudications and dispositions.

On June 7, 2013, the South Carolina Commission on Indigent Defense formally adopted the Performance Standards for Indigent Defense in Juvenile Cases, along with the general Performance Standards for Public Defenders and Assigned Counsel. Both sets of Standards became effective July 1, 2013.

In addition to the above-mentioned Performance Standards, the following publications provide additional analysis of the role of the juvenile defender and best practices:

- ❖ National Juvenile Defense Standards (2012, National Juvenile Defender Center)
- ❖ Role of Juvenile Defense Counsel in Delinquency Court (2009, National Juvenile Defender Center)
- ❖ American Bar Association Model Rules of Professional Conduct

PERFORMANCE STANDARDS FOR INDIGENT DEFENSE IN JUVENILE CASES

The following Performance Standards for Indigent Defense (Public Defenders and Assigned Counsel) were formally adopted by the SC Commission on Indigent Defense on June 7, 2013, effective July 1, 2013. Counsel in juvenile cases should also refer to the general Performance Standards for Public Defenders and Assigned Counsel as adopted by the Commission on June 7, 2013, effective July 1, 2013.

These performance standards are not intended to provide a new basis for a claim of ineffective assistance of counsel. They are benchmarks taken from existing national standards, and do not and cannot redefine the existing precedents that set forth the basis for determining when reversible error has occurred.

Section 1. Purpose of Standards

Juvenile delinquency proceedings in the South Carolina Family Court are fundamentally different than adult criminal cases. Judges are charged by the South Carolina Code of Laws with acting in the “best interests of the child,” this emphasis on the rehabilitation of the child contrasts with the more punitive model used by the adult criminal justice system. These standards aim to provide guidance to appointed counsel in juvenile matters with particular emphasis on the distinctive requirements of the South Carolina juvenile justice system.

Section 2. Attorney Role

Guideline 2.1 Function of Defense Counsel. The participation of counsel for juveniles subject to delinquency proceedings in Family Court is essential to the administration of justice and to the fair and accurate resolution of issues at all stages of these proceedings.

Guideline 2.2 Role of Counsel. Counsel’s role is to insure that the interests and rights of the juvenile client are fully protected and to insure that the juvenile is afforded due process. Additionally, counsel in juvenile cases should be familiar with dispositional alternatives and services, should investigate the client’s social, educational, and psychological history, and should advocate a plan approved by the client generally proposing the least restrictive alternative.

Guideline 2.3 Attorney Qualification and Training.

- a. In order to provide competent representation, counsel should know the South Carolina Code of Laws, the South Carolina Rules of Evidence, the South Carolina Rules of Family Court, and the South Carolina Rules of Criminal Procedure.
- b. Counsel should be cognizant of the roles of the Department of Juvenile Justice (DJJ), the Department of Social Services (DSS), the Department of Disabilities and Special Needs (DDSN), and the Department of Mental Health (DMH). Counsel should be aware of the various service delivery systems and placement processes for these agencies.
- c. Counsel should be encouraged to attend continuing legal education seminars devoted specifically to the function and procedures of representing juveniles subject to Family Court proceedings.
- d. Counsel should review and follow the Performance Standards for noncapital representation as they apply to qualification and training.

Guideline 2.4 Independence of Counsel. It is essential that the professional independence of counsel and the integrity of the attorney-client relationship be maintained at all times.

SCCID Performance Standards for Indigent Defense in Juvenile Cases

Section 3. Attorney Responsibilities

Guideline 3.1 Acting Diligently and Promptly. Counsel is bound by Rule 1.3 of the Rules of Professional Conduct to act with reasonable diligence and promptness in representing the client. Counsel should be prompt in all dealings with the court, including attendance, submissions of motions briefs and proposed orders, and in dealing with clients and other interested parties.

Guideline 3.2 Acting Ethically. Counsel in a juvenile case must know and follow the standards of professional conduct set forth in the Rules of Professional Conduct and decisions of the South Carolina Supreme Court.

Section 4 Lawyer-Client Relationship

Guideline 4.1 Client Meetings. A lawyer should meet with the client as soon as practicable and as often as necessary to ascertain all relevant facts and matters related to the defense known to the client.

Guideline 4.2 Keeping Client Informed. The lawyer has a duty to keep the client informed on all developments in the case and of the lawyer's efforts and progress with respect to all phases of the representation. This duty may extend also to a parent or guardian whose interests are not adverse to the juvenile, subject to the confidentiality requirements of the South Carolina Rules of Professional Conduct Guideline 4.3 Confidentiality. Counsel should seek to establish a relationship of trust and confidence with the client. The lawyer should explain to the client that full disclosure to counsel of all facts known to the client is necessary for effective representation and, at the same time, explain that the lawyer's obligation of confidentiality makes the client's disclosures to counsel privileged.

Guideline 4.4 Client Duty and Responsibility. A lawyer has a duty to his juvenile client to protect confidentiality and to consult with his client just as in an adult case. This duty to determine how to best approach the case and any plea negotiations must be undertaken with the client being fully informed. In juvenile cases this must be done with the client's best possible legal resolution of the case in mind and not the best interest of the parent or guardian, which may at times conflict with the client's interest.

Guideline 4.5 Resolving Conflicts of Interest. The lawyer's principal duty is always first and foremost the representation of the client's legitimate interest and not personal or professional advantage or convenience. Conflicts of Interest rules should always be followed. The potential for conflict of interest between a juvenile and his or her parents should be clearly recognized and acknowledged. All parties should be informed that counsel represents the juvenile and that in the event of a disagreement between a parent or guardian and the juvenile, the attorney is required to serve the interests of the juvenile.

Guideline 4.6 Advice to Give Client. A lawyer should advise the juvenile client with complete candor concerning all aspects of the case. This includes a frank estimate of the probable outcome.

Guideline 4.7 Testimony by Juvenile. It is the duty of the attorney to protect the juvenile defendant's privilege against self-incrimination. If the client elects not to testify then the attorney should insist on the recognition of this right.

Guideline 4.8 Decision Making. Certain decisions related to the conduct of the case are to be made by the lawyer and others by the client. The client is ordinarily responsible, after being fully advised and consulting with Counsel for determining:

- i. The plea to be entered at adjudication;
- ii. Whether to cooperate in diversion program;
- iii. Whether to be tried as a juvenile or an adult, where the client has the choice;
- iv. Whether to testify on his or her own behalf.

Decisions concerning what witnesses to call, whether and how to conduct cross-examination, what motions should be made, and similar strategic and tactical decisions are the exclusive province of the lawyer after full consultation with the client.

Section 5 Attorneys' Initial Duties

Guideline 5.1 Early Release. Whenever the nature and circumstances of the case permit, counsel should explore the possibility of diversion from the formal juvenile court process.

If the client is detained, the lawyer should immediately consider all steps that may in good faith be taken to secure the child's release from custody. At detention hearings the lawyer should be present and prepared, where circumstances warrant, to present facts and arguments relating to the jurisdictional sufficiency of the allegations, the appropriateness of the place and criteria used for detention, and any non-compliance with procedures for referral to court or for detention. The attorney should also be prepared to present evidence with regard to the necessity for detention and a plan for pretrial release of the juvenile. Counsel must be familiar with and able to use the DJJ guidelines for release in preparation for and presentation at detention hearings.

Guideline 5.2 Visiting Detention Facility. Whenever the juvenile is detained, the attorney should regularly and periodically visit the juvenile. The attorney should keep records of these visits.

Section 6 Pretrial Duties

Counsel should be held to the same standards set forth in the non-capital representation regarding Pretrial Duties.

Section 7 Transfer Hearings

Counsel is responsible for being familiar with the provisions of SC Code of Laws Section 63-19-1210 and its application to the client. Counsel should be ready to argue for or against transfer of jurisdiction to or from the Family Court based on the best interests of the client. Counsel must prepare for Transfer Hearings and consider the need for expert witnesses or other witnesses necessary to support the position of the client regarding the transfer of jurisdiction.

Section 8 Plea Negotiations

Guideline 8.1 The client should be made aware of any plea negotiations. Clients should be aware of any plea negotiations as soon as practical to inform them. Counsel is responsible for explaining and making sure the juvenile understands the concept of plea bargaining in general as well as the details of any specific plea offer made to the client. Counsel must advise the client on all possible consequences of an adjudication, including collateral consequences. Where it appears that the client's participation in a psychiatric, medical, social, or other diagnostic or treatment regime would be significant in obtaining a desired result, the lawyer should so advise the client and seek the client's consent to participation in such a program.

Section 9 Trial/Adjudication

Guideline 9.1 Trial/Adjudication Standards. The trial of a case in Juvenile Court requires much if not all the same skills and preparation as required in any noncapital trial handled by an attorney. Therefore, close attention should be paid to the provisions for handling a trial set forth in these Performance Standards for noncapital cases by indigent defense attorneys.

Guideline 9.2 Disposition without Trial. Counsel must be aware of any alternative programs, along with inquiring if the minor would qualify for such diversion program, which may be available and allow the case to be disposed of without trial. This would include, but not be limited to, negotiated guilty pleas, alternative dispositions, deferrals and diversion programs. As noted above, this requires counsel to be informed about all these possible resolutions and to have fully investigated them in the context of the client's case.

The client must also be fully informed regarding the alternatives to trial and the advantages and possible disadvantages of a trial versus a negotiated plea or diversion program or other disposition.

If the client elects to enter into any plea or any of the other dispositions available to him or her it is the attorney's responsibility to be sure the client is properly informed and prepared for the Court hearing that will impose this resolution short of trial, including the Court procedures and format, his or her expected conduct and the possible outcomes / sentences.

Guideline 9.3 Trial of the case. Counsel must prepare for the trial just as described in the Performance Standards for non-capital cases except for matters relating to juries since a jury is not available in juvenile adjudications.

Section 10 Disposition/Sentencing

Guideline 10.1 Counsel's Role at Disposition Hearings. The active participation of counsel at disposition is often essential to the protection of clients' rights and to furtherance of their legitimate interest. Counsel must know and be ready to address the DJJ Guidelines for disposition as they relate to the client's case. Counsel must prepare for the disposition just as described in the sentencing provisions of the Performance Standards for non-capital cases while being aware of all the various options available for disposition in the juvenile's case. This can be the most valuable service to a client by an attorney.

Guideline 10.2 Duty to Investigate. Counsel should promptly investigate all sources of evidence including any reports or other information that will be brought to the court's attention, including all witnesses who are material to the disposition decision. Whether or not social and other dispositional reports are readily available, the lawyer has a duty independently to investigate the client's circumstances, including such factors as previous history, family relations, economic condition and any other information relevant to disposition. The lawyer should look to secure the assistance of expert personnel needed for purposes of evaluation, consultation, or testimony with respect to formation of a dispositional plan.

Guideline 10.3 Client Counseling. Prior to disposition counsel should explain to the client the nature of the disposition hearing, the issues involved, and the alternatives open to the court. When psychological or psychiatric evaluations are ordered by the State or used by defense counsel, Counsel should fully discuss and explain the process of these procedures to the client.

Guideline 10.4 Hearing Duties. It is Counsel's duty to insist that proper procedure be followed throughout the disposition stage and that orders entered be based on adequate reliable evidence. Counsel may seek to compel the presence of witnesses whose statements of fact or opinion are before the court or the production of other evidence on which conclusions of fact presented at disposition are based.

Guideline 10.5 Counseling After Disposition. At disposition counsel should urge the Court to apply dispositional requirements that fit the client and avoid placing a counterproductive burden on the client and his or her parent or guardian. Counsel has a duty to obtain the Court's Final Order and review it carefully. Counsel should file objections to any errors or irregularities in the order and seek a hearing. If the Court refuses to correct its order after the hearing, Counsel should consider filing an appeal on behalf of the client seeking appropriate relief. When a dispositional decision has been reached, it is Counsel's duty to explain the nature, obligations and consequences of the disposition to the client and his or her parent or guardian and to urge upon the client the need for accepting and cooperating with the dispositional order. If appeal from either the adjudicative or dispositional decree is contemplated, the client should be advised of that possibility, but the attorney must counsel compliance with the court's decision during the interim.

Guideline 10.6 Continuing Duty to Client. The lawyer's responsibility to the client does not necessarily end with dismissal of the charges or entry of a final dispositional order. The attorney should be prepared to counsel and render assistance to the juvenile in securing appropriate legal services for the client in matters arising from the original proceeding. No matter the outcome, if Counsel feels that counseling services are necessary for the juvenile and/or the parent or guardian, Counsel should do everything in his/her power to assist them in receiving this assistance. Counsel should embrace a holistic approach to the client that not only addresses the immediate legal needs of the client but also seeks to place the client in the best position possible to succeed after the Court matters are resolved.

Section 11 Post-Dispositional Hearing Duties

Guideline 11.1 Post-Trial Matters. Counsel must be informed about and be able to handle contempt proceedings and probation violation matters. The Performance Standards for non-capital representation apply to Counsel in these matters as well.

BASIC STEPS OF REPRESENTATION PRIOR TO THE ADJUDICATORY HEARING

This section briefly discusses the steps defense counsel should take prior to the adjudicatory hearing. It is very general and does not address the representation of juveniles in detention, at risk of being transferred to adult court, or with special circumstances (e.g., mental health issues; juvenile sex offenders; and lesbian, gay, bisexual, and transgender [LGBT] youth).

UPON BEING APPOINTED OR HIRED TO REPRESENT A JUVENILE

1. Meet with your client as soon as practicable in order to gather information about your client's background and the alleged offense to assess your client's competency and prepare for court hearings.
2. File a Rule 5 Motion for Discovery and a Brady Motion with the clerk of the family court and serve it on the solicitor.
3. Contact the solicitor handling the case to discuss the status of the case, possible diversion programs that may be appropriate for your client, and potential plea negotiations.
 - Until you meet with your client, you will not know if pleading guilty is an option, but it can be helpful to have an idea of what the solicitor is willing to consider, as far as plea negotiations, when you meet with your client.
4. Contact the local DJJ office to discuss your client's case.
 - Find out what DJJ will be recommending to the court regarding potential evaluations and sentencing.
 - Inquire about available and appropriate community services for your client and client's family.
 - DJJ should also have your client's school records and prior court history available for your review.
5. Review the discovery received from the solicitor.
 - This should include the petition, incident reports, your client's prior record, any written or recorded oral statements, and any other discoverable information under Rule 5, SCRCrimP or Brady v. Maryland, 373 U.S. 83 (1963), which requires the disclosure of exculpatory evidence.
6. Retain independent experts for mental health evaluations or other evaluations as needed, instead of relying on the reports of DJJ or DMH.
7. Visit and familiarize yourself with the scene of the alleged delinquent act.
8. Determine the need to enlist the assistance of an investigator.
9. Explore all possible defenses.
10. Interview all potential defense witnesses and character witnesses and prepare them for court.
11. If after thoroughly investigating the facts of the case and exploring all possible defenses there appears to be sufficient evidence to prove the child committed the alleged offense, discuss with your client the possibility of entering a guilty plea.
12. The decision to plead guilty or go to trial is ultimately the client's decision, but as the child's attorney, you should advise your client of the benefits of a plea and give your professional opinion as to what the best course of action would be under the circumstances.
13. If your client wishes to plead guilty, and you feel confident your client is competent and understands the implications of giving up the right to a trial, negotiate with the solicitor for a plea agreement that will result in the best possible outcome for your client.
 - When negotiating, be creative and offer suggestions for sentencing options that are the least restrictive for your client but that address the solicitor's concerns.

- When discussing a plea offer with your client, explain the family court judge always has discretion as to sentencing, and that, even if there is a negotiated plea, the judge may refuse to accept the negotiated terms, but then must allow the child to withdraw his or her plea.
- You must inform your client of any plea offers made by the solicitor even if your client makes it clear that he or she does not wish to plead guilty.

14. If your client wishes to go to trial, refer to the Trial Manual for Defense Attorneys in Juvenile Delinquency Cases, 2018 Edition by Randy Hertz, Martin Guggenheim, and Anthony G. Amsterdam of New York University School of Law. This excellent resource is a detailed guide for handling all aspects of juvenile court cases from initial steps of representation to post dispositional advocacy and can be found on the National Juvenile Defender Center website..

15. See Disposition Planning and Advocacy section for steps to prepare for the Dispositional Hearing.

16. The final section of this manual, Resources for Juvenile Defenders, lists several excellent publications that address juvenile defense and trial advocacy, and provide a much more detailed and in-depth look at handling juvenile court cases.

ATTORNEY-CLIENT COMMUNICATIONS

It is important to meet with your client well in advance of the child's first hearing to adequately prepare and provide your client with meaningful representation.

ATTORNEY-CLIENT RELATIONSHIP

When you meet with your client for an initial interview, while you will have questions for the child's parent or guardian, the majority of the conference will involve you asking the child questions and making sure the child understands the court proceedings. Do not let the child's parent or guardian answer for your client during the interview. This is your opportunity to get to know your client and assess the child's competency.

Be clear about the attorney-client relationship. Make certain your client and client's parent understand that you represent the child, not the parent. Also, make it clear that there is no exception to the duty of attorney-client confidentiality in juvenile cases for parents. You must have your client's informed consent, before revealing any information related to the representation, even to the child's parent or guardian. In addition, the attorney-client privilege does not extend to parents, so when discussing the facts of the case with your client, do so in private, without the parent present to preserve the privilege.

INITIAL MEETING(S)

Here are the basics to cover during the initial meeting(s) with your client:

- Introduce yourself and explain your role.
 - Make sure the child understands you are his or her attorney; that you do not work for the state, the court, or DJJ; and everything he or she tells you in private is confidential.
- Assess your client's competency. If you do not believe your client is competent to go to trial or to assist you in his or her defense, take steps to have a competency evaluation conducted. (See Competency section.)
- Interview your client to gather as much relevant background information as possible in preparation for requesting diversion, plea negotiations, and court hearings.

- Make sure your client understands the charge(s) he or she is facing and question your client about the facts surrounding the alleged offense(s).
- Explain the court proceedings including the roles of the judge, solicitor, DJJ staff, court reporter, and bailiffs.
- Explain all the possible outcomes of the case including collateral consequences.

INTERVIEWING YOUR CLIENT

To effectively represent your client, you need to know all the relevant background information about your client and client's circumstances, as well as the facts surrounding the case.

When interviewing your client be mindful of the child's age and ability to understand your questions. Use age appropriate language and avoid legalese.

