Our student affiliate, Emily Farrell, had the opportunity to share her work on the Shift-working Investigation of Fasting and Timing (SHIFT) Study at the South Carolina Public Health Association Conference as a student oral presentation. Great job, Emily!

Dr. Michael Wirth and the SHIFT team are also looking for interested undergraduate and graduate students to assist in data analysis on dietary assessment of nurses working day and night shifts. For more information, please contact Dr. Wirth at wirthm@email.sc.edu.
Nutrition Consortium Director, Dr. Christine Blake, along with graduate students Morgan Boncyk, Sejla Isanovic, and Samin Sharraf, developed and produced a 3-day workshop in Bangladesh in collaboration with TAFSSA focused on methods and measurement of drivers of dietary choice.
The Student Nutrition Group (SNG) is back and meeting biweekly! The SNG seeks to expose students to a broad range of nutrition topics through professional development opportunities, speaker series, service opportunities, and chances to network with peers and professionals. Whether you are just looking to learn more about nutrition or planning on pursuing a career in nutrition, the SNG would love to have you. Join the GroupMe link below and email SOSNG@mailbox.sc.edu with any questions.

Access to fresh fruits and vegetables is disproportionate in rural communities across South Carolina, where residents are subject to lower wages, fewer healthcare options, and barriers to transportation. FoodShare partners with community-led organizations who help reduce financial and accessibility barriers by distributing Fresh Food Boxes. By making a financial gift to FoodShare we can continue to positively impact health outcomes across the city and state.
The 8th annual Agriculture, Nutrition & Health Academy Week will take place from June 19-30, 2023, online and in Lilongwe, Malawi. The program will feature online Learning Labs followed by a full hybrid conference in Lilongwe. Registration is open! See more information below.