The National Juvenile Defender Center (NJDC) has prepared an excellent treatment of attorney-client communications included in the NJDC's Juvenile Defender Delinquency Notebook (2d ed. Spring 2006), available free of charge on the NJDC website:

www.njdc.info/delinquency_notebook/interfac_e.swf

Interview Questions

The following is a sample list of questions to ask your client during the Attorney-Client Conference:

- What is your full name?
- How old are you?
- When is your birthday?
- What is your address? Is that the address where you always stay?
 - If not, be sure to get the addresses and phone numbers of all places your client stays for extended periods of time, e.g., relative's or friend's home.
- What is your phone number?
- Also ask for numbers of relatives or neighbors where you can contact your client in case your client's phone service is disconnected.
- Who else lives in your home? (Siblings, grandparents, mother's boyfriend, etc.)
- Are your parents employed? Where? What hours do they work?
- Are you enrolled in school? Where?
- What grade are you in?
- Are you in regular or special classes? (E.g., Emotionally Handicapped (EH), Learning Disabled (LD), or other special education classes)
- What kind of grades are you making this year?
 - Explain that the judge will have access to the child's school records prior to and during the court proceedings.
 - Verify any school information you are relying on by reviewing DJJ's records or have the child's parent sign a release allowing you to access the records directly from the school.
- Did you miss any days of school this school year? Any class cuts or tardies?
- Have you had any disciplinary problems at school? How many times have you been suspended this year? Have you ever been expelled from school?
- Are you involved in any extra-curricular or after-school activities?
- Do you go to church? Are you involved in any church activities?
- Have you ever been to court before? Explain.
- Do you have a job?
- Are you pregnant? Do you have any children?
- Do you drink alcohol or take any drugs?
 - You may get a more honest answer by asking: "When is the last time you drank alcohol? How often? How much? When is the last time you smoked marijuana? If you got drug tested today, would you test positive?"
 - Explain that the judge may order the child to take a drug test.

- Has the Department of Social Services/DSS ever been involved with your family? Have you ever been in DSS custody or lived in a home without your parents/guardians?
- Are you currently taking any medication? Have you taken any medication in the past? If so, what?
- Have you ever been hospitalized?
 - You are mainly concerned with any psychiatric stays or serious head injuries.
- Have you been diagnosed with any mental health problems?
- Are you receiving counseling or therapy? Have you ever?
- How is your behavior at home?
 - Ask the parents this one, too, because the judge often will, and you want to be prepared for their response.
- Is there anything else about you or your family you think I should know?
- Also ask the child's parent if the child has experienced any significant trauma or loss (e.g., witnessed violent acts or experienced the loss of a family member or close friend).

After interviewing the child regarding background information, question the child as to his or her account of the alleged delinquent act(s). It may be helpful to read the petition aloud and tell the child "this is what the State is saying happened, is that true?" or "now you tell me what happened."

Be sure to question the child about the following:

- Time, date, and place of offense
- Details of the events that led to the offense
- Names, addresses, and telephone numbers of any potential witnesses and details about what they witnessed
- Any possible written or oral statements made to the police or anyone else by the child or any co-defendants
- Was your client given Miranda warnings? What were the circumstances? Who gave the warnings? Did your client sign anything?

PREPARING YOUR CLIENT & CLIENT'S PARENTS FOR THE COURTROOM

COURTROOM ETIQUETTE

Explain the importance of acting appropriately when appearing before the judge and while in the courthouse. Review the following with your client and client's parents or guardian:

- Be punctual for all court hearings. Arrive before you are summoned to appear to ensure you are not late.
- When in the courthouse and waiting for your case to be called, conduct yourself in a quiet and orderly manner.
- Dress appropriately for court - shirts tucked in; pants pulled up; no hats, shorts, sleeveless shirts, t-shirts, short skirts, short dresses, or flip flops; and no excessive jewelry.
- Hair should be neat and groomed.
- Do not chew gum in the courtroom.
- Make sure your cell phone is turned off when in the courtroom.
- Stand when the judge enters or exits the courtroom.
- Do not approach the bench.
- When speaking to the judge or when the judge is speaking directly to you, always stand unless the judge tells you to sit. Make eye contact with the judge; do not look down at the floor.
- Speak clearly and loud enough so that the judge and court reporter can hear what you are saying.

- Always respond verbally; do not answer questions by shaking or nodding your head or shrugging your shoulders.
- Always speak to the judge respectfully (e.g., “Yes, sir,” “No Ma’am,” or “Yes, Your Honor”).

ADDRESSING THE COURT

Encourage your client to thoughtfully consider what he or she may want to say to the presiding judge in court and provide guidance. Depending on the circumstances, it may be beneficial to have your client write a letter to the judge expressing remorse and plans to stay out of trouble in the future.

The judge may also ask the child’s parents or guardian to speak in court or answer questions. It is critical that you convey to the parent the impact his or her comments may have on the judge and the judge’s decision regarding sentencing. While parents may be inclined to vent their frustrations with their child in open court while they have the court’s attention, you should make sure they understand that once a judge rules, there is nothing that parent can do to change that ruling.

DISCOVERY

DISCOVERY AND DISCLOSURE OF EVIDENCE

When appointed or hired to represent a child in family court, the defense attorney should file a Rule 5 Motion for Discovery and Brady Motion. Rule 5, SCRCrimP, which addresses the disclosure of evidence in criminal cases, is also applicable in juvenile actions under Rule 2, SCRFC. Rule 5 identifies the types of information subject to disclosure by both the prosecution and the defense, and also identifies information that is not subject to disclosure.

DISCLOSURE REQUIREMENTS

In Brady v. Maryland, 373 U.S. 83 (1963), the Court addressed the prosecution's obligation to disclose evidence to the defense. The Brady disclosure rule requires the prosecution to provide to the defendant any evidence in the prosecution's possession that may be favorable to the accused and material to guilt or punishment. State v. Kennerly, 503 S.E.2d 214, 220 (S.C. Ct. App. 1998) (citing Brady v. Maryland, 373 U.S. 83, 87 (1963)). Favorable evidence includes both exculpatory evidence and evidence which may be used for impeachment. United States v. Bagley, 473 U.S. 667 (1985). Materiality of evidence is determined based on the reasonable probability that the result of the proceeding would have been different had the evidence been disclosed to the defense. Kennerly, 503 S.E.2d at 220. "A 'reasonable probability' of a different result is accordingly shown when the government's evidentiary suppression 'undermines confidence in the outcome of the trial.'" Bagley, 473 U.S. at 678. Furthermore, the prosecution has the duty to disclose such evidence even in the absence of a request by the accused United States v. Agurs, 427 U.S. 97, 107 (1976).

DISCLOSURE OF ALIBI DEFENSE

Upon written request of the solicitor, stating the time, date and place of the alleged offense, the defendant has 10 days to notify the solicitor in writing of the intent to offer an alibi defense. The notice must specify the place where the defendant claims to have been at the time of the alleged offense and the names and addresses of any alibi witnesses. Rule 5(e)(1), SCRCrimP.

After receiving such notice, the solicitor has 10 days (must be at least 10 days prior to trial date) to notify the defense attorney of the names and addresses of any witnesses the State intends to present to establish defendant's presence at the scene of the alleged crime. Rule 5(e)(2), SCRCrimP.

Failure to comply with the requirements of Rule 5 may result in the exclusion of testimony of any undisclosed witnesses. Rule 5(e)(4), SCRCrimP.

DISCLOSURE OF INSANITY DEFENSE OR GUILTY BUT MENTALLY ILL PLEA

Upon written request of the solicitor, the defendant has 10 days to notify the prosecution in writing of the defendant's plan to rely on an insanity defense or to enter a plea of guilty but mentally ill. If the defendant fails to comply with this requirement, the court may exclude the testimony of any expert witness offered by the defendant on the issue of his mental state. The court may, for good cause shown, allow late filing of the notice or grant additional time to the parties to prepare for trial or make such other order as is appropriate. Rule 5(f), SCRCrimP.

WAIVER OF DISCLOSURE REQUIREMENTS

Upon a showing of good cause, the court has the authority to waive the requirements of Rule 5. Rule 5(g), SCRCrimP.

RULE 5, SCRCRIMP; DISCLOSURE IN CRIMINAL CASES

Rule 5, Disclosure in Criminal Cases (Applicable to family court cases, per Rule 2(b), SCRFC)

(a) Disclosure of Evidence by the Prosecution.

(1) Information Subject to Disclosure.

(A) Statement of Defendant. Upon request by a defendant, the prosecution shall permit the defendant to inspect and copy or photograph: any relevant written or recorded statements made by the defendant, or copies thereof, within the possession, custody or control of the prosecution, the existence of which is known, or by the exercise of due diligence may become known, to the attorney for the prosecution; the substance of any oral statement which the prosecution intends to offer in evidence at the trial made by the defendant whether before or after arrest in response to interrogation by any person then known to the defendant to be a prosecution agent.

(B) Defendant's Prior Record. Upon request of the defendant, the prosecution shall furnish to the defendant such copy of his prior criminal record, if any, as is within the possession, custody, or control of the prosecution, the existence of which is known, or by the exercise of due diligence may become known, to the attorney for the prosecution.

(C) Documents and Tangible Objects. Upon request of the defendant the prosecution shall permit the defendant to inspect and copy books, papers, documents, photographs, tangible objects, buildings or places, or copies or portions thereof, which are within the possession, custody or control of the prosecution, and which are material to the preparation of his defense or are intended for use by the prosecution as evidence in chief at the trial, or were obtained from or belong to the defendant.

(D) Reports of Examinations and Tests. Upon request of a defendant the prosecution shall permit the defendant to inspect and copy any results or reports of physical or mental examinations, and of scientific tests or experiments, or copies thereof, which are within the possession, custody, or control of the prosecution, the existence of which is known, or by the exercise of due diligence may become known, to the attorney for the prosecution, and which are material to the preparation of the defense or are intended for use by the prosecution as evidence in chief at the trial.

(2) Information Not Subject to Disclosure. Except as provided in paragraphs (A), (B), and (D) of subdivision (a)(1), this rule does not authorize the discovery or inspection of reports, memoranda, or other internal prosecution documents made by the attorney for the prosecution or other prosecution agents in connection with the investigation or prosecution of the case, or of statements made by prosecution witnesses or prospective prosecution witnesses provided that after a prosecution witness has testified on direct examination, the court shall, on motion of the defendant, order the prosecution to produce any statement of the witness in the possession of the prosecution which relates to the subject matter as to which the witness has testified; and provided further that the court may upon a sufficient showing require the production of any statement of any prospective witness prior to the time such witness testifies.

(3) Time for Disclosure. The prosecution shall respond to the defendant's request for disclosure no later than thirty (30) days after the request is made, or within such other time as may be ordered by the court.

(b) Disclosure of Evidence by the Defendant.

(1) Information Subject to Disclosure.

(A) Documents and Tangible Objects. If the defendant requests disclosure under subdivision (a)(1)(C) or (D) of this rule, upon compliance with such request by the prosecution, the defendant, on request of the prosecution, shall permit the prosecution to inspect and copy books, papers, documents, photographs, tangible objects, or copies or portions thereof, which are within the possession, custody, or control of the defendant and which the defendant intends to introduce as evidence in chief at the trial.

(B) Reports of Examinations and Tests. If the defendant requests disclosure under subdivision (a)(1)(C) or (D) of this rule, upon compliance with such request by the prosecution, the defendant, on request of the prosecution, shall permit the prosecution to inspect and copy any results or reports of physical or mental examinations and of scientific tests or experiments made in connection with the particular case, or copies thereof, within the possession or control of the defendant, which the defendant intends to introduce as evidence in chief at the trial or which were prepared by a witness whom the defendant intends to call at trial when the results or reports relate to his testimony.

(2) Information Not Subject to Disclosure. Except as to scientific or medical reports, this subdivision does not authorize the discovery or inspection of reports, memoranda, or other internal defense documents made by the defendant, or his attorneys or agents in connection with the investigation or defense of the case, or of statements made by the defendant, or by prosecution or defense witnesses, or by prospective prosecution or defense witnesses, to the defendant, his agents or attorneys.

(c) Continuing Duty to Disclose. If, prior to or during trial, a party discovers additional evidence or material previously requested or ordered, which is subject to discovery or inspection under this rule, he shall promptly notify the other party or his attorney or the court of the existence of the additional evidence or material.

(d) Regulation of Discovery.

(1) Protective and Modifying Orders. Upon a sufficient showing the court may at any time order that the discovery or inspection be denied, restricted, or deferred, or make such other order as is appropriate. Upon motion by a party, the court may permit the party to make such showing, in whole or in part, in the form of a written statement to be inspected by the judge alone. If the court enters an order granting relief following such an ex parte showing, the entire text of the party's statement shall be sealed and preserved in the records of the court to be made available to the appellate court in the event of an appeal.

(2) Failure to Comply with a Request. If at any time during the course of the proceedings it is brought to the attention of the court that a party has failed to comply with this rule, the court may order such party to permit the discovery or inspection, grant a continuance, or prohibit the party from introducing evidence not disclosed, or it may enter such other order as it deems just under the circumstances. The court may specify the time, place and manner of making the discovery and inspection and may prescribe such terms and conditions as are just.

(e) Notice of Alibi.

(1) Notice of Alibi by Defendant. Upon written request of the prosecution stating the time, date and place at which the alleged offense occurred, the defendant shall serve within ten days, or at such time as the court may direct, upon the prosecution a written notice of his intention to offer an alibi defense. The notice shall state the specific place or places at which the defendant claims to have been at the time of the alleged offense and the names and addresses of the witnesses upon whom he intends to rely to establish such alibi.

(2) Disclosure by Prosecution. Within ten days after defendant serves his notice, but in no event less than ten days before trial, or as the court may otherwise direct, the prosecution shall serve upon the defendant or his attorney the names and addresses of witnesses upon whom the State intends to rely to establish defendant's presence at the scene of the alleged crime.

(3) Continuing Duty to Disclose. Both parties shall be under a continuing duty to promptly disclose the names and addresses of additional witnesses whose identity, if known, should have been included in the information furnished under subdivisions (1) or (2).

(4) Failure to Disclose. If either party fails to comply with the requirements of this rule, the court may exclude the testimony of any undisclosed witness offered by either party. Nothing in this rule shall limit the right of the defendant to testify on his own behalf.

(f) Notice of Insanity Defense or Plea of Guilty but Mentally Ill. Upon written request of the prosecution, the defendant shall within ten days or at such time as the court may direct, notify the prosecution in writing of the defendant's intention to rely upon the defense of insanity at the time of the crime or to enter a plea of guilty but mentally ill. If the defendant fails to comply with the requirements of the subdivision, the court may exclude the testimony of any expert witness offered by the defendant on the issue of his mental state. The court may, for good cause shown, allow late filing of the notice or grant additional time to the parties to prepare for trial or make such other order as is appropriate.

(g) Waiver. The court may, for good cause shown, waive the requirements of this rule.

JURISDICTION & VENUE

EXCLUSIVE ORIGINAL JURISDICTION

The family court has exclusive original jurisdiction over any action concerning a child living or found within the geographical limits of its jurisdiction:

- whose behavior places himself or others at risk of danger;
- who is beyond the control of his parent or other custodian (incorrigible); or
- who is alleged to have violated or attempted to violate any state or local law or municipal ordinance, regardless of where the violation occurred except as provided in § 63-3-520 (traffic and wildlife jurisdiction).

The family court also has exclusive original jurisdiction and shall be the sole court for initiating action:

- for the treatment or commitment to any mental institution of a mentally defective or mentally disordered or emotionally disturbed child - as long as it doesn't conflict with the probate court's authority in dealing with such cases;
- concerning any child 18 or older who allegedly violated or attempted to violate any state or local law or municipal ordinance before reaching the age of 18; and
- for the detention of a child charged with committing a criminal offense when detention in a secure facility is found to be necessary. § 63-3-510.

TIMING

Although there is a common misunderstanding that jurisdiction attaches only after the petition is filed, jurisdiction attaches from the time a child is taken into custody. § 63-19-810(A).

TRANSFER OF CASE FROM CIRCUIT COURT TO FAMILY COURT

The circuit court must immediately transfer any case to family court involving a child erroneously charged as an adult for committing a criminal offense. § 63-19-1210(1).

A 17-year-old charged as an adult for allegedly committing a Class A, B, C or D felony, or a felony which provides for a maximum term of imprisonment of fifteen years or more, can be remanded to the family court for disposition of the charge at the solicitor's discretion. § 63-19-20.

TERMINATION OF JURISDICTION

Once the court has acquired jurisdiction over a child, jurisdiction continues as long as the court finds it necessary to retain jurisdiction for the "correction or education" of the child. Jurisdiction terminates on the child's twenty-second birthday if not sooner. § 63-3-510(B).

The court retains jurisdiction over any child adjudicated delinquent who was placed on probation until the specified term of probation expires. This may be before but not after the child's twentieth birthday. § 63-3-510(B).

TRAFFIC & FISH, GAME & WATERCRAFT VIOLATIONS

The family court has concurrent jurisdiction with the magistrate and municipal courts for the trial of persons under 17* charged with traffic or Title 50 (relating to fish, game, and watercraft) violations. All adjudications for moving traffic violations and other violations affecting a child's driving privileges, including drug and alcohol violations, must be reported to the Department of Motor Vehicles by the court. All adjudications for Title 50 violations must be reported to the Department of Natural Resources. § 63-3-520. (* The SC Office of the Attorney General issued an opinion on 6/25/19 stating that “a court ... would hold that summary courts have concurrent jurisdiction over persons less than 18 years of age charged on or after July 1, 2019 with traffic offenses and violation of provisions of Title 50 offenses.”)

POST CONVICTION PROCEEDINGS

Post conviction proceedings, including habeas corpus actions, are instituted in the court in which the original action was concluded. However, the family court also has original jurisdiction of habeas corpus actions if the person who is the subject of the action would otherwise be within the family court’s jurisdiction. § 63-3-640.

VENUE

Venue of family court actions “shall be in such county as provided by law.” Family court trials are to be held in the county of venue, unless a change of venue is granted as provided by law. § 63-3-560.

TRANSFER OF VENUE

When a petition is filed that involves a child who is a resident of another county in the state, the judge may transfer the case to the county where the child lives if the child has returned home and it appears that the petitioner and witnesses will not be inconvenienced. If the judge orders a transfer, a copy of the order and all other documents and papers in the file shall be forwarded to the court in the county in which the child resides and shall be received and processed in the same manner as if filed initially in the latter county. Rule 33(a), SCRFC.

If the judge decides an immediate transfer should not be made and an adjudicatory hearing is held, the judge may order transfer to the county of the child's residence for disposition. Rule 33(b), SCRFC.

CUSTODY & PRE-TRIAL DETENTION

DETENTION OVERVIEW

When a child is taken into custody by law enforcement for committing a delinquent offense, the officer who takes the child into custody makes the initial decision as to whether to detain the child. If detained, the child is placed in a secure detention facility while awaiting trial.

Children in South Carolina are not afforded the right to bail; however, they are entitled to a hearing within a specified amount of time to determine whether probable cause exists to justify detention and whether the child's continued detention is appropriate and necessary. If the court orders that a child remain in detention following the initial detention hearing, the child is entitled to periodic review hearings on continued detention.

TAKING INTO CUSTODY

When a child is taken into custody for violating a law or ordinance:

- the taking into custody is not an “arrest”;
- the family court’s jurisdiction attaches from the time of the taking into custody;
- the officer who took the child into custody is required to notify the child’s parent as soon as possible; and
- unless otherwise ordered by the court, the officer has the option of either releasing the child to a parent or responsible adult or detaining the child. § 63-19-810(A).

When an officer determines a child taken into custody needs to be placed outside of the home, the authorized DJJ representative is required to make a “diligent effort to place the child in an approved home, program, or facility, other than a secure juvenile detention facility, when these alternatives are appropriate and available.” § 63-19-820(A).

DETENTION ELIGIBILITY

A child who meets the criteria provided in § 63-19-820(B) is eligible for detention. However, detention is not mandatory for a child meeting the criteria if that child can be adequately supervised at home or in a less secure setting. Id.

AGE RESTRICTIONS

Children who are ten or younger must not be incarcerated in a jail or detention facility for any reason. § 63-19-820(F).

Children 11 and 12 who are taken into custody for committing a criminal offense or who violate conditions of probation for such an offense may only be incarcerated in a jail or detention facility by order of the family court. Id.

EX PARTE ORDER OF RELEASE

If the officer does not consent to the child’s release, the parents or other responsible adult may apply to any family court judge within the circuit for an ex parte order of release of the child. The officer’s written report must be provided to the family court judge who may establish conditions for the child’s release. § 63-19-810(B).

PREVENTIVE DETENTION

As with adults, children who have been charged with crimes are presumed innocent, and it is a violation of the due process clause to use pretrial detention as punishment for children. Bell v. Wolfish, 441 U.S. 520 (1979). However, “preventive detention” may be justified if there is a legitimate state interest in protecting the community or the child. Schall v. Martin, 467 U.S. 253 (1984).

SCREENING FOR SERVICES

A child ordered detained in a facility must be screened within 24 hours by a social worker or psychologist to determine whether the child is emotionally disturbed, mentally ill, or otherwise in need of services. If it is determined that the child is in need of services, the services must be provided immediately. § 63-19-830(B).

TIME LIMITS

A child must not be detained in secure confinement for more than 90 days, absent exceptional circumstances. § 63-19-830(A).

A child taken into custody because of a status offense must not be placed or ordered detained more than 24 hours, unless a previously issued court order notified the child that further violation of the court's order may result in detention. § 63-19-820(E).

If a child is ordered detained for violating a valid court order, the child may be detained for no more than 72 hours, excluding weekends and holidays. § 63-19-820(E).

DETENTION ALTERNATIVES

The following alternatives to secure pre-trial detention provide for the supervision and safety of a child while reducing the negative impact on the child and the costs associated with detention. Most counties have multiple options available that can be combined to best suit the needs of the child and his or her family.

- House Arrest: House arrest is often used as an alternative to detention. The child is court ordered to remain in the home and may only leave the home to participate in outside activities approved by the court.

- Electronic Monitoring: The child is released from secure detention under a special court order of electronic monitoring which offers 24-hour oversight. A curfew can be set by the court for any time of the day or night and for any length of time. If electronic monitoring is ordered, the child wears an ankle bracelet that functions as a transmitter, sending signals to a unit in the home. The unit reports movement through a GPS (Global Positioning Satellite) system to a computer that DJJ can access and at any time. Violations are monitored by DJJ staff and reported to the court.

DJJ contracts with a private provider to have access to electronic monitoring (EM) equipment. Every county in the state has access to EM equipment. Each regional office also has an inventory of units. The DJJ county office will know how to access units if they do not have any in their office, generally by contacting another county office to borrow any available units.

Electronic monitoring costs DJJ $3.25 per day (active unit), while the cost of detaining a child at DJJ's secure detention facility is $150 per day ($50 of which is charged back to the county). There is no cost to the child or county for electronic monitoring.

- Short Term Alternative Placements (STAP): As an alternative to secure detention, the child may be placed by DJJ or ordered by the court to be placed in a STAP. These non-secure alternatives to detention include shelter care, therapeutic foster homes, and intermediate or intensive group homes. County DJJ staff have information regarding the availability of STAPs.

DETENTION HEARING

TIME REQUIREMENTS

A detention hearing must be held within 48 hours from the time a child is taken into custody, excluding Saturdays, Sundays and holidays. § 63-19-830(A).

- However, a child taken into custody because of a status offense must not be detained more than 24 hours, unless a previously issued court order notified the child that further violation of the court's order may result in detention. § 63-19-820(E).
- If a child is ordered detained for violating a valid court order, the child may be held in secure confinement in a juvenile detention facility for up to 72 hours, excluding weekends and holidays. § 63-19-820(E).

A child ordered detained is entitled to "further and periodic review:"

- within 10 days following the initial hearing;
- within 30 days following the 10-day hearing; and
- at any other time with a showing of good cause. § 63-19-830(A).

RIGHT TO COUNSEL

A child has the right to an attorney in the detention hearing. The court must appoint an attorney for the child if none is retained. A child may not proceed without an attorney unless the child waives the right to counsel after consulting at least once with an attorney. § 63-19-830(A).

PRESENCE OF PARENTS

Rule 32, SCRFC provides that the detention hearing may be held without the presence of the child's parents if they cannot be located after reasonable effort. If the parents are not located, the court must appoint a guardian ad litem for the child.

PURPOSE OF HEARING

The court makes a determination as to whether: (1) probable cause exists to justify detention; and (2) it is appropriate and necessary for the child to remain in detention.

EVIDENCE

The court may admit "any evidence relevant to the necessity of detaining a child." Rule 32, SCFCR. Therefore, evidence such as hearsay may be presented by the State when arguing for detention.

DETENTION HEARING PROCEDURE

Though procedure may vary to some degree from county to county, the following is an overview of a typical detention hearing:

- The detention hearing begins with the solicitor calling the case and presenting the State's witnesses. The State has the burden of proving probable cause exists to justify detention and that continued detention is appropriate and necessary.
 - Potential witnesses for the State may include a law enforcement officer, a DJJ community specialist, witnesses of the alleged incident, and the victim.
 - Generally, the law enforcement representative (may be an officer without any direct knowledge of the case who reads from incident reports or notes from the reporting officer, since hearsay is admissible in this hearing) will testify as to probable cause and reasons why the child should be detained.
 - The DJJ representative may testify regarding the child's prior court history and school records and present DJJ's recommendation regarding continued detention.

- After the solicitor questions each witness on direct examination, the defense attorney has the opportunity to question each witness.
- After the State has presented its case, the defense will present its witnesses.
 - Potential witnesses may include parents/guardians and character witnesses who may testify regarding: the child's home environment (level of structure, supervision, and stability in the home); the child's behavior in the home and at school; any special needs or disabilities the child may have; and how the child will be monitored if allowed to return home while awaiting trial.
- As with the State's witnesses, defense witnesses are also subject to cross-examination.
- Following the defense's case, the judge will usually hear from the attorneys as to why the child should be detained or released. The judge may also want to hear from parents who have not testified.
- The judge will make a ruling as to whether the child will remain in detention or be released while awaiting trial.

WAIVER OVERVIEW

Waiver is one of the most significant actions that can occur in the early stages of a case involving a child charged with a criminal offense. Waiver is the transfer of jurisdiction of a child's case from family court to a court which would have trial jurisdiction if the offense was committed by an adult.

INTRODUCTION

The waiver process is initiated by the solicitor who makes a motion to transfer jurisdiction and waive the child to adult court. The solicitor will also make a motion that DJJ conduct a pre-waiver evaluation. The defense may also have the child undergo an independent expert evaluation.

Upon a motion to transfer jurisdiction, the family court must determine if it is in the best interest of both the child and the community before granting the transfer request. State v. Kelsey, 331 S.C. 50, 64, 502 S.E.2d 63, 70 (1998). The family court must consider eight factors, as approved by the United States Supreme Court in Kent v. United States, 383 U.S. 541, 86 S.Ct. 1045, 16 L.Ed.2d 84 (1966), in making this determination. State v. Pittman, 373 S.C. 527, 647 S.E.2d 144, (2007).

ELIGIBILITY

A family court judge has the authority to waive a child who is:

- any age and charged with murder;
- 17 and charged with a misdemeanor, a Class E or F felony as defined in § 16-1-20, or a felony which, if committed by an adult, would carry a maximum term of imprisonment of 10 years or less, after full investigation;
- 14, 15 or 16 and charged with an offense which, if committed by an adult, would be a Class A,B,C, or D felony or a felony which provides for a maximum term of imprisonment of 15 years or more, after full investigation and a hearing;

- 14 or older and charged with §16-23-430(1) (carrying a weapon on school property), §16-23-20 (unlawful carrying of a handgun), or §44-53-445 (unlawful distribution of drugs within a half-mile of a school), after full investigation and a hearing. § 63-19-1210(4)-(6),(9); and
- 14 or older charged with an offense which, if committed by an adult provide for a term of imprisonment of ten years or more and the child previously has been adjudicated or convicted for two prior offenses which, if committed by an adult, provide for a term of imprisonment of ten years or more, after full investigation and a hearing. (An adjudication or conviction is considered a second adjudication or conviction only if the second offense was committed after the sentence for the first offense was imposed.) § 63-19-1210(10).

In Slocumb v. State, 522 S.E.2d 809 (S.C. 1999), the court held that § 16-3-659 prohibits a child under fourteen from being waived to general sessions court on a criminal sexual conduct charge.

MURDER AND CRIMINAL SEXUAL CONDUCT CASES

When a child is charged with murder or with criminal sexual conduct, the solicitor has 30 days after filing the petition to request in writing that the case be transferred to general sessions court. The family court judge is authorized to determine this request. If the judge denies the request, the solicitor has 5 days to appeal the decision to the circuit court. The circuit court judge who hears the appeal has the discretion to retain jurisdiction in general sessions or relinquish jurisdiction to the family court. § 63-19-1210(6).

A child under 14 cannot be waived to general sessions court on a criminal sexual conduct charge. § 16-3-659; Slocumb v. State, 522 S.E.2d 809 (S.C. 1999). Section 16-3-659 states that the "common law rule that a boy under fourteen years is conclusively presumed to be incapable of committing the crime of rape shall not be enforced in this State. Provided, that any person under the age of 14 shall be tried as a juvenile for any violations of §§ 16-3-651 to 659.1 (criminal sexual conduct offenses)."

PRE-WAIVER EVALUATION REPORT

After moving to waive, the solicitor will generally move that the child undergo a pre-waiver evaluation.

The report is typically divided into 2 parts:

- One part is conducted by a community specialist in the county. This part contains a social history of the child, including prior court history, a family description, a report on social agencies involved with the child, a physical description, school information, early development/medical history, information regarding community and home adjustments, etc.
- The second part is conducted by a DJJ psychologist. This part contains a referral statement, sources of information, a mental status examination, a psychological summary, and conclusions. These conclusions are drawn from an analysis of the factors the court will consider in determining whether jurisdiction of the case should be transferred or retained in family court. These factors include the level of sophistication and maturity of the child; the likelihood of reasonable rehabilitation; adequate protection of the public; and procedures, services, and facilities currently available to the family court which could benefit the child.

WAIVER HEARING

The waiver hearing is generally the most serious of all hearings for a child involved in the juvenile justice system. At the conclusion of this hearing, the family court judge rules on whether the child is to be prosecuted in family court or in a court which would have trial jurisdiction of the offense(s) if committed by an adult. In Kent v. United States, 383 U.S. 541 (1966), the U.S. Supreme Court ordered that a full investigation must be conducted on children who the State intends to waive. The Court also identified eight factors to be taken into consideration when making the determination of whether to waive the child. (See below.)

The solicitor has the burden of proving that the child should be waived. The solicitor will present witnesses and enter the pre-waiver evaluation report into evidence. Hearsay is admissible as this is not a trial on the merits.

Following the State's case, the defense will present its case in an effort to show the court that the child should be treated as a child and remain in family court instead of being prosecuted as an adult. After hearing all the evidence and reviewing the pre-waiver evaluation report, the court will make its ruling based on the Kent factors and the factual findings.

If the court determines the child's case should be transferred to general sessions court, the court's order must sufficiently state the reasons for the transfer. The order should also contain language demonstrating that "the statutory requirement of full investigation has been met and that the question has received full and careful consideration by the family court." State v. Avery, 509 S.E.2d 476, 481 (S.C. 1998). The decision to transfer jurisdiction lies within the discretion of the family court. Id., State v. Pittman, 373 S.C. 527, 647 S.E.2d 144, (2007)

THE 8 DETERMINATIVE FACTORS OF KENT

In Kent v. United States, 383 U.S. 541 (1966), the United States Supreme Court established the following criteria for determining whether jurisdiction should be waived:

1. The seriousness of the alleged offense to the community and whether the protection of the community requires waiver;
2. Whether the alleged offense was committed in an aggressive, violent, premeditated, or willful manner;
3. Whether the alleged offense was against persons or against property, greater weight being given to offenses against persons, especially if injury resulted;
4. The merit of prosecuting the complaint, i.e., whether there is evidence upon which a grand jury may be expected to return an indictment;
5. The desirability of trial and disposition of the entire offense in one court when the child's co-defendants are adults;
6. The sophistication and maturity of the child as determined by consideration of his home, environmental situation, emotional attitude and living pattern;
7. The child's prior record and involvement with the juvenile justice system; and
8. The prospects for adequate protection of the public and the likelihood of reasonable rehabilitation of the child by the use of procedures, services and facilities currently available to the family court.

POST WAIVER HEARING ISSUES

If the family court does not waive the child and retains jurisdiction, the judge who presided over the waiver hearing should not preside over the adjudicatory hearing. Rule 34, SCRFC.

Waiver or transfer of certain charges against a child does not result in all pending charges being transferred. If a charge is not transferred, it remains a family court charge, and the child retains all of the protection of the juvenile system as to that charge. Johnson v. State, 437 S.E.2d 20 (S.C. 1993).

ADJUDICATION

ADJUDICATORY HEARING

The adjudicatory hearing is the hearing/trial held by a family court judge to determine whether a child engaged in a delinquent act.

HEARING DATE

Under the South Carolina Rules of Family Court, the adjudicatory hearing must be scheduled for the “earliest practicable date but no later than 40 days from the filing of the petition unless otherwise delayed by order of the court.” If the hearing is delayed by order of the court, the order must identify the reasons for the delay. Failure to schedule the adjudicatory hearing within the prescribed 40 days may be a ground for dismissal, but only if there is an “affirmative showing of material prejudice.” Rule 35(a), SCRFC.

NOTICE OF HEARING

Notice of the adjudicatory hearing must be served on both parents and both must be ordered to be present. If the child is not living with the parents, notice is to be served on the guardians or persons with whom the child resides. The parent or guardian must be present at the hearing and excused only by the judge upon a showing of sickness or other justifiable cause. Rule 35(b), SCRFC.

ADJUDICATORY HEARING PROCESS

The South Carolina Rules of Evidence apply in adjudicatory hearings. Rule 1101, SCRE. The South Carolina Rules of Criminal Procedure also apply in adjudicatory hearings insofar as practicable and to the extent they are not inconsistent with the statutes and rules governing family court. Rule 37, SCRCrimP.

Prior to hearing any testimony, the judge, upon motion of any party, may sequester or exclude witnesses from the courtroom. The victim in the case may not be sequestered.

Since the judge is the trier of law and fact in family court cases, if opening statements are made, they are usually brief. The hearing generally begins with the solicitor presenting the State’s case against the child by presenting witnesses to testify. The State has the burden of proving beyond a reasonable doubt that the child committed the delinquent act as charged. The child’s attorney will have the opportunity to cross examine the state’s witnesses, and the solicitor will be given the option to re-direct on any issues raised by the defense attorney on cross-examination.

MOTION FOR DIRECTED VERDICT

After the solicitor presents the case against the child, the defense attorney should move for a directed verdict on the grounds that the State has not presented competent evidence to prove its case. “On motion of the defendant or on its own motion, the court shall direct a verdict in the defendant’s favor on any offense charged in the [petition] after the evidence on either side is closed, if there is a failure of competent evidence tending to prove the charge in the [petition].” Rule 19(a), SCRCrimP. In ruling on the motion, the judge only considers the existence or non-existence of evidence and not the weight of the evidence. Id. The judge must view the evidence in the light most favorable to the State, when determining if there is any “direct or substantial circumstantial evidence which reasonably tends to prove the guilt of the accused or from which guilt may be fairly and logically deduced.” State v. Williams, 400 S.E.2d 131, 132 (1991).

If the judge grants the motion for a directed verdict, the trial ends and the child is found not guilty. If a defendant's motion for directed verdict at the close of the evidence offered by the State is not granted, the defendant may offer evidence without having reserved the right. Rule 19(b), SCRCrimP.

ADJUDICATORY HEARING PROCESS, Continued

On advice of counsel, the child may or may not take the stand and testify. As with the State's witnesses, defense witnesses are also subject to cross-examination, by the solicitor.

Following the defense's case, the solicitor may call rebuttal witnesses to discredit statements and facts presented by the defense witnesses. At the end of the adjudicatory hearing, the solicitor and the defense attorney will make their closing arguments to the judge.

After hearing all the evidence presented, the judge will make a ruling. If the judge determines that the State did not meet its burden of proving the case beyond a reasonable doubt, the judge will find the child “not guilty.” If the verdict is “not guilty,” the child is released from the court's jurisdiction. This verdict cannot be appealed by the State and the case cannot be retried. If the judge determines that the child is guilty, the dispositional hearing is set for a future date following an evaluation, or it is held immediately if the judge determines an evaluation is not required or necessary.

GUILTY PLEA

In family court, a child enters into a guilty plea by formally admitting to the allegations in the petition. A guilty plea must be made voluntarily and should only be accepted by the court after the child has been informed of and understands his or her rights. A guilty plea has the same effect as an adjudication following a trial on the merits.

PLEA NEGOTIATIONS

Before a child pleads guilty, the child's attorney and the solicitor usually meet to discuss the case and possible plea negotiations. When negotiating a plea, the solicitor has the authority to:

- dismiss the charge(s);
- allow the child to take part in a diversion program;
- reduce or change the pending charge(s) named in the petition(s);
- agree to enter into a “Negotiated Plea,” whereby the judge, although not bound to the agreement, must allow defendant to withdraw the plea, if unwilling to accept the plea as negotiated;

- agree to recommend a favorable sentence to the judge (different from entering into a negotiated plea); or
- agree to take no position as to sentencing (if unwilling to recommend a favorable sentence).

Evidence of any statement made during plea discussions with the prosecutor which do not result in a guilty plea, or which result in a guilty plea that is later withdrawn, is not, in any civil or criminal proceeding admissible against the defendant who made the plea or was a participant in the plea discussions. Rule 410(40), SCRE.

GUILTY PLEA PROCEDURE

Generally (though it may vary county to county), the process begins with the solicitor calling the case and indicating that the child wishes to plead guilty. The judge will ask the defense attorney if she or he has had a full opportunity to discuss the case with the child and if the child has indicated that he or she wishes to admit the charges as stated by the solicitor. The judge will then question the child to ensure that the child understands the charges, his or her rights, the implications of pleading guilty, and that the child is pleading guilty freely and voluntarily.

Examples of common questions asked of the child by the judge prior to accepting a plea include:

- What is your full name?
- How old are you?
- Do you go to school?
- What grade are you in? (The judge may question the child further if the child was held back.)
- Are you making good grades or bad grades?
- Are you working?
- You were in the courtroom when the solicitor and your attorney told me that you wish to plead guilty and admit to these charges. Is that correct?
- Do you understand that by pleading guilty, you are giving up your right to a trial?
- Do you understand that if you go to trial, you would be presumed innocent of the charges and the state would have to prove your guilt beyond a reasonable doubt? That you would not have to testify against yourself at trial? That your lawyer may question and cross-examine the witnesses who will testify against you at the hearing? That you have a right to have witnesses present to testify on your behalf?
- Who is here with you today?
- Have you had enough time to talk with your parent/guardian about why you are here today?
- Have you had enough time to talk with your lawyer about your case?
- Do you understand the charges against you?
- Has your lawyer answered all of your questions?
- Has your lawyer done everything you have asked her/him to do?
- Are you satisfied with her/his services?
- Has anyone in any way forced, threatened, or pressured you or promised you anything to get you to plead guilty?
- Are you under the influence of any medication, alcohol, or drugs that would keep you from understanding what we are doing here today?
- Are you pleading guilty freely and voluntarily?
- Do you understand that, if I find you guilty and adjudicate you delinquent, I have the authority to sentence you to the Department of Juvenile Justice for an indeterminate period not to exceed your 21st birthday?
- Do you still wish to plead guilty?
- Are you pleading guilty because you are guilty?

Following these questions, the judge will direct the solicitor to state the facts of the case. The solicitor will read out the petition, and the judge will ask the child if the child agrees with what was stated in the petition.

The judge will then ask to hear from the DJJ community specialist who will report on the child's school records and prior court history. The community specialist will also make a sentencing recommendation to the court on behalf of DJJ.

At this point, the judge may give the victim an opportunity to address the court. The defense attorney will then be allowed to speak on behalf of her/his client. The defense attorney may also ask the judge to hear from the child and/or family members or friends of the child who wish to speak on the child's behalf.

The judge may ask further questions of the child, the defense attorney, the solicitor, or the DJJ community specialist. The solicitor may also request the opportunity to respond to statements made by the defense or recommendations regarding disposition of the case.

The judge may then ask the child if he or she has any further questions and will accept the plea by stating the following (or something similar): "The Court finds that your decision to plead guilty in this case is freely, voluntarily and intelligently made and that you have had the advice of a competent lawyer with whom you say you are satisfied. I accept your guilty plea and adjudicate you delinquent."

VALIDITY OF GUILTY PLEA

In Gaines v. State, 517 S.E.2d 439 (S.C. 1999), the South Carolina Supreme Court held that the test for a valid guilty plea is whether the record establishes that a guilty plea was voluntarily and understandingly made, citing Boykin v. Alabama, 395 U.S. 238 (1969). Generally, "the [court] must be certain that the defendant understands the charge and the consequences of the plea and that the record indicates a factual basis for the plea." In State v. Armstrong, 211 S.E.2d 889 (S.C. 1975), the court also acknowledged that the "court's warning should include an explanation of the defendant's waiver of constitutional rights and a realistic picture of all sentencing possibilities." The trial judge will usually question the defendant about the facts surrounding the case to ensure the defendant understands the implications of pleading guilty. See, e.g., State v. Lambert, 225 S.E.2d 340 (S.C. 1976).

TYPES OF PLEAS

Guilty Plea - A guilty plea consists of a waiver of the right to a trial and an express admission of guilt.

Negotiated Plea - A negotiated plea is a plea where the defense attorney and solicitor have reached an agreement as to sentencing. If the judge does not accept the plea as negotiated, the judge must allow the defense attorney to withdraw the plea, or it is automatically appealable.

Nolo Contendere or No Contest – In a nolo contendere (Latin for "I do not wish to contend," often shortened to nolo) or no contest plea, the child does not admit guilt but does not dispute the charges either. The no contest plea has the same effect as a guilty plea, but the child does not have to admit guilt. Section 17-23-40 specifically allows no contest pleas to be entered on misdemeanor charges with consent of the court; however, many judges will allow a no contest plea on almost any degree of crime. Even if the charge is a misdemeanor, the defense attorney should approach the judge before the plea begins to determine if the judge is willing to accept a no contest plea.

Alford Plea – In North Carolina v. Alford, 400 U.S. 25 (1970), the Supreme Court held that a defendant may enter a plea of guilty while actually maintaining his innocence. In order to enter an Alford plea, the defendant must be convinced, after being informed of the evidence against him, that he would be found guilty if he went to trial. The defendant must also receive some benefit from the plea, such as a reduced charge or favorable sentence recommendation. Acceptance of an Alford plea is in the court's discretion.

South Carolina does NOT recognize conditional guilty pleas. State v. Rice, 737 S.E.2d 485 (S.C. 2013). See also In re Johnny Lee W., 638 S.E.2d 682, 684 (S.C. 2006) ("A trial court may not accept a conditional plea.").

- In South Carolina, a guilty plea constitutes a waiver of nonjurisdictional defects and claims of violations of constitutional rights. Rivers v. Strickland, 213 S.E.2d 97 (S.C. 1975).

DUTY TO WITHDRAW FROM PLEA

In Santobello v. New York, 404 U.S. 257, (1971) the Court established that "state prosecutors are obligated to fulfill the promises they make to defendants when those promises serve as inducements to defendants to plead guilty." See Sprouse v. State, 585 S.E.2d 278 (S.C. 2003). If the defense enters into an agreement with the solicitor and the solicitor appears to stray from the pre-arranged terms of the plea, the defense must move to withdraw from the plea. In Jordan v. State, 374 S.E.2d 683 (S.C. 1988), the court held that counsel was ineffective for failure to attempt to withdraw from the plea where the solicitor opposed probation after promising to remain silent on the issue. The court stated that counsel's failure to protect defendant's right to enforce the plea agreement with the solicitor's office fell below "prevailing professional norms." The court also held that there was a reasonable probability that "but for the fact that counsel failed to object to the continuation of the guilty plea proceeding once the solicitor reneged on the plea-bargaining agreement, that defendant would not have pleaded guilty, but would have insisted on going to trial." The defense attorney must also move to withdraw if the judge appears to deviate from the terms of a negotiated plea. Brooks v. State, 481 S.E.2d 712 (S.C. 1997).

DISPOSITION

DISPOSITION PLANNING AND ADVOCACY

Disposition planning and advocacy should begin at the initiation of the attorney-client relationship. The ultimate goal is to get the most appropriate and least restrictive sentence possible for your client if he or she is adjudicated delinquent.

When interviewing your client and client's guardian, obtain as much relevant information about your client and his surrounding circumstances as possible, such as background information regarding family dynamics, school history, employment history, mental health issues, prior record, and extra-curricular activities. When available, obtain corroborating evidence such as DJJ, DSS, school, medical and mental health records, which may have to be subpoenaed.

Keep your client informed and involved in the development of the disposition plan throughout the process. Identify services and programs available in the community that would benefit your client and client's family, and help your client understand and weigh his or her options. If your client wishes to take part in the services or programs you have identified, contact those services providers and determine what needs to be done to apply for admission.

When preparing for disposition, keep in mind that your role as a defense counsel is to represent your client's expressed interests. You also have a responsibility to fully explain to your client:

- the nature of the dispositional hearing;
- the sentencing options available to the court;
- the nature, obligations, and consequences of any proposed disposition plan and the possible duration of his or her responsibilities under the plan;
- the meaning of terms or conditions of probation and the implications of violating those terms; and
- what to expect if commitment to a DJJ facility or other out-of-home placement is a possibility.

BEFORE YOUR CLIENT ENTERS A GUILTY PLEA OR GOES TO TRIAL

Discuss with your client the disposition options available to the court and the possible outcomes of the case.

Standard Options Available to the Court at Disposition

- Dismissal of the petition or termination of jurisdiction. § 63-19-1410(7).
- Probation. § 63-19-1410(A)(3).
The court may place the child on probation for any amount of time up until the child's 20th birthday.
 - The court may order straight probation, probation with a suspended commitment to DJJ, or probation to follow a determinate sentence.
- Conditions of probation may include monetary restitution, community service, participation in a community mentor program, and/or a fine of up to $200 for an offense that carries a fine in adult court.
- Advise your client of the possible length and terms of probation and the implications of violating the terms of probation.
- Commitment to DJJ. § 63-19-1440(B).
The court may order that the child be committed to the custody of DJJ:
 - for an indeterminate period not to exceed the child's 22nd birthday.

- A child committed for an indeterminate period will receive Parole Guidelines of a minimum and maximum number of months the child may remain committed. Familiarize yourself with the Guidelines so you can advise your client regarding the potential length of commitment. Make sure your client understands that these are only guidelines (there is a rebuttable presumption against release prior to minimum and retention after maximum) and his or her behavior while committed will also impact the date of release. (See Parole section for additional information and an explanation of how the guidelines are determined.)
- for a determinate sentence of up to 90 days for each adjudicated delinquent offense.
 - A child committed to DJJ for a determinate or indeterminate sentence is entitled to receive credit for time served “for each day...detained in or temporarily committed to any secure pre-dispositional facility, center or program.” § 63-19-1440(I).

Collateral Consequences of an Adjudication and Disposition

Advise your client of any possible collateral consequences of the adjudication and disposition, such as:

- Fingerprinting. §§ 63-19-2030(G)-(L)
- Photographing. § 63-19-2030(F)
- DNA testing. § 23-3-620
- Driver’s license suspension. § 63-19-1420)
- School notification. § 63-19-2020 (E)
- Transfer from DJJ to Department of Corrections at age 17 or 19. § 63-19-1440(E)
- Conditional release following DJJ commitment. § 63-19-1850
- Sex offender registry (Article 7 Chapter 3 of Title 23)
- Sexually Violent Predator Act (Article 7 Chapter 48 of Title 44)

- Impact on immigration status, including deportation
- Loss of scholarships (e.g., Hope, LIFE)

BEFORE YOUR CLIENT UNDERGOES A PREDISPOSITION EVALUATION

Prior to sentencing a child who has been adjudicated delinquent, the court may order that the child undergo a community or residential evaluation by DJJ. (See Dispositional Hearing section for more information regarding the predisposition evaluation.) Fully explain the implications of the evaluation and the impact that findings in the evaluation report will have on the child’s sentencing. Ensure that your client and his or her parents understand the nature of the predisposition evaluation process and the importance of statements the child and child’s family may make in interviews with DJJ officers and evaluators.

Your client needs to understand that his or her behavior will be closely monitored during the entire evaluation period. If the evaluation is conducted at a DJJ center, staff observations, both positive and negative, will be recorded in the evaluation report, which will be read and relied upon by the judge ruling on disposition. The child’s behavior during the 30- to 45-day evaluation period will likely impact the judge’s decision regarding disposition.

BEFORE THE DISPOSITIONAL HEARING

Understanding the child’s needs, strengths, and challenges is crucial to developing the most appropriate disposition plan and advocating for your client at the hearing. In preparation for the dispositional hearing, it is critical to gain a clear understanding of how the child is doing at home and in school. In family court, a judge’s decision regarding sentencing may be influenced as much by the child’s behavior at home and school as by the nature of the offense(s) for which the child is being adjudicated. Therefore, it is very important to have an accurate account of how the child is performing in school, both behaviorally as well as academically, and at home. What kind of attendance and disciplinary record does the child have at school? Is the child well-behaved at home? Does the child seem to respect authority? Has the child experienced any type of trauma? Has the child exhibited any violent, runaway or incorrigible behavior?

While you will want to focus on your client's strengths, you need to be prepared to address the court's concerns for safety, for the community and the child, and any real or perceived shortcomings on the part of the child's parents or guardian such as lack of appropriate supervision, structure and support.

If your client is returning to court for a dispositional hearing following an evaluation, contact the DJJ caseworker who will be preparing the predisposition evaluation report and provide any relevant information favorable to your client, including any mitigating factors and the child's version of the offense and surrounding circumstances, if appropriate.

You should receive the evaluation report from DJJ several days before going to court to ensure you have adequate time to prepare for the hearing. Review the report and discuss it with your client. If the report contains any incorrect or misleading information, contact DJJ and try to get that information corrected or deleted before the court hearing or prepare to challenge the inaccurate information at the hearing. Refer to the next section, "Effective Use of Evaluation Reports," for tips on using the information in the report to advocate for your client.

Prior to the hearing, you should also:

- Collect affidavits and letters of support from appropriate members of the community, such as teachers, coaches, pastors, neighbors, extended family members, and family friends.
- Contact any potential character witnesses willing to speak on your client's behalf at the hearing and meet with them to discuss what they will say.

- Prepare your client and his parent or guardian for what they should expect as far as courtroom procedures, the judge's practices, dispositional options available to the court, and the likely outcome of the dispositional hearing (i.e., what you think the judge will do as far as sentencing). Make it clear that there is no way to know for sure what the judge's sentence will be until the judge makes the final order for disposition.
- Prepare your client to speak briefly at the hearing if he or she wishes to do so and in anticipation of the judge asking your client to speak.
- Prepare your client's parent or guardian to speak briefly at the hearing and answer questions the judge may ask regarding the juvenile's behavior at home. If your client's relationship with his or her parent or guardian is strained, carefully explain the possible implications the parent's statements may have on the judge's sentencing decision. Discourage the parents from venting their frustrations with their child to the judge, as their statements could greatly influence the judge's decision to allow the child to return home and may result in the child being committed to DJJ. Make sure they understand that if the judge orders out of home placement or commitment to DJJ, the parent will have lost all control to bring their child home.

Pre-hearing Negotiations

Both the prosecutor and the DJJ representative in court will make recommendations to the judge as to disposition, so contact them prior to court, determine what they intend to recommend, and try to come to an agreement as to an appropriate disposition plan. You may be able to persuade the prosecutor and or DJJ to change their recommendations or to agree with your proposed plan if you provide additional information favorable to your client to back up your position.

DEVELOPING A PLAN

When developing a disposition plan to present to the court, involve your client and make sure he or she is in agreement with all aspects of the proposed plan. You should not make or agree to any recommendations without your client's informed consent. The plan should entail the least restrictive disposition alternatives based on the child's strengths that also address the court's concerns.

Familiarize yourself with options available to the court by state statute, community services and resources, and out-of-home placement options that may be useful in developing a plan tailored to your client's needs and circumstances. A judge who is inclined to commit a child to DJJ may be persuaded to allow the child to return home or place the child in an alternative setting in the community if enough safeguards and services are put in place.

* Contact staff at the local DJJ office and/or the Children's Law Center, USC School of Law for guidance regarding community-based services, programs, and resources.

Consider whether an independent private evaluation or assessment is needed to assist in the development of a plan.

Additional information regarding creative approaches to dispositional planning can be found in Creative Sentencing in Juvenile Court, another Children's Law Center publication available on the Children's Law Center website at <http://childlaw.sc.edu> under Juvenile Justice Publications.

Advocating for Probation

If requesting probation for your client, present the court with a comprehensive plan tailored specifically to meet your client's needs and address the court's concerns. Advocate for probationary terms that are reasonable given the offense(s) for which the child has been adjudicated and feasible for your client and his or her family, taking into account availability of transportation to services and activities, and. Argue against terms that set your client up to fail and sanctions that allow your client to be sent to placement for violations without another hearing.

Refer to the following language found in § 63-19-1410(3) to bolster arguments for appropriate terms and conditions of probation:

- "Probation must not be ordered or administered as punishment but as a measure for the protection, guidance, and well-being of the child and the child's family."
- "Probation methods must be directed to the discovery and correction of the basic causes of maladjustment and to the development of the child's personality and character, with the aid of the social resources of the community."

FOLLOWING THE DISPOSITION HEARING

Carefully review the final order. If the order contains any errors, file objections and request a hearing to get the order corrected.

Thoroughly explain the court's ruling as to disposition to your client and his or her parents or guardian. Make sure your client understands the implications of the disposition, what will be expected of him or her, and the consequences of not cooperating with the order.

Discuss with your client his or her right to appeal the court's final ruling and make sure that right is protected until appellate counsel is substituted or your client decides not to exercise this privilege. Inform your client that the appellate counsel will guide him or her through the appellate process and will explain whether there are grounds for appeal, the likely results of an appeal, and the potential advantages and disadvantages associated with appeal.

If your client was adjudicated for a status or nonviolent offense, inform him/her of the availability of expungement of his/her juvenile record upon turning 18 under § 63-19-2050.

EFFECTIVE USE OF PREDISPOSITION EVALUATION REPORTS

This section examines the various parts of the DJJ evaluation report and provides tips on using the information presented to effectively advocate for your client at the disposition hearing. Because judges rely heavily on these reports when sentencing juveniles, it is critical that you read the report in its entirety and not rely on the summary or merely skim over the report. In addition to highlighting all the positive points presented in the report, you should also be prepared to address any seemingly negative points at the disposition hearing.

There are two types of predisposition evaluations conducted by DJJ - the Community Psychological Evaluation (Community Evaluation) and the Residential Evaluation (also referred to as the Secure Evaluation). This section follows the formatting used by DJJ for the Residential Evaluation reports, which include additional attachments and information not presented in the Community Evaluation reports.

When preparing for disposition, keep in mind that you are tasked with representing your juvenile client's expressed interests. The following excerpt is from the ABA Model Rules of Professional Conduct (Model Rules): Preamble; 1.14(a) Client with Diminished Capacity; 1.2(a) Scope of Representation and Allocation of Authority between Client and Lawyer:

At each stage of the case, juvenile defense counsel acts as the client's voice in the proceedings, advocating for the client's expressed interests, not the client's "best interest" as determined by counsel, the client's parents or guardian, the probation officer, the prosecutor, or the judge. With respect to the duty of loyalty owed to the client, the juvenile delinquency attorney-client relationship mirrors the adult criminal attorney-client relationship. In the juvenile defender's day-to-day activities, the establishment of the attorney-client relationship is animated by allocating the case decision-making, and practicing the special training required to represent clients with diminished capacity.

EVALUATION REPORT COVER SHEET

Dates of Commitment & Release (for residential evaluations)

The length of time a juvenile spends at an evaluation center is important. Even though time spent at an evaluation center is for evaluation and not intended to be "punishment," from the juvenile's perspective, this is no different than being committed to DJJ. The juvenile is away from his or her home and family, locked up in a secure institutional facility, surrounded by a barbed wire fence, and is required to comply with all the rules of the facility or face consequences. However long the evaluation period is, generally 35 – 45 days, to a 14- or 15-year-old, it is a very long time. Use this information to bolster your argument for allowing the juvenile to return home or to the community if alternative placement is the only viable option.

If the juvenile is subsequently committed to DJJ at the disposition hearing, he or she will receive credit for each day temporarily committed to the evaluation center. § 63-19-1440(l).

Attachments List

As soon as you receive your copy of the evaluation report, make sure all attachments that are checked off are included with the report so you have adequate time to obtain any missing information.

- Form 5

The Form 5 was developed by DJJ to provide basic information about the juvenile. You should already have the majority of this information from your initial interview with your client and the child's parent/guardian, but there also may be additional useful information included.

Check for Accuracy- Closely examine this form to check for possible errors, especially in the "Legal History" section. Make sure it accurately reflects court outcomes affected by negotiated pleas, such as reduction of charges to lesser included offenses or dismissals of certain charges. DJJ's recommendation for disposition is based in part on the juvenile's legal history, so any errors or discrepancies identified should be discussed with DJJ prior to court to determine if correcting the information could positively affect their recommendation.

Medicaid - This form also provides the child's Medicaid number if applicable. When planning for disposition, you should know if your client has insurance or Medicaid which may be required when applying to certain programs in the community, especially private residential treatment facilities. If the child does not have insurance, is eligible for Medicaid, but has not yet applied, make sure the child's guardian applies for Medicaid as soon as possible before the disposition hearing to avoid unnecessary delays in placement or acceptance to a treatment program.

Applications for Medicaid can be obtained from the SC Department of Health and Human Services or from the county health departments, most hospitals, and the county DSS offices. Applications for Medicaid may be filed in person or by mail.

DJJ Personnel - The "DJJ Personnel" section identifies the names of DJJ intake counselors and social workers assigned to the child who you may want to contact. They can often provide additional insight regarding a child's behavior while being evaluated and may be able to identify positive points you can present to the court on behalf of your client.

Juvenile Traits - The "Juvenile Traits," indicates whether DNA testing was conducted on the child or if the child was required to register as a sex offender. Again, review for accuracy.

- Court Order

You should have already received a copy of the court order and thoroughly reviewed it for any discrepancies from your notes or recollection of the court's order at the adjudicatory hearing, especially with regard to any handwritten notes added to a standard order.

When preparing your disposition arguments for the court, include any information regarding the adjudicated offense favorable to the juvenile, such as mitigating factors and relative culpability.

Make sure that any agencies or service providers included in the order have complied with the applicable terms. Was the DSS home study or investigation conducted as ordered by the court? Was an interagency staffing conducted, and did all the identified agencies participate? Have services been provided during the evaluation period as ordered?

- Psychosocial Evaluation

- Psychiatric Evaluation

A psychiatric evaluation will be conducted only if specifically ordered by the court or if there are indicators of a psychiatric problem. Juveniles who are prescribed psychotropic medication or are believed to be in need of psychotropic medication will be referred to the DJJ consulting psychiatrist for medication monitoring or assessment. This information will be referenced in the Psychosocial Evaluation report under "Relevant History."

- Student Transcript
If the juvenile performed well in class, it may be helpful to contact the lead teacher (name and phone number should be included on the form) to see if he or she has any positive comments that could be shared with the court. The teacher may also be able to provide you with some insight into the educational needs of the juvenile.
- Health Examination Record
The vision test may reveal a need for glasses or contacts. Consider the possibility that untreated eyesight problems could be contributing to poor academic performance.
- Medical Lab Report

Release should be limited to only that information which is pertinent to the needs of the requesting party. Prior to release to parents/caregivers, the evaluation should first be explained thoroughly by a qualified professional.

Before beginning the evaluation, (Juvenile's Name) and (Parent's Name) were informed of the purpose of the evaluation, what type of information would be requested, and how it would be used. They were also told that the results of the evaluation were not confidential and would be shared with the attorneys, family court officials, and South Carolina Department of Juvenile Justice (SCDJJ) personnel. They were informed that suspected child abuse or neglect must be reported to the proper authorities. (Juvenile's Name) and (Parent's Name) indicated that they understood the limits of confidentiality.

PSYCHOSOCIAL EVALUATION

Referral Statement

If there are specific referral questions posed by the court in the order for evaluation, make sure that they are addressed in the evaluation report.

Notice

The following statement of confidentiality is standard in all evaluation reports and should be read thoroughly and taken very seriously.

This report is meant only for the use of qualified professionals and others involved from a legal perspective with this psychological evaluation for disposition. No unauthorized disclosure of this report or information contained in this report is allowed and any person who, without proper authorization, discloses information contained in this report assumes all liability associated therewith. Some individuals and family members may tend to misunderstand and/or distort the information presented herein, which could result in significant stress to the individual or may interfere with rehabilitative services. For individuals with certain mental health or behavioral issues, the consequences of disclosure may be serious.

You should obtain your client's permission before revealing any information contained in the report, even if it is to the child's parent or guardian. Even with your client's permission, it is almost never a good idea to give a full copy of the report to the juvenile's parent or guardian, or anyone else, for reasons identified in the confidentiality statement above. If there is information from the report you believe the parent needs to know in order to help the child's legal situation, then, after obtaining the child's permission, discuss those parts of the report with the parent as needed.

DJJ has a procedure whereby parents who are interested in obtaining a copy of the Psychosocial Evaluation (or Community Evaluation) have a meeting with a Community Psychologist who goes through the evaluation with the parent, explains any information that might be confusing, and answers any questions the parent may have.

Sources of Information

Possible sources include interviews with the juvenile, the parents, the juvenile's school, and other interested parties; interagency staffings; DJJ file information, including previous treatment records; behavioral observations; and psychological tests administered during the predisposition evaluation period, as well as reports from previous testing when available.

Check for any glaring omissions, such as the noncustodial parent who is still involved in the juvenile's life or the absence of an agency representative at an interagency staffing, if applicable.

This may also list other evaluations of the juvenile previously conducted that were considered as part of the current evaluation process. Request copies of any evaluations you have not previously reviewed, as they may provide valuable insight regarding services provided in the past and whether or not they were effective in helping the juvenile.

DJJ History and Summary of Current Offense

Check for accuracy. This information generally is obtained from the juvenile petition and the police incident report.

Juvenile/Parent Account of Current Charge

Be on guard for misrepresentations. Discuss with your client any information reported that may have been misinterpreted by the evaluator that needs clarification.

Family Functioning

Family involvement and support is a crucial part of an effective dispositional plan and the juvenile's future success, so pay close attention to this section. When the information in this section is thorough and derived from different accounts of various family members, it can provide insight into the needs of the juvenile and can also be a good indicator of counseling needs of the parents and family as a whole. However, if only one parent or family member is interviewed, exercise caution when relying on the reported information, as it could be distorted by that individual's perception.

This section may also provide information about other relatives with whom the juvenile may be able to live if returning to the home is problematic or unlikely.

Adolescent Functioning / Relevant History

When reviewing this section, does any of the information provided bring into question the juvenile's competency? Even though the juvenile has been adjudicated, remember that competency can be raised at any point in the court process.

This provides extensive reports of everything known to the evaluator from the child's history including :

- Factors possibly affecting his or her mental health,
This includes: complications of mother's pregnancy or at birth; developmental delays; history of head injuries, serious illnesses, or seizures; physical or sexual abuse; neglect; DSS involvement; mental health services received, hospitalizations, diagnoses, and medications; and results from assessments including:
 - the CDI-2, a depression screening inventory,
 - the JVQ-R2, a screening instrument designed to assess a child's lifetime history of exposure to violence in multiple settings, and
 - the SASSI-A2, a self-report substance abuse screening inventory.

- School/Job Functioning

This information is gathered from self-reports, interviews with parents, and school records.

If a juvenile has been suspended for the duration of the school year or expelled from school and unable to reenroll due to statutory or policy barriers, this will likely impact the recommendations by DJJ, as well as the judge's ruling regarding disposition and placement. Be prepared to offer alternatives to show the court that the expelled juvenile will be keeping busy (i.e., staying out of trouble). Encourage your client, if old enough, to enroll in an adult education program, take a GED course, or find a job so you have something to report to the court.

- Peer Relations

This tends to be self-reported. It can be an indicator of the need for more positive peer influences and exposure to extracurricular activities such as sports, music, theater or community park activities that may be available to the juvenile, either through the juvenile's school or within safe walking distance to the juvenile's home if lack of transportation is a limiting factor.

Reports of gang involvement will also be included in this section.

- Community Functioning

This generally includes a brief description of the juvenile's home and neighborhood (including crime and gang activity).

A positive change in the juvenile's living arrangements can bolster an argument for allowing the juvenile to remain in the community instead of being committed to DJJ. For example, the juvenile lived with his mother in a high-crime area but is moving in with his father in a neighborhood with much less crime and away from the negative peer influences from his former neighborhood. Be prepared to respond to questioning from the court as to how the juvenile plans to avoid future involvement with negative peers in the new neighborhood.

- Adjustment at the Evaluation Center Placement

Judges generally tend to pay special attention to this section. Obviously, you will want to emphasize any reports of positive behaviors in the residential and/or educational settings and respond to statements regarding negative behavior. Reports of negative and disruptive behavior at the evaluation center could influence a judge's decision on sentencing and increase the likelihood of commitment to a DJJ facility for disposition. Contact the juvenile's social worker or teacher at the evaluation center to see if there is any helpful information that was left out of the report. For example, if the report includes a negative incident involving the juvenile in the school setting, contact the teacher at the center and see if you can gain any insight into the surrounding circumstances or if perhaps the juvenile's behavior improved following the writing of the report but prior to release from the center.

Psychological Assessment and Interpretation

- Behavioral Observations

This includes information relative to the juvenile's eye contact, hygiene, psychomotor activity, speech, mood, attention/concentration, and cooperation with the examiner during the interview and testing.

- Mental Status

This includes information relative to the juvenile's alertness, awareness, memory, and intellectual and psychological functioning.

- Cognitive and Academic Functioning

This includes history of intelligence tests and psychosocial educational evaluations along with explanations of the tests and scoring.

- Personality/Emotional Testing

This section reports results from several assessments conducted as part of the evaluation process, including:

- The BASC-3 (Behavior Assessment System for Children) - emotional functioning, behavior and interpersonal relationships
- The PAI-A, a self-report instrument that measures personality patterns, interpersonal functioning, expressed concerns and clinical syndromes.
- The RISB (Rotter Incomplete Sentences Blank) – an evaluation of the ability to put ideas into writing and a measure of personality functioning.

Resiliency Factors

When addressing the court, focus on emphasizing the strengths listed in this section as well as other unlisted strengths you have identified while representing the juvenile. Identify all the juvenile's positive attributes you have personally witnessed in your dealings with your client, such as good manners, honesty, remorse and responsibility for misbehavior, and a desire to stay out of future trouble.

Summary and Conclusions

The judge may rely more on the summary as a guide during the actual hearing, especially on court days when presiding over numerous disposition hearings. Highlight important parts included in the summary and add any points found in other parts of the report that are not reiterated in the summary.

DSM-5 Diagnostic Impressions

This section lists the juvenile's diagnosed mental health disorders from the Diagnostic and Statistical Manual of Mental Disorders-V (DSM-V). The DSM-V, published by the American Psychiatric Association, lists the diagnostic criteria for mental disorders.

If your client has a mental health diagnosis, you will want to have at least a basic understanding of the disorder and the implications of that diagnosis as far as needs of the juvenile and beneficial services that are available. Also, consider whether information revealed in this section brings into question the juvenile's competency.

Recommendations

If you are privy to information that was not included in the evaluation report that could feasibly change the recommendation to one resulting in a more positive outcome for your client, contact the DJJ staff prior to the scheduled court hearing to see if you can influence a change in their recommendation to the court.

Review this section closely with your client and determine if your client is willing to comply with the recommendations as listed. If not, be prepared to argue to the court why your client should not have to comply or at least be prepared to present your client's wishes to the court.

If community service is recommended, discuss with your client possible community service options that correspond to the child's interests. If, for example your client loves animals, you might request that the community service ordered by the court be performed at an animal shelter. Discuss possible options with your local DJJ representative.

If DJJ is recommending alternative placement and your client wishes to go home, you have to present your client's wishes to the court. In situations where it is unlikely that the judge will allow the juvenile to return home (e.g., the parents are unable to provide sufficient supervision or the judge makes it clear at adjudication that home placement is not an option), it would be prudent to discuss possible alternative placement options with your client to determine what might be agreeable.

Also, check with DJJ to determine if a specific alternative placement has been identified and if bed space is likely to be available at the time of the disposition hearing.

If there is an application that needs to be completed, make sure that process has been initiated to avoid delays that could potentially result in the unnecessary detention of the juvenile in a secure facility pending placement. Contact the county DJJ office to check on an application or to encourage initiation of an application.

Detention of the juvenile pending alternative placement can also be avoided by presenting the court with available options such as voice or electronic monitoring or house arrest.

DISPOSITIONAL HEARING

The dispositional hearing is the sentencing phase of the family court process. It is the hearing where the judge determines what is most appropriate regarding treatment and custody for a child who has been adjudicated delinquent, while addressing concerns of community safety. In making this determination, the judge will consider the seriousness of the offense, the child's prior record, the child's family background, school records, and any available social reports or evaluations.

TIMING

The dispositional hearing may be held immediately following the adjudicatory hearing, or it may be scheduled for a later date, pending an evaluation of the child and the child's circumstances.

PREDISPOSITION EVALUATION

There are two reasons why the judge may order a child to undergo a predisposition evaluation: (1) the judge may determine that he or she needs more information about the child and the child's needs before sentencing the child; or (2) it may be required by law.

Before committing a child to DJJ, the court must order the child to undergo an evaluation unless one of the exceptions described below applies. There are two types of predisposition evaluations: the community evaluation, where the child remains at home or in alternative placement in the community while undergoing the evaluation; and the residential evaluation, where the child is committed to DJJ for not more than 45 days while undergoing the evaluation. § 63-19-1440(C).

Both types of evaluation include psychological, social, and educational assessments. A child who undergoes a residential evaluation will also receive a medical examination and attend school while at the evaluation center. § 63-19-1440(C).

Following either type of evaluation, DJJ will submit an evaluation report to the court. The evaluation report includes: information gathered from interviews with the child and the child's parents or guardian; psychological evaluations, psychiatric evaluations and tests when deemed necessary; information gathered from the child's teachers and school officials; an overview of the child's school and court records; and recommendations regarding treatment and services that would benefit the child.

The court may waive the evaluation in writing and move straight into disposition of the case if the child:

- has already undergone a community or residential evaluation and the evaluation is available to the court;
- has been released from DJJ within the past year and the child's previous evaluation or other equivalent information is available to the court; or
- receives a sentence of probation or if committed to DJJ, it is for a determinate sentence of 90 days or less. § 63-19-1440(C).

DISPOSITIONAL HEARING PROCEEDINGS

Rule 37, SCRFC, requires the judge who presided over the adjudicatory hearing to preside over the disposition hearing as well, unless a change of venue is made pursuant to Rule 33(b), SCRFC, or unless "otherwise unavailable." In practice, and especially in larger counties with several family court judges, the judge assigned to juvenile cases the day the child is scheduled for the dispositional hearing is the judge who will preside, as opposed to the judge who actually presided over the adjudicatory hearing.

The SC Rules of Evidence (other than with respect to privileges) do not apply in dispositional hearings in juvenile delinquency matters. Rule 1101(d)(3), SCRE.

Though proceedings may vary county to county, the following is an overview of a typical dispositional hearing:

- The hearing generally begins with the solicitor calling the case.
- The judge will then ask to hear from the DJJ community specialist who will report on the child's school records and prior court history. The DJJ representative will also highlight the evaluation report if an evaluation was conducted, which the judge will have read in full prior to the hearing, and make a recommendation on behalf of DJJ as to sentencing.
- The solicitor will address the court and make a recommendation regarding sentencing.
- The court will hear from the defense attorney who will speak on the child's behalf and request a sentence for the child.
- The court may also ask the child and the child's parents questions before sentencing the child.

DISPOSITIONAL POWERS OF THE COURT

The dispositional powers of the court are controlled by statute, §§ 63-19-1410 to -1450. Standard options available to the court include:

- Dismissal of the petition or termination of jurisdiction. § 63-19-1410(7).
- Probation for any amount of time up until the child's 20th birthday, with conditions as determined by the court which may include alternative placement. § 63-19-1410(A)(3).
- Commitment to DJJ for an indeterminate period not to exceed the child's 22nd birthday. § 63-19-1440(B).
- Commitment to DJJ for a determinate sentence of up to 90 days for each adjudicated delinquent offense. § 63-19-1440(B).

JUVENILE APPEALS

JUVENILE APPEALS OVERVIEW

APPELLATE COURT RULES

Generally, final orders of the family court are appealable to the Court of Appeals. The South Carolina Appellate Court Rules apply to appeals from family court orders. Section 63-3-630 states that a juvenile's right to appeal "must be governed by the same rules, practices, and procedures that govern appeals from the circuit court."

DIVISION OF APPELLATE DEFENSE

The Division of Appellate Defense, South Carolina Commission on Indigent Defense (SCCID) represents indigent juvenile defendants in appeals to the South Carolina Supreme Court and Court of Appeals.

PROPER ERROR PRESERVATION AT TRIAL LEVEL

General principles of preserving error for appellate review apply to juvenile cases just as they do to adult criminal appeals:

- An issue must be raised to and ruled upon by the trial judge. State v. Williams, 401 S.E.2d 168 (S.C. 1991).
- Objections must be on a specific ground. State v. Bailey, 170 S.E. 2d 376 (S.C. 1969).

NOTICE OF INTENT TO APPEAL

The notice of intent to appeal a juvenile action from the family court must be filed within 10 days after receipt of written notice of entry of the order or judgment. Rules 203(b)(2) and b(3), SCACR. Because the notice of intent to appeal confers subject matter jurisdiction upon the appellate courts, it is critical that the notice be filed in a timely manner.

The notice of intent to appeal should be filed from the dispositional order rather than the adjudicatory order. In re Lorenzo B., 415 S.E. 2d 795 (S.C. 1992).

EXTRAORDINARY WRITS

One obstacle to providing juveniles with adequate post-dispositional representation is the difficulty of challenging a very short sentence in a slow appellate system. The average appeal may take a year or longer. A sentence of three, six, or even nine months may well be completed, and the issue will be moot before the appellate court decides the case. Extraordinary writs can be used to challenge these juvenile sentences.

SC Supreme Court cases involving successful attempts to obtain writs of supersedes to proceed with appeals on the basis of capable of repetition yet evading review:

- In the Interest of Vincent J., 509 S.E. 2d 261 (S.C. 1998). Holding: § 20-7-7810(F) (§ 63-19-1440(F)) does not limit a family court's power to commit non-status offenders for greater than 90 days for contempt. In footnote three, the Supreme Court noted the family court can not commit a contemnor to an indeterminate sentence because it would trigger the right to a jury trial and the family court does not conduct jury trials.
- In re Tonisha G., 520 S.E. 2d 807 (S.C. 1999), the court confirmed that where a status offender is charged with contempt of court, the sentence cannot exceed ninety days.

ADVERSE COLLATERAL CONSEQUENCES AND RIGHT OF REVIEW

“Where adverse collateral consequences may arise from an adjudication of delinquency, a juvenile may not be foreclosed from appeal simply because he is no longer in custody.”
In re Willie H., 327 S.E.2d 76 (S.C. 1985).

Examples of adverse collateral consequences identified by the Court:

- Use of a juvenile adjudication to impeach a witness in a subsequent legal proceeding. State v. Mallory, 242 S.E.2d 693 (S.C. 1978).
- Consideration by sentencing judge of adult defendant's juvenile record in imposing a sentence. Hayden v. State, 322 S.E.2d 14 (S.C. 1984).

APPELLATE PRACTICE FROM THE COURT'S PERSPECTIVE _____

The following materials were prepared by the Honorable H. Bruce Williams.

TIPS FOR THE TRIAL STAGE

- Preserving error requires not only that you raise an issue to the trial court, but that the trial court also rule upon the issue
- If the trial judge has made an important ruling off the record (i.e., in chambers or at a sidebar), ask the judge to recap the ruling on the record when a court reporter is present.
- If trying your case with a co-counsel, designate one person on the trial team with the task of preserving errors.
- Co-counsel's duties are to make sure: (1) key rulings are on the record; (2) proper instructions are submitted; (3) objections to testimony are made at the proper time and on the proper grounds; (4) excluded evidence is proffered; and (5) trial motions are made.
- Do not be afraid to object for cause during opposing counsel's closing argument for fear of tactics. You may miss an opportunity to argue an error on appeal.
- Even if you are worried the trial judge is going to “shh” you, a contemporaneous objection is critical for purposes of your appeal.
- If you have a motion in limine, remember it is generally not a final ruling. If you win the motion in limine, but opposing counsel later presents the excluded evidence, you must then object and ask for a mistrial. If evidence you want introduced is excluded in limine, you must proffer the evidence at trial for the appellate court to determine whether the exclusion is reversible error.

- Prepare your post-trial motions before the end of the trial. You want to be prepared to present them even if the court returns a surprise verdict.

IF YOU LOSE AT TRIAL

- Determine whether sufficient grounds for an appeal exist before filing.
- Consider the potential consequences of an appeal (a new trial may ultimately result in a harsher sentence).
- If you decide to appeal, read the appellate court rules thoroughly. The most important rule is the service of the notice of appeal because that goes to subject matter jurisdiction.
- Begin preparing your brief, paying attention to error preservation and scope of review.

STEPS FOR APPEAL

Step 1: File your notice of appeal, which must be served on all respondents within ten

(10) days after the sentence is imposed.
SCACR, Rule 203.

Step 2: The Brief Writing Process

- Carefully identify the issues on appeal; most successful appeals have only a few good issues.
- Acknowledge opposing counsel's strongest points and introduce (without arguing) the facts you will later use to counter the other side - A judge will be more inclined to accept the fairness of your statement under these conditions.
- Know your standard of review.
- Do not include lengthy quotes from one precedent after another without fitting the precedents into an overall pattern.
- Provide the court with an adequate record on appeal. Resist the temptation to include everything in the record on appeal, but do make sure you include all important information, such as passages which demonstrate the issues on appeal were raised at trial.

For Reply Briefs:

- Reply briefs can be less extensive than the first brief and should briefly discount Respondent's arguments.
- These are optional, but recommended, and are particularly essential if Respondent raises new matters (such as preservation) in his or her brief.

Step 3: Preparing for Oral Argument

- Master your record on appeal so you can respond to judges' questions by referring to specific cases or statutes in the record.
- Be specific in responding to the Court's question; if unsure of the answer, be forthright with the Court.
- Have a thorough understanding of the law applicable to your case.
- Do not limit your understanding to simply the cases cited in your brief and your opponent's brief. Rather, pay particular attention to any opinions issued since the briefs were filed.
- If arguing a principle which has not yet been addressed in South Carolina, be prepared to address cases in other jurisdictions which have spoken on the issue.
- Canned speeches are rarely effective; HOWEVER, it is wise to prepare an opening that captures the court's attention, and a closing that leaves the court with no doubt as to the relief you are seeking.
- Opening: What is this case about? Why is this case important? Explain to the court why it should rule in your favor.
- Middle: Consider every question from an appellate judge as a gift. Pay attention to the questions asked of you. Do not assume every question is adversarial to your position. Your argument is to the court, not to the other side.
- Closing: Be brief! When your time is up, conclude with your relief.

JUVENILE APPEAL CHECKLIST

*Appeal must be filed within 10 Days of Disposition (10 days, NOT 10 business days!) Best practice is to file the day after the trial.

Name of Client: _____

File Number: _____

1. Prepare "Notice of Appeal" (Duplicate original & make 4 copies).
2. Prepare "Proof of Service" (Duplicate original & make 4 copies).
3. File an original of the Notice of Appeal and an original of the Proof of Service with the family court. Have the four sets of copies certified as true copies of the originals filed. (Do this within 10 days of disposition.)
DATE FILED _____
4. Serve a certified true copy of the Notice of Appeal and Proof of Service on opposing counsel on the same date as the filing with the family court.
DATE OF SERVICE _____
5. File the original of the Notice of Appeal and Proof of Service with the South Carolina Court of Appeals by mailing them together. Also, include a certified true copy of any dispositional order issued in the case. (Do this within 10 days of service on opposing counsel.)
DATE MAILED _____
6. The Office of Appellate Defense will need the following if handling the appeal:
 - Notice of Appeal and Proof of Service;
 - Dates of all hearings with the name(s) of the presiding judge(s) and court reporter(s);
 - Order of Appointment and Affidavit of Indigency
 - Juvenile Petition and all family court orders, including dispositionDATE MAILED _____
7. Mail copies of all associated documents to client.

Notes:

Appellate Defense will get court exhibits and prosecution and defense exhibits directly from the clerk of court.

Regarding motions, the trial attorney should make sure any motions are made court's exhibits or defense exhibits at the trial level so they are part of the record - a motion filed with the clerk of court is not as good as an exhibit that is actually part of the record.

Appellate Defense does not expect to get discovery - such as confessions, search warrants, etc. - from the trial attorney. If relevant and argued at trial, they should have been made exhibits. For example, if arguing a search warrant was invalid, the search warrant should be made an exhibit by the trial attorney.

RULE 203 - NOTICE OF APPEAL

The following segments of Rule 203, SCACR are applicable to juvenile cases:

(a) NOTICE.

A party intending to appeal must serve and file a notice of appeal and otherwise comply with these Rules. Service and filing are defined by Rule 262.

(b) TIME FOR SERVICE.

(2) Appeals from the Court of General Sessions. After a plea or trial resulting in conviction or a proceeding resulting in revocation of probation, a notice of appeal shall be served on all respondents within ten (10) days after the sentence is imposed. In all other cases, a notice of appeal shall be served on all respondents within ten (10) days after receipt of written notice of entry of the order or judgment. When a timely post-trial motion is made under Rule 29(a), SCRCrimP, the time to appeal shall be stayed and shall begin to run from receipt of written notice of entry of an order granting or denying such motion. In those cases in which the State is allowed to appeal a pre-trial order or ruling, the notice of appeal must be served within ten (10) days of receiving actual notice of the ruling or order; provided, however, that the notice of appeal must be served before the jury is sworn or, if tried without a jury, before the State begins the presentation of its case in chief.

(3) Appeals from the Family Court. A notice of appeal in a juvenile action shall be served in the same manner as provided by Rule 203(b)(2).

(d) FILING.

(1) Appeals from the... Family Court....

(A) Where to File. The notice of appeal shall be filed with the clerk of the lower court and with the Clerk of the Supreme Court in the following cases:

(ii) Any final judgment involving a challenge on state or federal grounds to the constitutionality of a state law or county or municipal ordinance where the principal issue is one of the constitutionality of the law or ordinance; provided, however, in any case where the Supreme Court finds that the constitutional issue raised is not a significant one, the Supreme Court may transfer the case to the Court of Appeals.

In all other cases, the notice of appeal shall be filed with the clerk of the lower court and the Clerk of the Court of Appeals.

(B) When and What to File. The notice of appeal shall be filed with the clerk of the lower court and the clerk of the appellate court within ten (10) days after the notice of appeal is served. The notice filed with the appellate court shall be accompanied by the following:

- (i) Proof of service showing that the notice has been served on all respondents;
- (ii) A copy of the order(s) and judgment(s) to be challenged on appeal if they have been reduced to writing;

This explanation should identify the issue(s) to be raised on appeal and the factual basis for the issue(s) including how the issue(s) was raised below and the ruling of the lower court on that issue(s). If an issue was not raised to and ruled on by the lower court, the explanation shall include argument and citation to legal authority showing how this issue can be reviewed on appeal. If the appellant fails to make a sufficient showing, the notice of appeal may be dismissed;
- (v) If the notice of appeal is from a post-conviction relief case and the lower court

(vi) If the notice of appeal is from a habeas corpus proceeding and the lower court determined that habeas corpus relief was improper because the issues could have been raised in a timely application under the Post-Conviction Relief Act (see Simpson v. State, 329 S.C. 43, 495 S.E.2d 429 (1998)), a written explanation as to why this determination was improper. This explanation must contain sufficient facts, argument and citation to legal authority to show that there is an arguable basis for asserting that the determination by the lower court was improper. If the appellant fails to make a sufficient showing, the notice of appeal may be dismissed.

(D) The name of the party taking the appeal.

(E) The names, mailing addresses, and telephone numbers of all attorneys of record and the names of the party or parties represented by each.

PAROLE

PAROLE OVERVIEW

When a juvenile is committed to DJJ for an indeterminate sentence, the length of commitment is determined by several factors discussed below, which are reviewed by an authorized releasing entity. When releasing a child from an indeterminate commitment, the releasing entity has the option of granting the child an unconditional or a conditional release. A juvenile conditionally released remains under the releasing entity's authority until the specified term imposed in the juvenile's conditional aftercare release expires. § 63-19-1850(A).

RELEASE AUTHORITY

The release and revocation of release of juveniles committed to DJJ for an indeterminate period is determined by one of two releasing entities under § 63-19-1810:

- DJJ - for juveniles committed after March 31, 2007 for a status offense or a misdemeanor, and for juveniles who have violated probation for a status offense or a misdemeanor; or
- Board of Juvenile Parole (Parole Board) - for juveniles committed for any other offense.

THE PAROLE BOARD

The Parole Board is composed of 10 members who are appointed by the Governor for four-year terms. § 63-19-610. The Parole Board is required to:

- meet at least monthly to review the records and progress of juveniles committed to DJJ for the purpose of deciding the release or revocation of release of these juveniles.
- inspect, at least quarterly, the records of these juveniles and, as deemed appropriate, issue temporary and final discharges or release these juveniles conditionally and prescribe their parole conditions. 63-19-1820(A)(1).

DJJ RELEASE AUTHORITY

The DJJ internal Release Authority consists of three panel members appointed by the Director. The release process, including the computation of guidelines, mirrors that of the Parole Board for the most part. DJJ generally handles the release for category III through VI offenses (most misdemeanors, status offenses, and probation violations for those offenses). One difference is that the "internal release" guidelines are shorter than those of the Parole Board. (e.g., instead of 1-3, 3-6, and 6-12 months, they are 1-3, 2-5, and 5-10 months.

GUIDELINES

The releasing entities have established "guidelines" for determining the length of commitment for children serving indeterminate sentences at DJJ. Guidelines are a range of time with a minimum and maximum number of months the child will likely serve during the commitment period. The guidelines run anywhere from 1-3 months to 36-54 months.

The releasing entities use these guidelines, along with reports of the child's behavior and progress, to determine the length of commitment. The releasing entities may keep indeterminately committed children at DJJ beyond their maximum guidelines, but not past their twenty-first birthday. They may also release children prior to their minimum guidelines for good behavior.

A child who is conditionally released or released on parole will be under the releasing entity's authority for a specified period of time not to exceed the child's twenty-first birthday. A child conditionally released is "subject to the conditions and restrictions of the release and may at any time on the order of the releasing entity be returned to the custody of a correctional institution for violation of aftercare rules or conditions of release." § 63-19-1850(A).

PAROLE CONDITIONS

A child released on parole may be required to pay restitution, participate in work ordered by the court, and/or participate in community service programs. § 63-19-1850(B).

PAROLE GUIDELINES

When determining what a child's guidelines will be if committed to DJJ for an indeterminate sentence, refer to the Parole Guidelines Grid on the following page.

The Parole Guidelines Computation Sheet, which can be found following the Parole Guidelines Grid, will take you through the process.

1. You need to know exactly what charges the child is being adjudicated for at the present hearing, as well as all the charges for which the child has been adjudicated in the past.
2. Refer to the chart of "Offense Codes Sorted by Category" and find the category for the most serious, present, pending charge for which the child is being adjudicated - that will determine the CATEGORY on the left side of the grid.
3. Refer to the Point Assignments for Other Adjudications - each category is allocated a number of points.
 - a. Add up all the points for any other adjudications for the present hearing and all the adjudications in the child's history.
 - b. Use the Conversion Table to come up with a number 0-6. That determines where you come down from the top of the grid.

Remember, these are just GUIDELINES! The Parole Board or DJJ, depending on the committing offenses, determines when the child is released.

Sample from Chart of OFFENSE CODES SORTED BY CATEGORY  Changes may be made to the offense categories periodically by DJJ or the Parole Board at their discretion.

DJJ POLICIES & PROCEDURES

AGENCY OVERVIEW

The South Carolina Department of Juvenile Justice (DJJ), a state cabinet agency, is responsible for providing rehabilitation and custodial care for the state's children who are on probation, incarcerated, on parole, or in community placement for a criminal or status offense. DJJ is organized within four divisions and four offices. The following information highlights the agency's responsibilities and organizational structure.

Note: The information in this section was obtained from the DJJ website June 2019 (with non-substantive editorial changes). Internal agency policies are subject to change. If you have a question concerning a particular policy, it is advised that you confirm its current content with a DJJ representative or the DJJ website.

DIVISION OF COMMUNITY SERVICES

DJJ's Division of Community Services is responsible for a wide range of direct services to youth and their families, as well as victims of crime, in the community across the state. Among these services are programs and initiatives aimed at providing effective supervision of youth in the least restrictive environment, who are on probation or parole and support for their families, with the goals of reducing juvenile crime and recidivism, and providing for safer communities.

Field Services

DJJ provides services to juveniles and their families in the community through 43 DJJ county offices, servicing all 46 counties in the state. Community case managers are involved with juveniles from the moment they enter the system until they complete probation and/or parole. The county staff conduct detention screenings and intake interviews, complete risk /needs assessments; and make recommendations to the family court for disposition. Case managers also coordinate case diversion, supervise juveniles on probation or parole, and participate in prevention initiatives.

Community Justice

The primary focus of the Office of Community Justice is to develop a continuum of effective programmatic initiatives that lead to creating a restorative justice system for all who are impacted by juvenile crime -- juveniles, their families, and victims. Programs coordinated through this office include:

- Juvenile Arbitration - provides a statewide network of community-based programs that successfully divert first-time juvenile offenders charged with committing non-violent criminal offenses
- Prevention and Intervention Services - partners with the family court system, schools, and local organizations throughout South Carolina to develop and implement a variety of delinquency prevention and intervention initiatives for at-risk youth, such as eliminating truancy
- Victim Services - offers a variety of services, ranging from contacting victims (prior to making recommendations to the Solicitor's Office) to informing victims of any post-adjudicatory hearings. Victims Services seeks to give victims a sense of justice, as well as to assist them in the recovery process
- Interstate Compact Services - arranges for supervision of delinquent juveniles who move to or from South Carolina

- Placement Services - offers educational, therapeutic, and social skills development sessions in a highly supervised and structured environment. This includes wilderness camps, marine institutes, and multiagency private providers (group homes)

DIVISION OF REHABILITATIVE SERVICES

DJJ's Division of Rehabilitative Services operates three long-term campuses, providing juveniles committed by the family courts with around-the-clock custodial care and individualized treatment/rehabilitation programs and services.

Each campus provides:

- education services through an independent school district
- psychological and social work services by licensed clinical staff
- medical, dental and mental health services by licensed practitioners
- psychiatric services by contracted licensed practitioners
- custodial care by certified correctional staff
- recreational activities by trained staff
- religious services by certified clinical chaplains

The Division of Rehabilitative service also supervises DJJ's front gate security and juvenile transportation.

The campuses providing supervision for committed juveniles are: Willow Lane Program for Girls, Birchwood, and John G. Richards (See Long-term Campuses).

DIVISION OF EDUCATIONAL SERVICES

All of the educational entities of the DJJ School System are organizations that provide education and treatment services in residential settings in South Carolina for adjudicated youth. DJJ provides these services to every county in the state and serves students according to the mandates of the judicial systems in the respective counties. The district is charged with serving a very fluid and transient population of youth in 15 separate sites. Schools are in session year-round (enabling students to make up absences and close learning gaps).

The DJJ school district is responsible for all educational programs operated by the agency, including those in private provider programs and alternative school sites in community residential placement facilities.

Juveniles committed to DJJ can earn either a high school diploma or a GED. DJJ's school district also offers students 10 CATE courses, extensive special education services, the nation's first Army JROTC and Communities in Schools (CIS) programs in a juvenile correctional facility setting, media centers, career development centers, and guidance counselors.

DJJ operates its own independent school district. The school district consists of one long-term facility and three regional evaluation centers, one detention center and ten satellite programs. These school sites provide education for approximately 700 students in grades 6-12. All schools provide basic academic classes and courses necessary to earn a high school diploma. The General Equivalency Development (GED) Program is also provided for juveniles selected as appropriate candidates.

DIVISION OF ADMINISTRATIVE SERVICES

DJJ's Division of Administrative Services provides a broad array of services to agency personnel that are the underpinning for the day-to-day operations of the agency.

DIVISION OF PLANNING AND PROGRAMS

DJJ's Division of Planning and Programs helps to further DJJ's efforts to strategically plan for growth. This division also provides DJJ staff with the latest, most up-to-date research and statistical information to help them effectively manage the agency's resources and deliver services of the highest quality.

OFFICE OF THE INSPECTOR GENERAL

DJJ's Office of the Inspector General (OIG) is responsible for numerous safety services for employees and juveniles, as well as criminal investigations and management reviews. The Event Reporting Management Information System (ERMIS), a state-of-the-art computer system managed by the OIG, ensures the comprehensive tracking, reporting, and managing of events occurring within the agency on a statewide basis 24 hours a day, 7 days a week. The OIG also makes monthly reports of specific events to SLED.

DETENTION & EVALUATION CENTERS

JUVENILE DETENTION CENTER

LONG-TERM COMMITMENT INSTITUTION

BROAD RIVER ROAD COMPLEX (BRRC) 4900 Broad River Road, Columbia, SC 29212

The BRRC in Columbia is the agency's long-term commitment facility. The more than 200-acre complex is paramount in DJJ's mission of protecting the public and reclaiming juveniles in the least restrictive environment.

The secure facility offers programs for boys and girls of all backgrounds and needs, including programs for kids with special needs, youth sex offenders, and those struggling with substance abuse.

BRRC is also home to the Communities in Schools (CIS) program, one of the first in the nation in a juvenile correctional setting. DJJ's fully accredited school district provides continued education for juveniles, preparing students for post-secondary education. Birchwood School is where boys and girls attend middle and high school.

This campus houses the Systemic Treatment for Aggression Replacement program (STAR) and DJJ's Junior Reserve Officer Training Corps (JROTC) program, a cooperative effort between DJJ's school district and the U.S. Army.

Female juveniles at BRRC live in the Willow Lane Transition House, which incorporates transitional living into the rehabilitative process.

JUVENILE RECORDS

JUVENILE RECORDS OVERVIEW

CONFIDENTIALITY OF COURT AND DJJ RECORDS

The court is required to keep records of every case involving a child who comes before the family court. DJJ also gathers information and prepares records regarding each child. All of these records are confidential and can only be disclosed to the judge, the child's attorney, someone who needs access to the records in order to defend against an action initiated by the child, and to those with a legitimate interest who obtain a court order. §§ 63-19-2010, 2020(A).

AUTHORIZED RELEASE OF INFORMATION BY DJJ

- Reports and recommendations produced by DJJ for the court's consideration at a dispositional hearing must be provided to the court, the solicitor, and the child's attorney by DJJ. § 63-19-2020(D).
- DJJ must notify the principal of a school in which a child is enrolled, intends to be enrolled, or was last enrolled upon final disposition of a case in which the child is charged with certain listed offenses. Each school is responsible for developing a policy to keep such information confidential. § 63-19-2020(E).

PHOTOGRAPHS

A child charged with any offense may be photographed by the law enforcement agency that takes the child into custody. If the child is detained, the detention facility must photograph the child upon admission. These photographs may only be disseminated for criminal justice purposes or to assist the Missing Persons Information Center in locating or identifying a missing or runaway child. § 63-19-2030(F).

FINGERPRINTS

- A child charged with an offense that would carry a maximum term of imprisonment of five years or more if committed by an adult must be fingerprinted by the law enforcement agency that takes the child into custody. If the child is detained, the detention facility must fingerprint the child upon admission. § 63-19-2030(G).

- A child's fingerprints and any SLED records regarding the fingerprints must not be disclosed for any purpose not specifically authorized by law or court order. § 63-19-2030(K).
- Upon notification that a child has not been adjudicated delinquent for an offense that would carry a maximum term of imprisonment of five years or more if committed by an adult, SLED and the law enforcement agency who took the child into custody must destroy the fingerprints and all records created as a result of such information. § 63-19-2030(L).

RELEASE OF INFORMATION TO NEWSPAPER, TV OR RADIO STATION

The name, identity, or picture of a child under the court's jurisdiction must not be provided to a newspaper, radio station, or television station unless:

- authorized by court order;

- the child has been bound over to adult court; or
- the child has been adjudicated delinquent for:
 - a violent crime;
 - grand larceny of a motor vehicle;
 - a crime involving a weapon; or
 - unlawful drug distribution or trafficking. § 63-19-2040(A).

EXPUNGEMENT OF JUVENILE RECORDS

Expungement is the destruction of a juvenile's official records relating to being taken into custody, the charges filed against the child, the adjudication, and the disposition. A person wishing to have his juvenile record expunged must petition the court for an order of expungement. If an expungement order is granted, that person's records must be destroyed or retained by any law enforcement, municipal, county, or state agency pursuant to § 17-1-40. § 63-19-2050(D).

The effect of an expungement order is to "restore the person in the contemplation of the law to the status he occupied before being taken into custody." Once the court grants a person an order of expungement, the person may not be found guilty of perjury or giving false statement for failing to acknowledge the charge or adjudication in response to an inquiry made of the person for any purpose. §63-19-2050(E).

ELIGIBILITY REQUIREMENTS

Anyone seeking to have his juvenile record expunged:

- must be at least 18;
- must have successfully completed any court-ordered sentence;
- must be free of any subsequent adjudications or convictions of a criminal offense; and
- must be free of any pending criminal charges. § 63-19-2050(C)(3).

If the person was found not guilty in an adjudicatory hearing, the court shall grant the expungement order regardless of the person's age and the person must not be charged a fee. § 63-19-2050(C)(3).

The granting of the expungement order for eligible offenses is discretionary with the judge except in cases where the person has been found not guilty in an adjudicatory hearing or where the person is petitioning the court regarding a single status offense. § 63-19-2050(C)(1), (3).

RESTRICTIONS

- No person under 18 may petition the court to have his juvenile record expunged. However, this age restriction does not apply if the person has been found not guilty in an adjudicatory hearing. § 63-19-2050(C)(3).
- No one who has a prior adjudication for an offense that would carry a maximum term of imprisonment of five years or more if committed by an adult may petition the court to have his juvenile record expunged. § 63-19-2050(A)(2).
- An adjudication for a violent crime cannot be expunged. § 63-19-2050(C)(3).

EXPUNGEMENT APPLICATION PROCESS

The Motion and Order for the Expungement of Juvenile Arrest Records (SCCA 492) and Motion and Order for the Expungement of Juvenile Arrest Records – Not Guilty (SCCA 492NG) were approved for use in the family courts by order of Chief Justice Toal in July 2015. These forms are available on the South Carolina Judicial Department website at www.sccourts.org.

Except with a finding of not guilty (see below), the following steps must be taken to expunge a person's juvenile records:

1. The applicant will apply to the solicitor in the circuit in which the offense(s) was committed.
2. The applicant must pay the following amounts to the solicitor in the form of separate certified checks or money orders:
 - a non-refundable administrative fee of $250.00 made payable to the solicitor,
 - a non-refundable SLED verification fee of $25.00 made payable to SLED, when applicable,
 - a filing fee of $35.00 made payable to the county clerk of court, when applicable.
3. The solicitor will send the application to the Department of Juvenile Justice (DJJ) and DJJ will return the application to the solicitor, either granting or denying approval.
4. If the application is approved by DJJ, the solicitor will send the application to SLED in order to verify that the offense is eligible for expungement, as provided by the South Carolina Code of Laws.
5. SLED will return the application to the solicitor and indicate if the offense(s) is eligible for expungement.
6. If the offense is deemed eligible by SLED, the solicitor will obtain all necessary signatures, including the signature of the family court judge.

7. Once the order is signed by the family court judge, the solicitor will file the order with the clerk of court.
8. The solicitor will provide copies of the expungement order to all pertinent governmental agencies as well as the applicant or the applicant's attorney.
9. A prosecution or law enforcement agency may file an objection to the expungement. If an objection is filed, the expungement must be heard by the court. The prosecution or law enforcement agency's reason for objecting must be that the person has other charges pending or the charges are not eligible for expungement. The prosecution or law enforcement agency shall notify the person of the objection. The notice must be given in writing at the most current address on file with the court, or through the person's counsel of record.

EXPUNGEMENT APPLICATION PROCESS UPON FINDING OF NOT GUILTY IN AN ADJUDICATORY HEARING

1. The applicant will apply to the solicitor in the circuit in which the offense(s) was committed.
2. The applicant must not be charged a fee for the expungement.
3. The solicitor will obtain all necessary signatures, including the signature of the family court judge.
4. Once the order is signed by the family court judge, the solicitor will file the order with the clerk of court.
5. The solicitor will provide copies of the expungement order to all pertinent governmental agencies as well as the applicant or the applicant's attorney.

COMPETENCY

OVERVIEW

Due process requires that a defendant be competent to stand trial, which includes capacity to sufficiently understand the nature of the proceedings and to assist counsel in his defense. In Drope v. Missouri, 420 U.S. 162 (1975), the Court held that “[a] person whose mental condition is such that he lacks the capacity to understand the nature and object of the proceedings against him, to consult with counsel and to assist in preparing his defense may not be subjected to trial.” State v. Bell, 360 S.E.2d 706 (S.C. 1987).

Adjudicative competence is usually raised at the pretrial stage of delinquency proceedings, but it can be raised at any point in the proceedings, including post-trial.

STANDARD FOR ADJUDICATIVE COMPETENCE

In Dusky v. United States, the Court adopted the standard for competence to stand trial which is followed across the country: whether the defendant “has sufficient present ability to consult with his lawyer with a reasonable degree of rational understanding - and whether he has a rational as well as factual understanding of the proceedings against him.” Dusky v. United States, 362 U.S. 402 (1960); cited in State v. Reed, 503 S.E.2d 747 (S.C. 1998), State v. Hill, 604 S.E.2d 696 (S.C. 2004).

In Godinez v. Moran, 509 U.S. 389 (1993), the Court held that the competency standard for pleading guilty (or waiving the right to counsel) is the same as the competency standard for standing trial established in Dusky.

ELEMENTS OF COMPETENCE TO STAND TRIAL - Excerpted from the National Juvenile Defender Center’s “Toward Developmentally Appropriate Practice: A Juvenile Court Training Curriculum.”

Analyses of competence to stand trial in individual cases typically require information related to two major elements of competence as provided in definitions. These are abilities related to “factual understanding” and abilities related to “rational understanding.”

1. Abilities related to “factual understanding” and “rational understanding” of the trial process.
 - a. Factual understanding refers to the youth’s basic understanding of the nature of the proceedings, including:
 - Nature and seriousness of the charges
 - The purpose of a trial process and possible penalties
 - Possible pleas, and the nature of plea agreements
 - The role of various participants in the process, especially defense counsel and, including, the youth himself as the defendant
 - Rights of the youth throughout the process
 - b. Rational understanding (sometimes called “appreciation” of the significance of what one factually understands) refers to the youth’s ability to apply this information in a manner that does not impair decision making. Several reasons for limitations often seen in youth’s rational understanding may be relevant:
 - Understanding is often limited by the youth’s auditory and visual processing problems.

- Immaturity may impair some youth’s abilities to perceive risks of various decisions realistically, to weigh their long-range consequences, or to decide autonomously rather than on the basis of perceptions of their peers.
 - Mental disorders that may distort or “override” factual understanding (for example, if they involve beliefs that distort the youth’s perceptions of the significance of the trial process).
2. Abilities associated with assisting counsel.
- a. Abilities associated with communication and trust. For example:
- Ability to comprehend counsel’s inquiries
 - Ability to discern what is relevant to counsel’s inquiry
 - Ability to articulate the relevant information related to counsel’s inquiry
- b. Must be able to manage the demands of trial process. For example:
- Must be able to endure stress of trial
 - Must be able to maintain demeanor
 - Must be able to testify relevantly, if necessary
3. The role of decision-making ability. Deficits in abilities to make autonomous decisions may arise because of problems related to immaturity in all of the above areas. They may also arise due to an inability to understand factually or to apply the information rationally to one’s case. Any of these may reduce the youth’s ability to assist counsel. Thus, an examination of the youth’s ability to use information in a decision-making process is especially important.

Thinking about a youth’s competence to stand trial requires three broad considerations.

1. Functional abilities. What does the youth actually know, or what can the youth actually do, that is related to the factual and rational understanding components of competence to stand trial?

2. Causal explanation. If the youth has deficits in relevant functional abilities, what is their cause?
- a. The causes may be disabilities, immature cognitive or psychosocial development, intellectual disabilities, or mental disorders.
 - b. The mere presence of deficits together with one of these possible causes is not sufficient for the analysis. One must show a logical connection between the deficits and the presumed cause.
3. Situational factors. Are the demands of the youth’s trial situation such that the deficits are sufficiently significant to warrant a finding of incompetence? Not all delinquency proceedings are alike in their demands. Certain delinquency proceedings may require the youth to understand and appreciate different concepts.

COMPETENCY EVALUATION

Authorization for Evaluation

Judges have a duty to order a competency examination if there is reason to believe that a person charged with a criminal offense is not fit to stand trial. Section 44-23-410 provides for pretrial evaluations of a juvenile’s competence to stand trial as follows:

When a family court judge has reason to believe a juvenile is unable to understand the nature of the proceedings against him or to assist in his defense due to lack of mental capacity, he or she shall order a competency evaluation:

- by two examiners designated by DMH, if the juvenile is believed to have a mental illness;
- by two examiners designated by DDSN if the juvenile is believed to have intellectual disability or a related disability; or

- by examiners from each agency, if the juvenile is believed to have both mental illness and intellectual disability or a related disability.

 The judge also has the option of committing the juvenile to a DMH or DDSN facility for up to 15 days for “examination and observation.” § 44-23-410(A)(2).

If the DMH examiners find indications of intellectual disability or a related disability but not mental illness, DMH shall inform the court that the juvenile is “not mentally ill” and should be evaluated by DDSN instead of DMH. Likewise, if the DDSN examiners find indications of mental illness but not intellectual disability or a related disability, DDSN shall inform the court that the juvenile does “not have intellectual disability” and should be evaluated for competency to stand trial by DMH instead of DDSN. If either DMH or DDSN finds a preliminary indication of dual diagnosis of mental illness and intellectual disability or a related disability, this must be reported to the court with a recommendation that one DMH examiner and one DDSN examiner be designated to further evaluate the juvenile and render a final report on the juvenile’s mental capacity. §44-23-410(D).

Despite the mandatory language of § 44-23-410, the ordering of a competency examination is within the judge’s discretion, and absent a clear showing of an abuse of this discretion, a refusal to grant an examination will not be disturbed on appeal. State v. Singleton, 472 S.E.2d 640 (S.C. App. 1996).

The juvenile may also arrange for his own examination by an independent examiner. § 44-23-410(C).

SCCA487 - Order for Competency to Stand Trial Evaluation can be found on the South Carolina Judicial website.

Time Requirements

The evaluation is to be conducted within thirty days of receipt of the court's order. § 44-23-

410(A)(1). The court may commit the juvenile to a DMH or DDSN facility for up to 15 days for “examination and observation.” § 44-23-410(A)(2). DMH or DDSN may apply for an extension of up to 15 more days to complete the examination or the “examination and observation” if necessary. § 44-23-410(B).

Evaluation Report

The examiners are required to issue a written report to the court:

- within 10 days of the examination under § 44-23-410(A)(1), or
- at the conclusion of the observation period under § 44-23-410(A)(2).

The report shall include:

- a diagnosis of the juvenile’s mental condition; and
- clinical findings regarding whether or not the juvenile is capable of understanding the proceedings against him and assisting in his own defense, and if not, whether there is a substantial probability that he will attain that capacity in the foreseeable future. § 44-23-420(A).

The report shall not contain any findings regarding insanity unless further examination on the question of insanity is ordered by the court. § 44-23-420(B).

COMPETENCY HEARING (BLAIR HEARING)

Upon receiving the evaluation report from the designated examiners, the court is required to set a date for a competency hearing and provide the juvenile and his attorney with notice of the hearing. § 44-23-430. See also State v. Blair, 273 S.E.2d 536 (1981).

The examination report is admissible as evidence in the competency hearing under § 44-23-420(C), and it is a statutory exception to the rule against hearsay. State v. Franklin, 456 S.E.2d 357 (1995). However, in Hudgins v. Moore, 524 S.E.2d 105 (S.C. 1999), the court stated that information in a court-ordered mental health examination is inadmissible “for purposes other than that ordered by the court." (citing State v. Myers, 67 S.E.2d 506 (1951)); See also State v. Thompson, 495 S.E.2d 437 (1998) (attorney-client privilege prohibits use of defendant's communications to a mental health expert for impeachment).

Finding that juvenile is fit to stand trial

If the court finds the juvenile fit to stand trial, the delinquency proceedings resume. § 44-23-430. It is important to note, however, that if at any subsequent point in the proceedings, the court has reason to question the juvenile's ability to understand the proceedings or assist counsel in his defense, the issue of competency may be revisited.

Finding that juvenile is unfit and unlikely to become fit to stand trial in the foreseeable future

If the court finds the juvenile unfit to stand trial and unlikely to become fit to stand trial in the foreseeable future, the solicitor is required to initiate judicial admission proceedings within 14 days excluding weekends and holidays, during which time the court may order the juvenile hospitalized or continued in detention if already detained. §44-23-430(2).

Finding that juvenile is unfit but likely to become fit to stand trial in the foreseeable future

If the court finds the juvenile unfit to stand trial but likely to become fit to stand trial in the foreseeable future, the court shall order him hospitalized up to an additional 60 days. If the juvenile is found to be unfit at the conclusion of the additional period of treatment, the solicitor shall initiate judicial admission proceedings within 14 days, excluding weekends and holidays, during which time the juvenile shall remain hospitalized. §44-23-430(3).

A finding of unfitness to stand trial:

- "does not preclude any legal objection to the prosecution of the [juvenile] which is susceptible of fair determination prior to trial" and without the defendant's participation. § 44-23-440.
- may be reexamined at any time on the motion of the court or either party. § 44-23-450.

DISCHARGE FOLLOWING CIVIL COMMITMENT

When the hospital determines a juvenile with pending charges no longer requires hospitalization, the family court shall be notified and shall conduct a new hearing on the juvenile's fitness to stand trial. If the court finds the juvenile remains unfit to stand trial, it must order the juvenile's release from the hospital. If the court finds the juvenile fit to stand trial, it may order that delinquency proceedings be resumed, or dismiss the charges and order the juvenile released. § 44-23-460.

COMPETENCY CASE LAW

Dusky v. United States, 362 U.S. 402 (1960).

In Dusky, the Court adopted the legal standard of competence that asks whether the defendant “has sufficient present ability to consult with a lawyer with a reasonable degree of rational understanding and whether he has a rational as well as factual understanding of the proceeding against him.” (cited in State v. Reed, 503 S.E.2d 747 (S.C. 1998), State v. Hill, 604 S.E.2d 696 (S.C. 2004)).

Drope v. Missouri, 420 U.S. 162 (1975).

In Drope v. Missouri, the Court held that a person “whose mental condition is such that he lacks the capacity to understand the nature and object of the proceedings against him, to consult with counsel, and to assist in preparing his defense may not be subjected to a trial.”

Jeter v. State, 417 S.E.2d 594 (S.C. 1992).

The court held that due process prohibits the conviction of a person who is mentally incompetent (citing Bishop v. United States, 350 U.S. 961 (1956)).

State v. Blair, 273 S.E.2d 536 (S.C. 1981).

Blair established that defendant is entitled to a pretrial hearing on competency to stand trial (Blair Hearing).

State v. Lambert, 225 S.E.2d 340 (S.C. 1976),

The Lambert Court held that the test of competency to enter a plea is the same as required to stand trial.

State v. Reed, 503 S.E.2d 747 (S.C. 1998).

State v. Locklair, 535 S.E.2d 420 (2000).

In State v. Locklair, the court held that the decision of whether to order a competency examination rests in the trial judge’s discretion, and the trial judge’s decision will not be overturned on appeal absent a clear showing of an abuse of that discretion. See also § 44-23-410.

JUVENILE CONFESSIONS

JUVENILE CONFESSIONS

ADMISSIBILITY OF JUVENILE CONFESSIONS

Generally, a child's confession is admissible as evidence in juvenile delinquency proceedings as long as it was given freely and voluntarily. In Bram v. United States, 168 U.S. 532 (1897), the Court held that the Fifth Amendment protection against self-incrimination requires that a confession be made voluntarily to be admissible. Also, the Fourteenth Amendment prohibits states from persuading a person to confess through insincere sympathy, imprisonment or threats of imprisonment, or other like forms of persuasion. The Bram Court stated that a confession is inadmissible unless made freely and voluntarily; that is: "(it) must not be extracted by any sort of threats or violence, nor obtained by any direct or implied promises, however slight, nor by the exertion of any improper influence." 168 U.S. at 542-543.

MIRANDA RIGHTS AND WARNINGS

In Miranda v. Arizona, the Court required procedural safeguards to protect the rights of an accused person to be free from compelled self-incrimination when being questioned while in custody. The Miranda Court held that:

[W]hen an individual is taken into custody or otherwise deprived of his freedom by the authorities in any significant way and is subjected to questioning, the privilege against self-incrimination is jeopardized. Procedural safeguards must be employed to protect the privilege and...the following measures are required. He must be warned prior to any questioning that he has the right to remain silent, that anything he says can be used against him in a court of law, that he has the right to the presence of an attorney, and that if he cannot afford an attorney one will be appointed for him prior to any questioning if he so desires. Opportunity to exercise these rights must be afforded to him throughout the interrogation. After such warnings have been given, and such opportunity afforded him, the individual may knowingly and intelligently waive these rights and agree to answer questions or make a statement. But unless and until such warnings and waiver are demonstrated by the prosecution at trial, no evidence obtained as a result of interrogation can be used against him. Miranda v. Arizona, 384 U.S. 436, 478-479 (1966).

VOLUNTARINESS

In Gallegos v. Colorado, 370 U.S. 49 (1962), the Court recognized that youth may fear police or give greater deference to authority than adults, that they are more susceptible to suggestions than adults, and that an assessment of "voluntariness" requires close scrutiny to ensure that youth are not coerced. However, in Colorado v. Connelly, 479 U.S. 157 (1986), the Court held that absent police coercion, a defendant's mental state alone would not make a confession involuntary. The Court has never addressed the circumstances under which police conduct that would not be coercive for adults might be coercive with adolescents. Weighing voluntariness requires a "totality of circumstances" analysis involving the conditions of the waiver situation and the characteristics of the youth.

Totality of Circumstances Test

When reviewing whether a child knowingly waived his Miranda rights and made a voluntary confession, the court should consider the totality of the circumstances standard which is applicable to adults. In In re Williams, 217 S.E.2d 719 (S.C. 1975), the court recognized the "totality of circumstances test" to determine the admissibility of a statement or confession of a minor and held that "[w]hile the age of the individual is a factor to be taken into consideration, the admissibility of a statement or confession of a minor depends upon its voluntariness, to be determined from the totality of the circumstances under which it is made." 217 S.E.2d at 722. In Williams, the court espoused the general rule established by People v. Laura, 432 P.2d 202, 215 (Cal. 1967) that "a minor has the capacity to make a voluntary confession, without the presence or consent of counsel or other responsible adult, and the admissibility of such a confession depends not on his age alone but on a combination of that factor with such other circumstances as his intelligence, education, experience, and ability to comprehend the meaning and effect of his statement." Williams, 217 S.E.2d at 722.

Analyzing the Totality of Circumstances- Excerpted from the National Juvenile Defender Center's "Toward Developmentally Appropriate Practice: A Juvenile Court Training Curriculum." See the full Curriculum for further explanation and examples.

Analysis must consider two types of information: capacities of the youth, and circumstances of the interrogation.

1. Current capacities of the youth, including:
 - a. Functional abilities. These include the specific capacities, skills, and abilities relevant to each of the areas of the legal standard being evaluated; including:
 - Ability to comprehend Miranda warnings (e.g., knowing that he can have a defense attorney to advise him at the time he decides whether or not to waive Miranda rights).

- Ability to grasp the significance of rights in the context of the legal process (e.g., knowing what a defense attorney is and the role he plays in relation to the youth and the legal process).
 - Ability to process information in arriving at a decision about waiver (e.g., ability to put the information together to reach a decision independently).
- b. Causal factors. This includes information about the youth's mental condition that would explain any deficits in functional abilities to understand Miranda rights. "Causal" explanations can include cognitive or developmental deficits, emotional disturbances and mental disorders, learning disabilities, mental retardation [intellectual disability], and/or immaturity.
2. Circumstances at the time of the interrogation, including:
 - a. Information about the mental and physical conditions of the youth at the time of the Miranda waiver (which may be different from mental condition at the time of the evaluation of the youth's capacities).
 - b. Details about the chronological history of events leading up to and during the presentation of the Miranda warnings.
 - c. Information about all persons present during the events as well as their roles and behaviors, and precisely how the warnings were presented.
 3. Interaction of abilities and situational demands. Given these two types of information, the analysis must consider the abilities of the youth in the context of the demands of the interrogation.

FACTORS TO CONSIDER WHEN DETERMINING VOLUNTARINESS

Factors that should be considered when determining the voluntariness of a child's confession include:

- the child's age, intelligence, education, background, prior experience with police, mental capacity, and physical condition at the time of questioning;
- the legality and duration of the detention;
- the length of questioning; and
- any physical or mental abuse by police, including the existence of threats or promises.

ADMISSIBILITY OF STATEMENTS MADE BY CHILD HELD IN ILLEGAL CUSTODY

"The fruit of the poisonous tree doctrine holds that where evidence would not have come to light but for the illegal actions of the police, and the evidence has been obtained by the exploitation of that illegality, the evidence must be excluded." State v. Plath, 284 S.E.2d 221, 226 (1981) (citing Wong Sun v. United States, 371 U.S. 471 (1963)), overruled on other grounds by State v. Short, 511 S.E.2d 358 (1999). However, the fruit of the poisonous tree doctrine will not apply to a confession if it is freely and voluntarily given, even if the arrest was illegal." Id. at 226.

In State v. Funchess, 179 S.E. 2d 25 (S.C. 1971), the court held that "every statement or confession made by a person in custody as the result of an illegal arrest, is not involuntary and inadmissible, but the facts and circumstances surrounding such arrest and the in-custody statement should be considered in determining whether the statement is voluntary and admissible. Voluntariness remains as the test of admissibility." Id. at 28.

JACKSON V. DENNO HEARING

Jackson v. Denno, 378 U.S. 368 (1964), established that a defendant is entitled to a pre-trial hearing on the question of voluntariness of a confession. However, due process does not require a separate hearing as to the voluntariness of a statement or confession absent a proper objection to the admission of such statement or confession. The Jackson v. Denno Court held that the defendant had a constitutional right at some stage in the proceedings to object to the use of a confession and was entitled to a fair hearing in which both underlying factual issues and voluntariness of confession are actually and reliably determined.

At a pretrial hearing concerning the suppression of a statement, the state has the burden of proving, based on the totality of the circumstances surrounding the statement, that the statement was voluntary. Voluntariness must be proven by a preponderance of the evidence. State v. Smith, 234 S.E.2d 19 (S.C. 1977).

U.S. SUPREME COURT DECISIONS

Miranda v Arizona, 384 U.S. 436 (1966): A criminal suspect has constitutional rights to avoid self-incrimination and to advice of counsel prior to and during custodial interrogations. Unless the suspect has made a "knowing and intelligent" waiver of these rights, his or her statements may not be used in subsequent delinquency or criminal proceedings.

J.D.B. v. North Carolina, 131 S. Ct. 2394 (2011):

Age is a factor to be considered in determining whether an individual is "in custody."

In re Gault, 387 U.S. 1 (1967): Juveniles have the same constitutional privilege against self-incrimination and right to counsel as adults.

Juveniles' confessions require special scrutiny. (Fare v. Michael C., 442 U.S. 707 (1979); Gallegos v. Colorado, 370 U.S. 49 (1962), Haley v. Ohio, 332 U.S. 596 (1948).

INTERSTATE COMPACT FOR JUVENILES

INTERSTATE COMPACT FOR CHILDREN ---

The Interstate Compact for Juveniles (ICJ) is a legal agreement between the states that regulates the interstate movement of children.

ICJ APPLICABILITY

The Interstate Compact for Juveniles applies when children:

- have run away from home and left their state of residence without permission;
- are under court supervision on probation, parole, and have absconded to another state;
- have been accused of an offense in another state;
- are in need of institutionalization or special services in another state; and/or
- require probation/parole supervision services when they relocate to another state.

South Carolina adopted the new Interstate Compact for Juveniles law, which was enacted nationally in 2008, replacing the original 1955 compact. Working through DJJ's ICJ Commissioner/Coordinator, DJJ staff complete the standardized ICJ paperwork and follow compact procedures to ensure the proper supervision of juveniles across state lines, coordinating their transport or return to the home state, and if necessary their detention. (See § 63-19-2220.)

ICJ'S BENEFITS

The compact is overseen by the national Interstate Commission for Juveniles. Its goals are to preserve child welfare and promote public safety, victim's rights, enhanced juvenile accountability and safety, and enforcement of protocols and communication among commission members. ICJ strengths are that it opens communication between participating states and establishes a uniform system of data collection and forms pertaining to a juvenile's movement and supervision across state lines. The compact ensures that solicitors, judges, and other juvenile justice professionals involved in the process have a consistent approach to working with these juveniles. The individual members work cooperatively in the administration and management of the program.

ICJ WEBSITE

Additional information on the Interstate Compact for Juveniles, including required and optional forms, as well as a complete list of the ICJ Rules, can be found at <http://www.juvenilecompact.org/>.

 The Benchbook for Judges and Court Personnel is also an excellent resource that can be accessed on the ICJ website. It provides a detailed overview of the ICJ rules.

SC CONTACT INFORMATION

Your local DJJ representatives are trained on the interstate compact and should be able to handle any situation involving a child who comes under the ICJ.

MEDIA ISSUES

RIGHT OF ACCESS TO COURT PROCEEDINGS BY THE PRESS

The “free press” right of access to court proceedings claim is generally based upon the First and Fourteenth Amendments to the United States Constitution and Section 2, Article I of the South Carolina Constitution which prohibit the making of laws which would diminish the freedom of the press.

- The First Amendment to the United States Constitution provides that “Congress shall make no law...abridging the freedom of...the press” (made applicable to the states by the 14 Amendment).
- Section 2, Article I of the South Carolina Constitution provides that the “General Assembly shall make no law... abridging the freedom of ...the press.”
- Section 9, Article I of the SC Constitution provides that “all courts shall be public.”

While Section 9, Article I of the South Carolina Constitution provides that “all courts shall be public,” state law provides that the “general public must be excluded [from hearings involving cases of children] and only persons the judge finds to have a direct interest in the case or in the work of the court may be admitted.” § 63-3-590.

In Ex parte Columbia Newspapers, 333 S.E. 2d 337 (S.C. 1985), the court held that Article I, § 9 does not render § 63-3-590 unconstitutional. The court found that “the public, which includes the press, has a right of access to juvenile court proceedings subject to a balancing of interests with the parties involved.” The court also held that if a judge’s decision to close any court proceeding is challenged by the public or the press, it must be supported by findings explaining the balancing of interests and the need for closure of the proceeding. (See also, Steinle v. Lollis, 307 S.E.2d 230 (S.C. 1983) – the right of access to court proceedings is not absolute but subject to a proper balancing of competing interests.)

A defendant who opposes the public’s right of access to court proceedings bears the burden of proof to justify closure. This is in line with the general rule that “[c]losed proceedings...must be rare and only for cause shown that outweighs the value of openness.” Ex parte The Island Packet, 417 S.E.2d 575 (S.C. 1992).

RELEASE OF INFORMATION TO NEWSPAPER, TV OR RADIO STATION

Section 63-19-2040(A) prohibits providing a newspaper or radio or television station with the name, identity, or picture of a child under the court’s jurisdiction unless:

- authorized by court order;
- the solicitor has petitioned the court to waive the child to circuit court;
- the child has been waived to adult court; or
- the child has been adjudicated delinquent for a violent crime, grand larceny of a motor vehicle; a crime in which a weapon was used; or distribution or trafficking in unlawful drugs.

JUVENILE JUSTICE CASE LAW

UNITED STATES SUPREME COURT CASES

Kent v. United States, 383 U.S. 541 (1966). Established that, in order to protect a child's constitutional rights, the child is entitled to a full hearing on the issues of waiver to adult court; assistance of counsel at the hearing; full access to social records used by the court to determine whether the child should be waived; and a statement of the reasons for any decision to waive jurisdiction to adult court.

In re Gault, 387 U.S. 1 (1967). Established that due process rights guaranteed by the Fifth, Sixth, and Fourteenth Amendments apply to juvenile court proceedings and that a juvenile has the right to adequate and timely notice of charges, the right to counsel, the right against self-incrimination, and the right to confront and cross-examine witnesses.

McKeiver v. Pennsylvania, 403 U.S. 528 (1971). Established that a child being adjudicated delinquent in juvenile court is not guaranteed the right to a jury trial.

Breed v. Jones, 421 U.S. 519 (1975). Established that the Double Jeopardy Clause of the Fifth Amendment prevents a juvenile who has been adjudicated delinquent in juvenile court from being subsequently tried in an adult court for the same offense.

Schall v. Martin, 467 U.S. 253 (1984). Established that preventive detention fulfills a legitimate state interest of protecting society and juveniles by detaining those who might be dangerous to society or to themselves.

Roper v. Simmons, 543 U.S. 551 (2005). Established that it is unconstitutional to impose capital punishment for crimes committed prior to a person's 18th birthday.

Graham v. Florida, 130 S.Ct. 2011 (2010). Juveniles cannot be sentenced to life without parole for nonhomicide offenses. While "a state need not guarantee the offender eventual release...it must provide...some realistic opportunity to obtain release before the end of that term."

Miller v. Alabama, 567 U.S. 460 (2012). Held that juveniles cannot be sentenced to life without parole for homicide crimes, where such a sentence is the only option. Mitigating factors must be taken into account before a juvenile can be sentenced to life without the possibility of parole.

J.D.B. v. North Carolina, 131 S. Ct. 2394 (2011).

Concluded that age is a factor to be considered in determining whether an individual is "in custody."

SOUTH CAROLINA SUPREME COURT CASES

In the Matter of Skinner, 249 S.E.2d 746 (S.C. 1978).

Established that the common law presumption that a child between the ages of seven and fourteen is rebuttably presumed incapable of committing a crime is inapplicable to family court proceedings. The practical effect is that there is no age limit for bringing a delinquency proceeding in family court.

In re Williams, 217 S.E.2d 719 (S.C. 1975).

Established that the absence of a parent, counsel, or other friendly adult does not make a statement given by a child to the police inadmissible. The admissibility of a statement given by a minor is based upon the “totality of the circumstances” to include such factors as age, intelligence, education, experience, and ability to comprehend the meaning and effect of the statement.

In Interest of Christopher W., 329 S.E.2d 769 (S.C. 1985).

Established that the voluntariness of a minor's inculpatory statement must be proved by preponderance of evidence.

State v. McCoy, 328 S.E.2d 620 (S.C. 1985).

State v. Sparkman, 339 S.E. 2d 865 (S.C. 1986).

Held that a person's juvenile record may be used in a subsequent court proceeding to impeach the person (as a defendant or witness) and at sentencing.

Ex parte Columbia Newspapers, Inc., 333 S.E.2d 337 (S.C. 1985).

Established that family court proceedings are open to the press unless the judge makes a specific finding justifying closure.
